

NEW YORK CITY MARINE BAND CHAUTAUQUA FEATURE

There are over 250 bands in New York city playing in concert. Some are good bands and some are better, and about twenty of them have become famous throughout America. It can readily be seen that New York is somewhat of a "band city." But there is one band in New York that every one from the newsboy to the stockbroker on Wall street is proud to call New York's "best" band.

That band is the New York City Marine Band. It has played to music lovers for more than three generations and has remained through these long years the leading military band of New York city and the United States. At Newport, R. I., last summer over 10,000 people appeared on the beaches to hear the final concert of this great organization. It was a great day. The leader acceded to the demands of the people and played literally hundreds of selections for the music mad audience.

There have been good bands at Chautauqua before. But there has never been a band at any Chautauqua that will "put over" such music as the New York City Marine Band when it appears for two big concerts on "Band Day."

NEW ZEALAND HAS NEW BALLOT PLAN

In Tasmania and New Zealand next year the voter will vote for the man he wants most of all, regardless of whether that candidate will have any show or not. The voter will not throw his vote away by doing so. The minority is perfectly safe in voting for its candidate. Not only will that candidate be elected if he receives the "elective quota" or one-sixth plus one (in New Zealand), but he may gather in enough second choice votes from the popular candidates enjoying a surplus to secure the quota.

The minority will need less than a fifth in any district in New Zealand to seat a candidate in the upper house. The majority can obtain no more than its share. To get all five in a district it would have to cast over five-sixths of the total vote for a straight ticket—a thing impossible to accomplish in a constituency where every man knows his vote is effective even if marked "1" for a perfectly hopeless candidate.

In Oregon you may be opposed to the candidate running on the two big parties and would like to boost the minority party—say prohibitionist or socialist. You don't dare do it, for if you do you will throw away your vote. So you vote for the best of the two or more men most likely to be elected. That is misrepresentation at best. It is a choice of two evils.

Where you only have a choice of evils, evil must result. An effective ballot in Oregon, with a single house, would give us a representative legislature, and a body of men composed of the most capable and most honest in the community every time.

Such a legislature could be and would be trusted.

It would be an effective legislature.

The people of Australia in demanding an effective ballot are going to secure an effective government, of, for and by the people, in fact and in truth—in time.

extent among the people who have no children. It seems that dinner dances and roof gardens take the place of the home life and at the present rate it will not be long before almost a majority of the people in these cities occupy apartments. The result of this social trend is apparent, and many millions of dollars are being put into apartment house building to satisfy the increasing demand. Bankers and realty men tell me that the effect this movement has is a rapid decline in real estate values. If not an actual decline in value, then a handicap to the realty business, for the sale of the deserted property is extremely difficult.

Politics interested Mr. Hedges on his eastern sojourn, but so many other things presented themselves to him that he did not delve into the political situation as deeply as he might have done. However, Mr. Hedges says:

"Those with whom I discussed the national situation express confidence in the Wilson administration. These eastern people credit the prosperous tone throughout the east largely to President Wilson and the administration of affairs under him. There is strong approval on every side for the statesmanship of the president and for his conduct of the affairs of the nation."

New Association Meets

The newly organized Company G Relief association held a meeting this morning to outline a campaign for raising funds for the assistance of the dependents left by guardsmen who were called to the border.

THE FASHIONS

In the summer season, perhaps more than at any other time, it is the little things of dress which count in the wardrobe. The sheer lingerie frock gathers much of its charm from the bright girle, the touch of color at the throat, the well-fitting pump, or boot, dainty stockings and gloves and the wide-brimmed, becoming hat which completes it. Without these finishing touches, the frock itself might fall short of expectations.

Summer Footwear

Although the high laced boot was chic and becoming with the short tailored skirt, and is still a favorite in white canvas, buckskin, and the soft gray and tan leathers, the low shoe is much in demand. The old-time Colonial pump with huge buckle and more or less exaggerated tongue, according to personal fancy, is a general favorite. These are equally modish in the dull calf or bright patent leather. Another favorite in low shoes is the perfectly plain pump of calf or patent leather. This is made with a rather long vamp, and fits smoothly over the instep, being finished with a bow of leather, a small buckle, or no ornament at all. There is variety in heels also; the medium high heel is generally favored for street wear, the French heel for evening, and there is a comfortable and good looking low heel for those who do not care for the higher one for street wear. Sport shoes are particularly charming, being low of heel, broad of toe, and most comfortable as well as chic. There are rubber-soled and heeled canvas shoes, high and low, for tennis, golf and similar sports; substantial looking shoes for walking, mountain climbing and the more strenuous of out-of-door purposes. These come in tan or black

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SPRING VEGETABLES.

SPINACH AND NEW BEETS.—Pick over and wash one peck of spinach. Cook in an uncovered dish with a large quantity of boiling salted water in which has been dissolved one teaspoonful each of soda and sugar. When tender drain and put through a food chopper or chop in a chopping bowl. Season with butter, salt and vinegar if desired. Then mound on a hot platter and make a depression in the center. Fill with small, hot seasoned beets. A border of sliced hard cooked eggs may be arranged around the spinach.

Mustard Greens.—Quantity, half peck. Wash and pick over. Boil in salted hot water twenty-five minutes. Drain and add one large spoonful of butter, one teaspoonful of sugar, one tablespoonful of vinegar and saltspoonful of salt. Garnish with hard boiled egg, cut in slices.

Creamed Mushrooms.—Cut some slices of bread in rounds one-half inch thick, toast lightly, keep warm. Fry in butter some fresh mushrooms, adding a little cream. Season with salt and pepper, cover and simmer for ten minutes; then dress the mushrooms on the rounds of toast, one round on each individual plate, pyramid shape. Pour a little of the liquid over each, cover with bells of glass and bake twenty minutes.

Spinach.—Pick over carefully while dry, throw a few plants at a time into a large pan of cold water, wash well on both sides to dislodge insects and pass to another pan. They should have at least three separate washings. Put the spinach into a large kettle without water, set it on the stove where it will cook slowly till the juice is drawn; then boil till tender, drain and chop fine. For half a peck of spinach add one ounce of butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Reheat and serve on buttered toast.

and lend themselves to any appropriate out-of-door costume. For those who favor the flat-heeled, broad-toed shoe, on the Oxford type, which may be appropriately worn with the tailored suit or dress for street and business wear.

What's New in Neckwear
Neckwear is particularly interesting this summer. The various collars and jabots now modish offer limitless ways of changing or brightening up a frock or blouse.

Perhaps the very newest idea in neckwear is the shoulder cape of white, black, Java brown, or other favored shade, of crepe Georgette, trimmed with bands of ermine, beaver, or moleskin. The short-haired furs are preferred for these capes. While these novelties are a bit absurd, still, they are effective and becoming, and afford quite a bit of warmth in the evening over the sheer lingerie frock or the filmy dance dress.

The jabot frill of chiffon, net, picot-edged Georgette, or organdy, is an effective accessory with the tailored suit; it is worn oftentimes with the coat, and then again it is a part of the blouse. The jabot blouse is one of the popular models of the season.

There are attractive sets of Quaker collar and the various other models with cuffs to match, in lawn, organdy, crepe Georgette and net; many of them in the soft pastel tones so much favored this summer. These are worn with frocks of dark linen or serge, and with the tailored suit. Now and then one sees a becoming high stock with sports blouse or street frock, but the open throat is the rule, although both high and low collars are modish. In order to be smart, a high collar must fit perfectly, and be well adjusted.

Girdles and sashes are another means of introducing a bit of color contrast. These girdles and sashes are offered in great variety in the shops, and belts are once more coming into favor. With the trim tailored dress of serge or linen, the narrow, flat sash encircling the waist, crossing in back, and tying in front or at the side front, in a loose knot, is a great favorite. These sashes are usually made of the same material as the dress, or of satin. Ends are finished with a tassel or a bead design. For lingerie frocks and dance dresses the wide ribbon girle or the silk or satin sash is modish. Dresden ribbons, with the design worked out in metallic threads, are worn considerably with dance and evening dresses.

The strictly tailored suit is completed with a narrow leather belt, or a stitched belt of the material.

Buttons and buckles must not be forgotten in the summer scheme, for they are becoming daily more and more important. The dark serge frock has a row of satin-covered buttons, usually in a contrasting color, from collar to hem, or a row from shoulder to wrist. It is predicted for fall that we will wear buttons again, and that not only will they have the single line of buttons at the closing, but a double row.
