About the State

Resume of the News of the Week from All Parts of Oregon

W. L. Thompson, a member of the state highway commission, last week said that the $6,000,000 road bonding measure was one of the most progressive pieces of legislation ever passed by the Oregon legislature. He spoke before nearly 100 Baker businessmen men at the commercial club luncheon.

Governor Withycombe has named the members of the state board of textbook commissioners, who, on June 1, 1919, are to designate the textbooks which will be used for the succeeding six years by the 150,000 school children of Oregon outside of Portland. The textbooks for the Portland schools are selected by the Portland school board. The law provides that every six years the commission shall designate the textbooks to be used, but the appointments are to be made in the fourth year of the six-year term, so that the members of the commission will have two years in which to decide upon the books to be used.

The Willamette Valley Editorial association at its meeting at Albany on Saturday afternoon, went on record in favor of the $6,000,000 highway bonding issue, and in a resolution adopted declared the proposed bond issue to be one of the most progressive measures for the welfare of the state that could be adopted.

George Palmer Putnam, private secretary to Governor Withycombe and publisher of the Bend Bulletin, underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Salem hospital this week. Although Mr. Putnam has been a sufferer from this trouble for some time, it developed seriously only within the past few days. Reports from the hospital indicate that he is rallying well from the operation.

At the Tri-State Good Roads association mass meeting at Medford on Saturday evening it was agreed to limit the work of the proposed congress of that body in that city, May 16 and 17, to the nine counties comprising the district over which Commissioner E. J. Adams will have personal supervision in the $6,000,000 bonding campaign in June. Those counties are Linn, Lane, Benton, Douglas, Coos, Curry, Josephine, Jackson and Klamath.

It Carries a Moral.

I know of an elderly man who twenty years ago stopped smoking. Before that he consumed about a dollar's worth of cigars every day.

Boasting to a friend how he had saved money by not smoking, the friend made a quick calculation.

"Yes," said the latter, "you must now be at least $10,000 better off."

The ex-smoker reflected a moment and then sadly observed:

"Well, no. I haven't a cent of it. While I imagined I was saving in my smoke bill I must have spent that much more somewhere else."

Moral.—Closing the spigot tight won't keep the barrel full if you open wide the bung.—Girard in Philadelphia Ledger.

Cultivate Enthusiasm.

Enthusiasm is the dynamis of your personality. Without it, whatever abilities you possess lie dormant. You may have knowledge, sound judgment, good reasoning faculties, but no one will know it until you discover how to put your heart into thought and action. A wonderful thing is this quality which we call enthusiasm. If you would like to be a power among men cultivate enthusiasm. People will like you better for it; you will escape the dull routine of a mechanical existence, and you will make headway wherever you are.—J. Ogden Armour in Leslie's.

Evils of Poor Cooking.

Poor cooking often makes proper food either difficult or impossible to digest. The hard earned money of the household goes to the purchase of good food, which is often ruined by the housewife ignorant in the art of cooking. Good cooking is not a matter of whim or flattering the palate. It is an absolute essential to health. Therefore the art should be taught in our schools, says a food expert.

Hard to Kill.

Snails are slow, even when it comes to dying, and one naturalist who had mounted a shell upon a card was surprised to find four years later that the warm water employed in soaking the shell off the mount had revived the inmate, which he had long supposed to be dried and dead.

Don't Be a Quitter.

It is nothing for a man to hold up his head in a calm, but to maintain his post when all others have quitted their ground and there to stand upright, where other men are beaten down—this is divine and praiseworthy.—Seneca.

Storm Warning.

Stude (facetiously)—This steak is like a day in June. Mrs. Boredom—very rare. Landlady (crustily)—And your board bill is like March weather—always unsettled.—Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

Well, Why Not?

Why wouldn't it be a good plan to make a woman the speaker of the house of representatives. She is in every other house.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

He who brings ridicule to bear against truth finds in his hand a blade without a hilt.—Lauder.

plaint filed in Judge Campbell's court here on Monday by Manoh N. Swetnam, who married Mary at Fresno, Cal., on July 15, 1913. Three months after the wedding, Swetnam alleges, his wife deserted him.

In addition to the charge of habitual drunkenness, Swetnam charges his wife with desertion and cruelty. The cruelty set out in his complaint consisted of threats upon his life and limb. One time Mary gave her husband a glass of water in which she had placed bichloride of mercury tablets for the purpose, Swetnam charges, of poisoning him. Upon another occasion Mrs. Swetnam threateningly brandished an evil looking butcher knife over her much abused husband.

Married at Wigan, England, on March 3, 1907, Edith Alice Anisough deserted her husband, J. H. Anisough, in Portland on March 10, 1916, says the husband. They have one child, a boy aged 9 years, and Mr. Anisough asks that his wife be given charge of the boy. She is now a resident of the state of Washington, the complaint says.

WILBUR BRIEF FILED
Friars' Club Host Will Air Appeal in Supreme Court

District Attorney Gilbert L. Hedges Saturday filed the brief in the case against Julius Wilbur, former proprietor of the Friars' club, at Milwaukie, which case Wilbur appealed to the supreme court following his conviction in the circuit court.

Mr. Hedges believes the case will be heard at an early date, since the supreme court often sets aside the civil calendar for criminal cases and after the time limit for a reply brief from Wilbur's attorneys there is nothing to delay the trial. Wilbur was sentenced to six months in jail by Judge Campbell when he was convicted of selling intoxicating liquors at the Friars' club last year.
