LOGAN

Wait until after the Fourth to cut hay is generally accepted as an infallible rule to have good weather, but we got left by it this time. The hay that was caught, which means the most of it, needs a running through a clothes wringer. This is a case where hay cabs save their cost in one crop, if the hay was cocked before the rain.

Mr. Carver has commenced the abutments for the Clear Creek bridge on the extension of his railroad and it looks as though the long expected event is coming sure. Hip hooray! with an elephant, a donkey, a moose and several tigers.

It appears to be a mistake that John Boss was taking his milk to the creamery to be skimmed. He takes skimmed milk which they use to make a starter to ripen the cream.

M. F. Bird, of Portland, was visiting relatives here last week. Mr. Bird is a brother of Mrs. P. A. Robinson and a native son of Clackamas county, having been born on the Bird homestead at Stafford. The visit took the writer back to pioneer days when "Doc" as he was called, and a certain long-legged youth with a faint resemblance to the reporter, were frequent champions at spelling matches and took a lively interest in debates; in editing and writing for the local papers, swimming in the Tualatin river and some other less innocent diversions, such as making life unpleasant for the great variety of teachers who had then.

H. W. Hagemann has a very thrifty looking young prune orchard. Geo. A. Kohl has his barn shut in from the weather on the top and sides and would like a chance to put his hay in it.

Ben Swales will also soon be in a state of preparedness on the barn side of the hay question.

Louis and Frank Kohl are both getting out lumber barns and will be ready for Oregon weather after a while.

We are proud of the good showing at chautauqua by the Creamery ball team and if it comes out first prize will not express it.

Spuds are looking fine, at least what appears above ground. Fall grain is getting ripe; all grain looks fine though some is lodging slightly.

The farmers are pretty blue just now as so much rain is spoiling the hay crop. Mr. Tanner has 18 acres cut in the field and there are others who will lose all their hay.

We understand that John Ficken will move to his farm again and Mr. Wiles, who had rented it for 3 years, will go to Idaho.

Did you know that the Courier is $1.00 per year if paid in advance?

MT. PLEASANT

Quite a number of people from here took their summer outings by camping at the chautauqua, and several are enjoying an outing in camping at the New Era camp meeting.

Mr. McDonald is in Dawson, Alaska, where he is connected with the great mining projects of the Guggenheims.
