WHERE WILL THEY GO?

Confronted with the necessity of choosing between allegiance to their constituents "back home" and their fealty to Senator Penrose, Senator Lodge and the other reactionaries in Congress, what will the Republican "Progressives" do? There is no doubt they will have to make a choice. The next Congress will be dominated by the Old Guard—that element which was driven from power by the Democrats. It is fair to assume that many Republican voters of the Middle West and Far West are still sincere and resolute in their opposition to these prophets and exponents of reaction, with whom they have nothing in common. It is equally reasonable to suppose that these "folks back home" will expect their "Progressive" representatives in Congress to keep the faith. Here, then, is a situation that all may watch with interest if not with hope. The "Progressives" are all "dressed up." There is an invitation from Boss Penrose and his reactionary associates to return to the Old Guard and the old ways. There is likely to be an urgent appeal from the plain people at home to remain aloof from these charmers and stand true to the progressive principles. "Progressive" Senators and Congressmen are indeed "dressed up," but where will they go?

If refusal to vindicate American rights and honor qualifies a Republican to head a standing committee in the House of Representatives, what test of un-Americanism can be applied to a Republican presidential candidate?

Opponents of the constitution of the league of nations adopted by the peace conference fall into two classes—those who say the plan is too weak and should be stronger and those who say it is too strong and should be weaker.

"Let there be peace," said Grant after the Civil war. "Let there be no more wars," says President Wilson after the bloodiest conflict of the ages. Grant was a Republican; Wilson is a Democrat, but they are alike in their Americanism.

Senator Kellogg reports that he has found the people of his state—Minnesota—practically unanimous for a league of nations. And he made this discovery after Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National committee, had delivered a long speech in St. Paul against President Wilson's proposal for such a league.

The idea that the pens that signed the armistice palsied the spirit of enthusiasm in the breasts of the American people should not be harbored in the mind. Patriotism of the citizens of the great republic will be demonstrated in no uncertain manner when the time comes for buying Victory Liberty Loan bonds.

The period of the Victory Liberty Loan drive should stand out as a period of universal thanksgiving that the war is over. Every mother, father, sister and sweetheart who had a personal interest in the world tragedy represented by a soldier in olive drab will approach the drive with the spirit of thanksgiving.

It will be well for recalcitrant Senators to remember that when they undertake to defeat the ratification of the peace treaty and the league of nations they will have as spectators of their actions millions of widows, orphans, lame, halt and blind, who were made such by the world war, and about two billions of human beings who don't want to risk suffering in the same fashion from another reign of bloodshed and destruction. It will take something besides a brave man—he would have to be a heartless man—to frustrate the hopes of these countless multitudes.

PADEREWSKI—MASTER PIANIST AND NATION MAKER USES NUXATED IRON

To Obtain Renewed Energy, Power and Endurance

Dr. Kenneth K. MacAlpine, for 10 Years Adjunct Professor New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital, Says That in His Opinion Nuxated Iron is

The Most Valuable Tonic, Strength and Blood Builder Any Physician Can Prescribe.

Ignace Jan Paderewski, one of the greatest musical geniuses of the age, at a time when his untiring work for Poland overtaxed his strength and impaired his health had recourse to Nuxated Iron to help rebuild his wasted forces and restore his old-time health and strength.

"With the tremendous strain imposed by over two years of almost ceaseless work in the cause of his fatherland, of which he is the foremost figure today, it is easily understood why Paderewski sought the sustaining tonic benefits of Nuxated Iron," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Quindor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of the vital force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. Thousands of men and women are impairing their constitutions, laying themselves open to illness and literally losing their grip on health, simply because their blood is thinning out and possibly starving through lack of iron. Iron is absolutely essential to enable your blood to transform the food you eat into muscular tissue and brain. Without iron there is no strength, vitality and endurance to combat obstacles or withstand fatigue. To help make strong sturdy men of blood and iron there is nothing better than organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Mr. Paderewski says: 'I am using Nuxated Iron very frequently and consider it as an excellent tonic.'"

POLITICS AND GAME LAWS DON'T MIX SAY SPORTS

The movement inaugurated by the Oregon Sportsmen's League to rid the State Fish and Game Commission of its dual control by political and commercial interests is arousing keen interest on the part of those interested in the fostering of our wild life. The establishment of the commission on an efficient basis is of interest to every citizen of the state.

We are entering on an area of road building and development and are advertising to the tourists of the world to come to Oregon. Hand-in-glove with this plan is that of propagating and protecting our game fish and wild bird and animal life, and turning it into a practical asset of the state. The wild life of Maine attracts visitors from all over the East and is today one of her chief assets, yielding millions of revenue every year. This can be duplicated in Oregon.

Politics and game protection do not mix any more than oil and water.

Since 1915 Commercial interests have dominated the commission's affairs so completely that last year's record shows that only 3,694,174 game trout were liberated, while expenditures from the Game Fund were $93,401.69, and that in the same time $66,090.00 was expended from the Commercial Fund, resulting in the liberating of 35,395,155 salmon fry. Not only have we failed to liberate more trout as the years go by, but we have actually seen the number decrease. To this there is only one answer—absolute depletion of our streams.

The Oregon Sportsmen's League has no candidates for membership on the Commission, nor any suggestions as to who shall be the new fish and game warden, but stands absolutely for the elimination of the political and commercial control in the commission's affairs.

WORTH MENTIONING

A sale of granite ware which is scheduled to take place at the Frank Busch store here for Saturday, is worth mentioning to our readers. The bargain is of exceptional worth, and the firm is going to sell each granite article for the sum of 95c. The present market price on this kind of granite ware is worth about double the sale price. From now on this paper will mention sales worth while to our readers, so as to inform them where to get the most—considering quality—for their money.

SGT. MANNING HOME FROM OVERSEAS DUTY

Word has been received here that Sergeant C. D. Manning has arrived from overseas and is now in San Francisco with the 27th casualty company. He is the son of Mrs. R. C. New, of Clackamas. He was in almost every engagement on the Argonne front and has been wounded several times. He arrived in San Francisco last Wednesday and will be mustered out of the service at the Presidio there in a few days.

EARL KISER, MANY TIMES WOUNDED, ARRIVES IN U. S.

Earl Kiser, who was severely wounded in France while serving with the U. S. forces there, is rapidly recovering and in safe hands, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Kiser, of West Linn. Although the young hero wrote about 50 letters to his parents here, not one of them was received except the last one the other day. He is a member of Company L, Michigan division, having been transferred to that company from Company D. The young man was wounded in a battle in the woods near Tours, France, in August. He was the first young man to enlist from West Linn and go to the Mexican border. Private Kiser is a brother of Mrs. Richard Bitner, of West Linn, who has been so active in that locality in the interests of the Red Cross.
