UNCLE SAM SPEAKS TO SANTA CLAUS

Do Your Christmas Shopping Early

The Government has laid down six rules for the retail merchant to follow during the Christmas shopping period. Two of them are as follows:

"Retail interests are not to increase their working forces by reason of the holiday business over the average forces employed during the year.

"Normal working hours will not be lengthened during the Christmas season."

Never before has the time-worn phrase, "Do your Christmas shopping early," been so important as it is this season. After reading carefully these two rules it is easy to see that late Christmas shopping will be very unsatisfactory.

Useful gifts will be in order this year, Christmas selections can be made just as satisfactorily now as later. By shopping early you will get better service-will not have to endure the inconvenience of last-minute selections, and will assist the merchant in carrying out the request
