STOCK EXPOSITION

Sixth Annual International Show to Be Held in Portland

Announcement of the sixth annual Pacific International Livestock exposition to be held at the Union stock yards in Portland, December 4-9 has been made. It is said that the show this year will take rank with the largest livestock exhibitions in the United States and between $20,000 and $25,000 will be awarded in cash premiums.

Close to $5000 is being offered in the dairy division, which covers Holsteins, Jerseys, Guernseys and Ayrshires. Practically $2500 is being given in the sheep classes, while hogs are recognized to about the same extent. The draft type of horses are given over $1200, divided between the Percherons, Belgians, Clydes and Shires. Cattle in car lots are recognized to the extent of $2500. The student judging contest, to be participated in by all of the Agricultural colleges of the northwest, again receives $300.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. LIVE STOCK HUSBANDRY

FEEDING BEEF CALVES.

Important That the Baby Fat Be Kept on the Young Animals.

[By J. C. ROBINSON, specialist for the Wisconsin Stock Breeders' association.]
At the stockyards they say that "very few feeders can turn out a fat yearling." Can't we change that idea, boys? In attempting to do this remember that we want you to get all the help you can from your father or any one else. That's the only way that any one can really learn, because no one knows all about live stock and especially "baby beef" production.

Definite rules for feeding baby calves cannot be given, as every successful feeder has a little different method. But we will try to give you the general plan which most of these men follow, and you can make changes to fit your conditions. However, there is one rule upon which all feeders are agreed—that is, "do not lose the calf fat"—and it means that you must keep the calf "coming" all the time, especially during the weaning period. That's the most important time in the life of a baby beef.

The Hereford breed of cattle is a best breed pure and simple, and no claim is made that the cows are of dairy usefulness. It is said of the Hereford that no other beef breed is better fitted to turn rough feed into high grade meat. The Herefords are great rustlers and grow fat on ranges where other cattle fail to fatten. The steer shown is a Hereford.

Fall calves usually come in September or October. Most feeders say that milk is necessary for profitable baby beef production, and so they let the calves run with their mothers or turn them to their mothers twice a day. Allow them to eat grain as soon as they will take it. Keep the cows away while they are eating. Build a "creep" for the calves or turn them in a separate lot. Corn and oats, mixed half and half by measure, will make a good mixture to start them on. Gradually increase the corn and decrease the oats until at the end of eight or nine weeks they are getting no oats at all. Add a little oilmeal as you take out the oats until when they are on full feed they are getting twenty pounds of oilmeal to eighty pounds of corn. A small amount of bran with this mixture, say ten pounds, improves it, to my notion. Cottonseed meal can be substituted for oilmeal, although many feeders say that oilmeal is better while the calves are nursing. Give them plenty of good clover, alfalfa or mixed hay. When weaning time comes they will scarcely notice that the milk supply has stopped. I would keep fall calves off pasture entirely, feeding them in a darkened shed or stall. Of course they will want some exercise, but not much. A little corn silage, if you have it, or green corn will be relished by them. They should be on full feed by July or August and should be eating about two pounds of grain for every hundred pounds at the start. When the calves are twelve to fourteen months old they should be in prime condition and ready for the Christmas market, which is usually the highest of the year for cattle of quality and finish.

Spring calves dropped in March and April are usually finished for the May and June markets, which are generally good, since few prime cattle are for sale at this time. Most men allow the calves to run with their dams on grass, nursing until the cows are dry. Others keep the calves in a well bedded, darkened stable, allowing them to suck night and morning, thus avoiding much fly trouble. During December and January they should be on full feed, so as to get to market during May and June.

Malt Feed For Pigs.
A given weight of barley will make better gains in fattening animals than the same amount of malt that would be produced from it. Irrespective of economy in feeding malt is a good feed when a small proportion of the grain ration is made up of it. It is especially good for young or weakly pigs when given in a small allowance. A ration composed of 20 to 30 per cent of malt with a mixture of ground corn and middlings would make excellent feed, especially when given with skim milk. While the malt is as easily handled as bran, the drying process does not reduce its value as a feed.—American Agriculturist.

Fertility in Swine.
Fecundity in swine appears to be inheritable, at least to a slight degree. This fact is borne out by heritbook records. Allowing for their errors, it is questionable whether the size of the litter really represents the hereditary factors transmitted. The wild hog usually averages four pigs per litter, very fertile sows of improved breeds often average eight pigs, but the Tam worth, with an average of twelve pigs per sow, is the most fecund breed.

COOLNESS

A cool kitchen is the ideal one. The speedy creation of heat inside an electric range; freedom from open flame and actual placing of heat where and when you want it insures kitchen comfort.

CLEANLINESS

Imagine a kitchen with no burnt matches; no fuel odors; no sooty pots and pans; no coal or ashes; no smoke or grime; no discolored ceilings—just an electric range and cleanliness.

LABOR SAVING

An electric range delivers heat in the perfect form. No fuel; no flame; no matches; no dampers; no constant watchful eye needed. You simply turn a switch. The clock and switch key regulate your entire cooking.

EFFICIENCY

The same current will produce the same temperature in the same time. This means uniform results. Meat shrinkage is one-fourth to one-third less in an electric oven. This means food economy.

LOW COST

A model kitchen with all it's clean, laborsaving economy is possible for you on our low rate for cooking, 3c a kilowatt hour.

James F. Carroll, Defendant.
To James F. Carroll, above named Defendant:

In the Name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit on or before the 20th day of Oct., 1916, said date being the date fixed by the court, and being six weeks from the publication of this summons, and if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, for want thereof relief will apply to the court for the relief prayed for in the complaint, to-wit:

A decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant, and for such other and further relief as to this court may seem equitable and just.

This summons is published by order of J. U. Campbell, Judge of the Circuit Court of the County of Clackamas, State of Oregon, and the order was made and entered so directing on the 1st day of Sept., 1916, as the time prescribed for the publication of this summons for six weeks beginning with the issue dated the 7th day of Sept. 1916, and continuing every week thereafter for six successive weeks, and continuing in the issue of Oct. 19, 1916.

vs.
Roy Suratt, Defendant.
To Roy Suratt, defendant above named:

In the name of the State of Oregon you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint of the plaintiff filed against you in the above entitled case on or before Monday, November 6, 1916, date of first publication of this summons, and if you fail to so answer, for want thereof the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief prayed for in plaintiff's complaint, to-wit: for a decree of absolute divorce against you, absolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between the plaintiff and defendant herein, and restoring to the plaintiff her maiden name, and for such other and further relief as to the court may seem equitable. The complaint in this suit is based upon grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment, and upon desertion for more than the period of one year. This summons is served upon you by publication thereof once a week for six consecutive weeks by order of the Hon. J. U. Campbell, judge of the above entitled court, which order is dated September 20th, 1916.
