

THE DIVORCE ...MILL...

Emery S. Mayes was yesterday granted a divorce from P. A. Mayes, the decree also allowing the plaintiff the resumption of her maiden name of Emley S. Black.

Meta M. Decker is another plaintiff in a divorce action, she starting proceedings against Herman C. Decker. Cruel and inhuman treatment and disregard of the nuptial vows are listed as cause for the suit.

On the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment, Maud Talmeyer was yesterday divorced from Otto Talmeyer, and allowed the custody of their minor child, Helen. The Talmeyers were married in Portland in February, 1910, and the wife charged her spouse with a number of connubial digressions.

In the suit of Florence V. Sykes against Beryl E. Sykes, the court granted an order directing the defendant to pay the sum of $75 attorney's fees and $25 suit money, to prosecute the action. Sykes is the manager of the Sandy creamery, and is charged by his wife with cruel and inhuman treatment.

Ed DeYoung of Portland is another unhappy married man seeking freedom from a wayward wife, if his complaint for legal separation from Jean De Young, filed with the circuit court yesterday, be true. They were married in Seattle in 1915, and the wife is charged with a series of cruel and inhuman acts, which tended to disrupt the happy home life of the plaintiff.

Ida MaMy Bybee was granted a divorce Tuesday from Guy Carl Bybee, by decree of Judge Campbell. She was also allowed the resumption of her maiden name of Ida Waite. Jennie A. Fulton also secured a decree of divorce yesterday, she being legally separated from William Fulton. Her former name of Jennie A. Stephens was restored her.

What happier or more romantic spot than that little place, back in New York state, could a couple find to start their wedded life than Bilias, in Wyoming county? With such a start it seems impossible for domestic grief to follow, but in the divorce suit of Leon F. Rugg against Inez M. Rugg filed here yesterday, it shows that a name really does not have much in it anyway. The husband charges his wife with desertion in Buffalo, New York, in 1912, just two years after their blissful beginning. There are no children or property interests involved in the proceedings.

A unique complaint for divorce was filed here in the circuit court Saturday, when Emma Cupp commenced action for separation from Archie Cupp. The wife claims that at the time of their wedding, in Vancouver, February 16, 1918, her husband was below the legal age.

Desertion is the ground for divorce, in the suit of Charles Liecht, who has filed his complaint here against Mary Liecht. They were married in 1915, and in June a year ago the alleged desertion took place. Upon her departure, avers the plaintiff, his wife took with her the sum of $500 and her husband's gold watch.

Lorette E. Warner is suing C. M. Warner for divorce, after a second attempt to make a go of their matrimonial ventures. The couple were married last July, after having been divorced previously. They are the parents of four children, the custody of whom the mother asks the court to grant her, along with the sum of $30 monthly for their care and education. Cruel and inhuman treatment is the basis of the complaint.

Within one month after the marriage, at Vancouver, in May 1916, Beryl E. Sykes commenced with a course of cruel and inhuman treatment against his wife, Florence V. Sykes, according to her complaint for divorce filed here Saturday. She charges that he hurled a cup of hot chocolate in her face, slapped and cursed her, and knocked her down. They have one child, whom the mother wishes to have awarded in her custody. She also asks the sum of $75 immediately with which to prosecute the case, and $40 a month permanent alimony. She says her husband is earning $150 monthly as the manager of the creamery at Sandy, in this county.

Obituaries

Mrs. Minnie E. Spiger.

Mrs. Minnie E. Spiger, wife of J. F. Spiger, passed away at the family residence about two miles out from Oregon City on the Pacific Highway Tuesday forenoon at 11 o'clock. The deceased had been suffering from dropsy for the past year and half, but the turn for the worse came suddenly last Saturday evening, and she rapidly declined. She had come to this district for the benefit of her health from Spokane about two years ago. She has resided there for the past thirty years.

Mrs. Spiger was a native of Ohio, born there in 1860. In 1885 she was married to Mr. Spiger in Kansas, to which state she had removed with her parents. Soon afterward the family came west, and they lived in Portland and this city, before going to Spokane. The return to Oregon City was made in the interests of Mrs. Spiger's health. Besides her husband, she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Joseph Bishop, of Spokane, and Miss Grace Spiger and Miss Rose Spiger, of this city. Miss Grace Spiger is employed in the public schools at Marcus, Washington, and had left for there on last Saturday morning.

Burial will be made at Mountain View cemetery Thursday afternoon at 2:30 from the Holman & Pace undertaking parlors.

WILL GET THEIR NICKNAMES

American Soldiers Object to Term "Sammy," and Are Willing to Wait for a Better One.

Somebody, feeling that the American soldier in France needed a nickname dubbed him "Sammy." Then someone else referred to him by that name and still another adopted it and the use of it became general. The nickname probably was selected because the United States is referred to as Uncle Sam. It is probable that it is referred to as Uncle Sam because the abbreviation of the name of the country was U. S., and somebody built the name Uncle Sam out of the initials as representing the incarnation of the country in one man. No matter what the origin of the name is the soldiers do not like it. The Stars and Stripes, the official publication of the expeditionary forces, says the American soldier did not invent it, does not like it, and never uses it and will not recognize it. It says when he sees it in papers from home it makes him sick.

Seeming to think that a name for the American soldier should be found, the Stars and Stripes says:

"When, in the fullness of time, the American army has been welded by shock and suffering into a single fighting force, with one mind, one heart and one spirit, the American soldier will find his name. It will be the inspiration of some ambulance driver, perhaps, or the outburst of some eloquent cook. It will strike the fancy of a passing guard and be forwarded through military channels like a sentry's call. Wounded boys will carry it back to base hospitals and ammunition train drivers will spread it to the base ports. Some reporter will hear it at some distant bar and put it into the story he has to write that night. It will be printed in America. Paragraphers and cartoonists and vaudeville comedians will use it. It will be caught up at home and in the training camps. The name will be fastened on. The American soldier will have been christened. He does not know now what that name will be. He simply knows it won't be 'Sammy.'"

But what is the need of a nickname for the American soldier? Isn't American good enough? There would be no thought of a nickname but for the fact that the British soldier is referred to as Tommy Atkins, and then, losing his surname is referred to as Tommy. But we do not know that the French soldier has a nickname. The Italian, the Belgian, the Serb, the Montenegrin is also referred to without a nickname. Why bother about calling the American anything but Americans?—Florida Times Union.

Trouble With Wounded Soldiers.

"Delmas remarks," says Annals de Medicine, "that as soon as the soldier enters the hospital he steps out of military discipline, and yet the hospital authorities have no jurisdiction over him. He can accept or refuse operations, injections of drugs, etc., at his own will. But almost invariably the wounded or sick soldier absolutely trusts his surgeon or physician as long as no foreign element modifies his grateful confidence."

He further goes on to say that two elements may interfere, one the fear of pain or anesthesia and the other unwillingness to be cured and return to military duty, and calls the latter cases desertion. In either case pressure is brought to bear in the way of pension considerations or the returning of the refractory patient to his regiment for disciplinary measures.

The Mentally Defective Soldier.

"For the first time in the history of warfare," says the New York Medical Journal, "mental hygiene as practiced among the soldiers is given the prominence it deserves, and, profiting by the experience of England and France in the present war, the surgeon general was impelled to inaugurate an elaborate organization both in number and plan, to take care of any mental disturbances detected in the camps or among the soldiers during the war. This is a distinct innovation in the medical army work, for the subjects of mental hygiene and of mental and nervous diseases in general as occurring among soldiers in war time were for many reasons either slightly treated or neglected altogether."

The Unconscious Hero.

When Private Jones, back from France, put his pass in at the railway booking office, he was surprised by the clerk asking to shake hands. They shook, and when Private Jones, still wondering, reached his home in the far north, a sergeant seeing him pass, took him to the colonel, who shook hands, and said: "The army is very proud of you." He did not learn the reason for all this friendliness until he reached home. Then his little brother, curiously inspecting the papers, remarked: "How funny, Vass," (his christian name, by the way are Vassal Charles), "they've put your name—Private Jones, V. C."—London Tit-Bits.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY (California)

The Gasoline of Quality

Details of the new plan are set forth by Newton D. Baker, secretary of war, and H. P. McCain, adjutant general in communications received at O. A. C. where a military unit will be established next fall.

The plan, according to details received from the adjutant general calls for approximately 650 hours of military work each year on the basis of 33 weeks for the academic year and a six week's camp.

"It is expected," he said, "that this will qualify a considerable per centage of the students to enter officers' training camps on being called to the colors, and a large percentage of the remainder to serve as non-commissioned officers. The number to be certified for training as officers from any institution will not be based on an arbitrary percentage. It will depend on the quality of the men developed at that institution and the necessities of the service at the time."

Not only will there be at least three army officers in charge of the training of the members of the military unit at the Oregon Agricultural college, but the six or seven officers of the detachment of soldiers receiving special training in mechanics and military tactics will be available for this work. Members of the unit drill while the detachment soldiers are receiving mechanical instruction, and thus the military officers will be released for additional duties.

There will probably be a number of Clackamas county boys attend the college at Corvallis for the course.

O. A. C. MAN TELLS HOW TO SELECT SEED CORN

The best way to get good seed corn is to grow it at home, says B. F. Sheehan, of the Oregon Agricultural College Experiment station. The best time to select it is before danger of killing frost, and the best way by going through the field with a sack selecting the choicest and best matured ears.

It is within the power of the grower to select corn that will mature year after year before frost. The two greatest causes of immature corn are too large varieties and varieties not adapted to the climate and soil.

Every well formed, well matured ear is considered valuable for seed purposes when grown upon a strong stalk. It is well to note whether the stalks about it are strong. Ears that grow very high or low upon the stalk should be discarded for their undesirable position. Those about hip-high with a tendency to hang tip downward are preferred.

Well selected ears are nearly cylindrical and of medium size. Rows are straight and close together, well carried out over tip and butt. Kernels are uniform in size and shape—slightly wedged or key-stone—have good depth and medium rough indentation, fitting close together. A large, clear germ indicates strong vitality.

About twice as many ears should be selected in the field as will be needed to plant next season's crop.

Men Feel Tired, Too

While much is said about tired women it must be remembered that men also pay the penalty of over-work. When the kidneys are weak, inactive or sluggish, when one feels tired out and miserable, lacks energy and ambition, Foley Kidney Pills are tonic and strengthening. Wm. H. Clark, Springfield, Ohio, writes: "I found no relief from kidney trouble until I discovered Foley Kidney Pills. Now I am in a 1 shape." They act quickly and surely.—Jones Drug Co.

Corvallis—Frank Butler, aged 14, plead guilty to the charge of stealing an automobile Monday afternoon when he was arraigned in juvenile court. Sentence was suspended and the lad placed on probation until further order of the court. Judge Malone said any breaking over from the straight and narrow would be sufficient for a ticket to Salem.

Young Butler with two other lads, Malcom and Ira Rose, was charged Saturday night and driving said auto into foreign parts. The other boys were held for trial on their own recognizance but when time for trial came they failed to appear. When they were hunted they could not be found and it was discovered that they had taken French leave for parts unknown. Sheriff Gellatly drove over to Newport Monday evening but they had gone in some other direction evidently as they had not been seen in that city.—Courier.
