LOGAN

Last Saturday was installation day for Harding Grange and the new officers were impressively placed in power by past master Louis Funk.

There was the usual good program, including discussion of live subjects. Several extracts were read from the National Grange monthly about the important things that were done by the national grange at the recent Washington, D. C., session. At the noon hour one of the long dining tables was barely sufficient to accommodate the assembled members of P. of H.

D.C. Fouts and family have recently been on a visit in the Bend country.

Earl Gerber and family have returned from their visit to southern Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Kohl gave a card party on new year's day.

Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Kirchem gave a new year's dinner in honor of Mrs. P. A. Robbins. Mrs. Robbins was 78 years old the day before new year's.

She came to Oregon in 1847 and, of course, passed through all the troubles and dangers of pioneer life. She was married to N. N. Robbins in 1858.

Mr. Robbins arrived in Oregon in 1852 with his parents, Nathaniel and Nancy Robbins, and is 84 years old.

The Bird family came from Illinois and the Robbins family from Indiana.

Nathaniel Robbins, it is claimed, was a cousin of Nancy Hanks, the mother of Abraham Lincoln.

Potato buyers are active again and have paid from $1.00 to $1.75 per cwt.

It is reported that R. M. Tracy and W. M. Kirchem are responsible for the assassination of three coyotes. It has been a good winter for coyote hunting and we are glad to report some killing.

James McCubbin has been quite sick, but is getting around again.

Mrs. Griffith from Eugene is visiting relatives here.

What to Do for Bad Colds

If you want a cough medicine that gives quick and sure action in healing colds, coughs or croup, get Foley's.

It cannot stand cold, dry weather. Swollen membranes in throat, chest or bronchial tubes; breaks up tight coughs, loosens the phlegm, makes breathing easier, stops tickling in throat.

W. F. Thomas, Summerville, Ga., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is a most efficient remedy for coughs, hoarseness, etc. I have used it with excellent results."—Jones Drug Co.

GLEN ECHO

Mrs. Roy McAlpin and son, Robert, were visitors among Glen Echo friends on Saturday.

The "Count on Me" class of the M. E. church of Oregon City, was entertained by Asel and Hazel Taber at their home on Saturday evening.

About thirty young folks attended.

The Gladstone Parent-Teachers association will meet on Friday at the schoolhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Gillett of Ballard, Wash., have returned to their home after visiting during the holidays with Mrs. Gillette's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moran.

Mrs. Dave Bond, who has been confined in St. Vincent's hospital, following a serious operation, is much improved and will soon be able to return home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoag of Gladstone have leased the Anderson place on Meldrum avenue and have moved into our midst.

Miss Florence Stromgreen of Oregon City visited Mrs. R. H. Taber during the holidays.

Master Marion Miller spent Sunday as a guest at the T. M. Miller home on Center street, Oregon City.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Straight of Oregon City spent Sunday with Mrs. Straight's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hanks.

The Ladies' Auxiliary aid will meet with Mrs. Case at Gladstone this week.

DAMASCUS

School opened again Monday. The children were given a two weeks' vacation while the schoolhouse was being painted and repaired.

Every one was glad to see the snow go.

Amos Hall is busy cutting wood for his father.

Mr. Haberthier has a nice flock of hens and gets eggs when the price is high.

The Grangers held a meeting at the Grange hall Saturday. Dinner was served.

Hi Cottie and Mr. Hall were busy the past week hauling potatoes to Carver station.

Our farmers are busy pruning trees, repairing fences, cleaning up the yards and doing odd jobs around the farm.

Mr. Sylvester has been painting house.

and repairing the inside of the school.

Mrs. W. A. Hall and daughter, Mary, drove to Lents one day last week.

Charles Royer and family motored to Newberg last week and spent new year's with Mrs. Royer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap.

There was a dance at the German hall Saturday evening. All had a good time.

Georgia Pier, Edward Moore, Henry Moore and Willie Moore were visiting Roger Burr Sunday.

CHERRYVILLE

How is this for mid-winter? Robins singing and frogs croaking in the dead of winter!

A lady living here received a letter from her daughter living in Iowa stating that the thermometer was 24 below zero there.

How would a poor person without fur clothing, a good tight house and plenty of money to buy high-priced coal be fixed in that country?

Spring chickens have already made their appearance here and will be crowing when Wilson goes in the 4th of March.

Over 20 head of cattle have disappeared in this vicinity this season and suspicions are held by some that a rustler is at work.

Good night for him if he is caught playing that game.

"Billy" Sunday is now incorporated and we will soon have a chance to buy stock in his company.

One of the principal directors in this delectable company is John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Fine business! Great scheme!

Cattle are now living on the range with little or no feed. Hay will probably be cheaper in the spring than it is now, especially if this weather holds.

There is good attendance at the literary society every Friday night.

At the annual election of officers, Prof. George B. Cooper was elected president; Mrs. Shank, vice-president, and Lillian B. Northrup, secretary.

The writer edits the Cherryville "Chase" with Miss Grace Shank as assistant.

STAFFORD

We are having good old Oregon weather again, with a quiet rain now and then, and the sick are expected to improve.

The regular weekfoot Oregonian cannot stand cold, dry weather.

Mrs. Schultz has been quite ill since new year's. Although she is not able to be about yet, she is mending slowly.

Mr. Weddle and son, Clifford, are down with the grip. A nurse was called in, and they are somewhat better.

The son, Clarence, is still in the hospital at Oregon City.

Ed Fredericks, who has suffered for months with tuberculosis, died on Friday last, and interment took place at Stafford at noon Saturday.

He leaves a widow and young family to mourn the loss of husband and father, besides his father and mother in Willette, one brother, a number of sisters and a host of friends who have known him for years.

Geve, son of our local store-keeper, returned home from Washington last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Tiedeman celebrated their silver wedding last Friday, and the many relatives spent a very enjoyable day.

Mr. Fry and young son are sick, the latter with the measles.

The road around the corner at the store is pretty bad for automobiles and for a few rods farther on both ways.

Otherwise the road to Oregon City or Portland is quite good, that is, in comparison to what it has been within the memory of man.

CANBY

There are several men in this neighborhood engaged in clearing land and cutting cordwood. This will help the looks of the place.

William Draper and family of North Platt, Neb., are living on the Bowsby place. Mr. Draper bought the place a few days ago.

Mr. Robbins' brother called on him one day last week.

Rollins Porter is digging a ditch and will lay water pipe so he can have water to his house.

William Porter, who has been in Yamhill county for some time, is at home.

Roll Porter has his new kitchen done.

The potatoes are still coming in to Canby. There is certainly a large supply to last so long.

Mr. Deacon and wife spent the holidays with Mr. Deacon's brother, who lives at Clackamas.

John Enaus has traded for a piece of land in the Molalla bottoms, near Goods bridge. Mr. Enaus is going to build on his place in the spring.

Mrs. Griffin was visiting Mrs. Clark last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Burns called on William Draper and family Sunday evening.

Mrs. Rape was visiting Mrs. Hilton Monday.

Courier and Daily Journal—$4.75.

Mrs. Walter Douglass entertained the Helping Hand at her home last Wednesday afternoon.

The society will meet with Mrs. Linda Hoffmeister next Wednesday, January 17.

A LETTER FROM SCOTLAND

Mr. Forbes Hears From Old Friend Who Suffered in Present War

From Glasgow, Scotland, where he was formerly on the teaching staff of one of the large high schools, P. D. Forbes, instructor in manual training at the Oregon City high school, and himself a native of the "auld sod" who has not yet dropped the pretty speech of the lowlands, has received a very interesting letter with its bit of graphic war history. With "hands" across the sea," J. J. Pickering, a close friend of Mr. Forbes, writes to his friend here to tell of his own part in the battle of brothers and makes many interesting notes about the British participation. Mr. Pickering, who is with his father in a large car and carriage factory in Glasgow, says:

My dear Forbes:

I read with pleasure in the local paper an article by you as to the efforts being made by the people of Oregon in behalf of the Red Cross funds, and thought I would write you to let you see I have not forgotten you.

"Old friends and old faces. Forget them never. Here's to auld Scotland, Auld Scotland forever."

December, 1914, I decided I would offer my services. Father and mother were much against it as we were very busy in the works at the time.

However, I considered the matter fully, and could not see otherwise than it was my duty, as I was 34 years of age, had not taken the responsibility of a wife, had considerable experience, you remembered, in the Boer war, was strong and healthy and had always taken an active interest in military matters.

February, 1915, I went over to France as a sergeant in my old regiment, the Gordon Highlanders. For six months I did not actually see any active service, being employed leading German prisoners to the detention camps behind the lines and doing other odd jobs, at the same time familiarizing myself with all parts of the line.

September and October, 1915, I took regular turns in the first line trenches without mishap, although I took part in three trench raids, bringing in for the three "plunges" a total of 210 men. Words of mine fail to describe the awful conditions some of these prisoners were in, and I would say 80 per cent were delighted at being captured, certainly all who had an education. I would like to go into detail as to trench operations, fighting, etc., but we are not allowed to do so and the censor would simply score it out.

November and December, 1915, I was in Paris, and early in January, 1916, I again went into the first line trenches. Late in January, while taking part in a trench raid, I got a bad cut in my left arm, just how I do not know. I fell to the ground and lay there until rescued by the orderlies at dead of night, and taken to the field hospital. There my wound was dressed and I was sent to the base hospital. While waiting my turn, blood poisoning set in and my arm had to be amputated. I lost my arm, but it was worth it, and I am now at home helping father, as "fit as a fiddle," and would be delighted to do the same again.

The British soldier is the same as ever in a hand to hand fight, no equal in the world. The French and Belgians admit it, and even the captured Germans. I think I can now claim to be a Scotchman, having twice fought in Scottish regiments. The Scotch soldiers are the most feared on the whole line, they simply laugh at danger. Of course it is now only a matter of time until the allies have a complete victory. It is a wonder to me we have been able to do what we have done. I would say Britain will be at full strength about February, 1918, taking into consideration men, munitions, etc.

Mr. Roberts, who got your place at the high school, is now in France with the flying corps. I do not think you would have been required to go if you had still been in school work, but I well know there is too much good Scotch blood in your veins, not to do your bit if you had been here.

I have many pleasant recollections of my two trips to America. My visits to the Pullman plant, Carnegie works and Cramps were, I think, the most instructive.

With very best wishes and kind regards, I am
Hands across the sea,
J. J. Pickering.
