

THE FASHIONS

"I simply must have one of those new veils. I think they are so fascinating!" This, I overheard a young girl saying to her friend the other day on Fifth Avenue.

The veil she referred to was a long flowing one draped over the top of a small high-crowned hat with a narrow turned-down brim, like the one pictured here. It was caught together in front and fastened to the top of the crown with a large, round pin, and from there it hung softly down the back. No wonder this young girl was so enthusiastic about it, for it really was the most adorable affair on the smartly-dressed young woman who wore it. The veil formed a charming, cloudlike background to her pretty face and floated gently in the air as she walked. The veil was of lace and the hat was of satin.

There are ever so many charming veils of this type nowadays and one sees dozens and dozens of them. They are made of chiffon, silk net or lace, some of them finished with borders and others without. And they come in a variety of colors to suit every complexion and every taste. Some of the prettiest ones are in lovely shades of purple, soft rose-color, lavender, taupe, green and blue, as well as black and white. They are sometimes worn on small close-fitting turbans and again on larger sailor shapes.

Hats and veils like these are worn with frocks of serge, satin or silk. The one pictured here was worn with a dress of black satin with a snug bodice fitted at the waist with soft pleats. The skirt had a full tunic pleated at the waist and made with the popular loop pockets, which were faced with purple satin to match the purple-braided design which trimmed the dress. This is one of the favored designs for autumn and it certainly is a most becoming one. The sleeve was cleverly cut to form a point below the elbow, where a silk tassel was placed.

There is another type of dress for fall which is rapidly gaining more and more advocates everyday. This is the one-piece frock of which an illustration is shown here. It shows the straighter effect and long lines which Parisian houses have made a point of featuring this season. Long straps starting from the shoulders, under the large collar, and working their way down on either side of the front, relieve the severity of this simple design. Little slash pockets are placed on both the straps below the belt line.

In some of the one-piece dresses, a long, narrow girdle of the material is wound loosely around the figure several times and tied at the back or front in a loose knot. The ends are often finished with silk tassels the belt is generally arranged at the low waistline, giving a suggestion of the Moyen age effect, which, it is predicted, will become popular again.

The materials most favored for these practical frocks are satin, broadcloth, fine serge, tricotine, fancy tulle, gabardine and poplin. The Parisienne favors wool jersey very highly for these one-piece frocks, also the checked velours de laine which are considered so very smart. These materials are excellent for shopping, motoring and such occasions when one must be simply though smartly dressed. Some of the colors are dark brown, terra cotta, orange and green. The combinations in checked velours are dark green with beige, gray with navy blue, and beige with Burgandy, not to speak of the black and white checks, which never seem to lose their popularity.

Skirts are Longer and Straighter
There is a decided tendency to longer and straighter hanging skirts in most of the autumn models. Paquin has made many dresses noticeably longer, both for street and evening wear, and many of the other Parisian couturiers have lengthened the skirts for the coming season, although not to an exaggerated degree. The skirts have not lost any of their fullness in their downward tendency. They simply follow the lines of the figure more closely and do not flare so much. The hoop skirts and crinoline effects are practically dead and some soft draperies are seen in their stead, especially in evening and afternoon dresses of satins, crepes and soft silks.

BOY OF 15 DROWNED

Aunt Prostrated Over Grahamona Accident Friday Night

Arleigh Hauvenen, a 15-year-old lad, stepson of C. Carlson of Greenwood, was drowned in the Willamette near New Era on Friday night when he fell into the water from the lower deck of the river steamer Grahamona. The youngster was returning from an Aurora hop yard with a party of pickers when the accident occurred. He had been accompanied by his aunt, Mrs. Ivan Hendrickson, who was prostrated with grief when she learned that the little fellow had fallen overboard.

Young Hauvenen had been playing on a pile of sacked grain on the lower deck of the boat when he lost his hold and slipped into the water. He appeared but once above the surface after the boat had advanced some distance. When rescuers reached the scene in the Grahamona's life boats there was no sign of the lad.

The boy carried a check covering his earnings at the hop yard when he was drowned. All efforts to locate the body have been futile. When the aunt learned of the tragedy she became almost hysterical in her grief. "How can I ever tell my sister of this," she exclaimed.

DAMAGES DENIED

George C. Brown, Defendant, Wins in Circuit Court Action

A circuit court jury here on Thursday deliberated 40 minutes in finding a verdict for George C. Brown, defendant in a suit brought by Olof F. Hegdale and wife to recover damages in the sum of $2500. The Hegdales claimed that Brown had misrepresented property which he sold to them several years ago. The fact that Brown had failed to mention a road which crossed the 60-acre tract purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Hegdale constituted grounds for the allegation that the property was damaged.

A jury of nine, the number agreed upon by the opposing counsels, failed to see where the road was damaging to the property, and refused to honor the request of the complainant.

BANK REPORTS

Statement of Condition of New Bank At End of Year's Business

According to a statement issued and signed by John R. Humphrys, cashier of the new Bank of Commerce of this city, the institution is on a very solid footing and the year's business, which closed last week, has been very successful. The bank has been open for business less than a year, yet it has total resources of $253,977.59 with liabilities as follows: capital, $50,000; surplus and profits, $9,768.44 and deposits of $194,809.17. The bank has not had an overdraft in its first year of business. Leroy D. Walker is president of the Bank of Commerce.

About the State

Resume of the News of the Week from All Parts of Oregon

McMinnville has decided to have a full fledged round-up on October 4, 5 and 6 and for the purpose the business men of the city have formed a corporation known as "Round-up Boosters." R. U. B., and there have been cash subscriptions received sufficient to make the enterprise an assured success. All subscriptions represent the purchase of capital stock and the vim and energy with which the wide awake citizens are backing the matter with their cash is cause for appreciation on the part of the promoters.

The shortage of cars in the Eugene district has at last caused the closing of the Booth-Kelly mills, according to A. C. Dixon, manager of the company.

Operations have commenced at the Rust prune dryer in Cottage Grove and a big season's run is expected. Mr. Rust has contracted for 200 tons to be shipped in from outside points, in addition to the crop from this section and things will be lively around the plant for a month or more. Prunes this year are of an exceptionally fine quality and the crop is unusually large.

While the grain yield of Wallowa county does not promise to equal that of last year in quantity or quality, the results in dollars and cents probably will be greater. Wheat has been above $1.20 a bushel for more than a week and many persons count on it going to $1.50. That will make a market at high prices for every kernel of grain the county can spare.

August showed a slump in liquor imports to Multnomah county, July being the record month of the year, statistics compiled by Deputy County Clerk Gleason demonstrate. There were 13,284 liquor affidavits used in and about Portland during the last month, compared to 14,089 for July and but 10,810 pure alcohol affidavits, compared to 11,303.

Efforts to recall J. B. Teal, county judge, and Commissioners Beckett and Wells, in Polk county, because of alleged extravagance in the expenditure of county funds and for other causes, reached a climax last Friday when a meeting of the Polk County Taxpayers' League was called for Sept. 20 at Dallas.

Florists in Oregon do more than $1,000,000 worth of business annually, according to data collected by O. P. Hoff, state labor commissioner. Dealing in cut flowers, bulbs, cuttings and plants to the public are 193 firms, who employ 330 persons throughout the year. Employes' wages total $257,000 annually.

The Rev. Leon Myers, pastor of the Christian church of The Dalles, has been asked to resign and has emphatically refused to do so. The six deacons of the church, with the exception of the chairman, are all in favor of Mr. Myers' resignation.

A number of citizens from different parts of Yamhill county met with the county court last Friday to finally present the matter of modifying the method of road work by appointing a roadmaster.

Sawmill matters are looking up in this vicinity just now, and there are indications that Banks will soon have another such industry.—Herald.

With the opening of the college year next week, Pacific college, at Newberg, begins its twenty-fifth year as an institution. In commemoration of this anniversary, a special program has been arranged for the formal opening of the college, Friday evening, September 22.

A. H. Gunnell and Dr. Reddy have recently been closing deals for machinery for installation upon the property of the Waldo Copper company, at Taklima, and expect to have a concentrating plant of 50 tons daily capacity under operation within the next 60 days. Some of the machinery is already in place and the balance will be moved within the next few days.—Rogue River Courier.

A 20 per cent reduction in the assessment of all lands in Lane county has been made by Assessor B. F. Keeney this year, according to the announcement of that official. Mr. Keeney for nearly a year had been contemplating this reduction and when he sent his deputies into the field last spring he gave them instructions to act in accordance with this decision.

Oregon State Fair, to be held at Salem, Oregon, Sept. 25 to 30, inclusive.

Before an audience of more than 600 pleased spectators the "Pageant of the Seasons" was delightfully staged at the McMinnville city park Friday afternoon under the auspices of the Civic Improvement club, and ably directed by Miss Cleo White.

Changes Name
Judge Campbell Monday signed an order legally changing the name of Louis N. Larson to Louis N. Rodlun upon petition of that individual. As Larson the petitioner came to America years ago and took up his residence with a nephew named Rodlun. He became known by that name and has carried it ever since, even transacting his business under that name.

56 SCHOOLS COMPETE

Oratory Resuming Prominent Place in Attention of Pupils

The Oregon City high school has enrolled in the Oregon High School Debating League for the present year, and in this district will enter into forensic contest with the high schools of Tillamook, Stayton, Molalla, Canby, Salem, Amity, Forest Grove, Estacada, McMinnville, Silverton, Milwaukie, Woodburn, Gaston, Hubbard, Jefferson and Clatskanie.

The high schools are drifting back to the stirring old debating days of two generations ago, if the enrollment in the debating league for the season of 1916-17 is evidence.

So far 56 high schools have entered, and a number of registrations has not yet come. The entire registration last year was 51, for the year preceding 41, and for the year before that 33.

R. L. Kirk, superintendent of schools of Springfield, is president of the league, and Earl Kilpatrick, assistant dean of the University of Oregon extension division, is secretary-treasurer. The schools compete for a University of Oregon cup, which is awarded to the winner in the finals that are held at the university's expense in Eugene each year during May.

LIVE WIRES TO MEET

Plans for Year Will Include Much Activity on Part of Members

The first meeting of the year for the Live Wires of the Oregon City Commercial club has been set by the officers of the organization for Tuesday noon, October 3. The regular order of weekly luncheon in the commercial club rooms will be resumed at this meeting.

Officers of this enthusiastic branch of the Commercial club have discussed plans for the work of the year and these will be further outlined at the first meeting. Main Trunk A. C. Howland predicts the most active year in the history of the organization and believes that a great deal of work civically and commercially beneficial to the community will be accomplished.

The officers who will have charge of the work until the election early next spring are A. C. Howland, main trunk; Chris Schuebel, sub-trunk; Harold Swafford, transmission wire; Dr. Clyde Mount, feed wire and the Rev. J. K. Hawkins, chairman of the program committee.

Chairman Hawkins has made tentative arrangements for a program for the first meeting. These plans are not advanced sufficiently for announcement, but it is promised that the meeting will be made interesting.

He Was Worried and Hopeless

"For ten or twelve years I was bothered with bad kidney trouble," writes T. F. Hutchinson, Little Rock, Ark. "I tried many remedies and doctors, but grew worse all the time. I was worried and had almost given up all hopes. I tried Foley Kidney Pills and they helped me a lot. I have since used five boxes and am now a well man." Foley Kidney Pills drive out aches and pains due to kidney trouble; also sleep disturbing bladder disorders.—Jones Drug Co.

HOWELL GETS LAND

Fish Hatchery Site Goes at Low Figure at Public Sale

The 16-acre tract which was formerly the site of the government fish hatchery, located on the banks of the Clackamas river near the mouth of Clear Creek, was sold on Saturday afternoon at public auction for $2200 to E. M. Howell. Officials of the federal bureau of fisheries handled the sale for the department.

Three bidders entered the contest for the land, which is slightly and well improved. C. S. Jackson, through Earle C. Latourette, entered the first bid of $300. From that figure to $2200 the bid was advanced by Mr. Latourette, L. Adams, Oregon City merchant, and E. M. Howell, the successful bidder.

A supposedly blind bid was entered at a previous sale for $6000 and prevented the sale of the land legitimately.
