CHILD AMERICANIZATION

There is a growing apprehension of the evils that menace the future and an apparent desire to avert trouble by means of preventive measures. It is coming to be recognized that by making good Americans of all of the nation's children, the alien problem of the future will be practically solved.

The easiest way to teach American ideals and loyalty is to begin with the little child; therefore the United States bureau of education and the National Kindergarten association, working together from 8 West 40th street, New York, are urging the immediate introduction of the kindergarten into all public schools as a vital Americanizing agency.

As a result of their efforts, Texas and California are conducting intensive campaigns, and letters from persons in every state show an increasing interest in securing this educational advantage for the children of their communities.

More than 70% of the children of our own state are deprived of kindergarten education. We should take steps immediately to remedy this condition, and have kindergartens put into all of our schools this year.

TWO SCHOOLS WIN STATE HONOR AWARD OF CLUBS

Boys and Girls club certificates of achievement have been granted the Pleasant Hill and Clairmont school clubs. The latter club won a credit of 100 per cent. Only one certificate was issued by the state club leader for Clackamas county last year. Few counties in the state will be awarded more than one this year. At least 70 per cent of the projects undertaken by club members must be completed and receive approval of the state club leader before these distinction-attests are issued.

Members of the Clairmont club are, Katherine Schmitz, Alfred Schmitz, Helen Gaffney, Helen Hose, Filmore Gaffney, Esther Jones and Violet

Feunial. The Pleasant Hill club is made up of, Marie Kruger, Opal Heater, Vera Hines, Margarette Feerster, Lucy Oberst, Lucile Davis, and Viola Herman.

The certificates are signed by the state club leader, H. C. Seymour, James Withycombe, who was the governor when they were issued, O. H. Benson, federal club leader, W. J. Kerr, president of the state agricultural college, J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of public instruction, O. D. Center, director of the extension service, J. E. Calavan, superintendent of Clackamas county schools, and one teacher of the school in which the club is formed.

Requirements for standard clubs include, at least five members working on the same project, an adult local club leader in charge during the year, organization with officers, definite program for the club year, at least six regular club meetings a year, an annual local exhibit, a demonstration team of three members which must give at least one public demonstration in the community, a judging team chosen by competition among the members, completion of projects and filing of final reports by at least 70 per cent of the members, an achievement exhibition at the close of each club year, membership in the county farm bureau held by the club. The state club leader will recommend that a standard charter be issued when the first four requirements have been met. Instructions which will then be provided for each club member include report cards and lessons in sewing and cookery, ten of which will be received by each member annually.

Non-standard club memberships include nearly all the projects and training that is provided for standard clubs.

Boys' and Girls' Club work is part of the extension service of the Oregon Agricultural College and the United States Department of Agriculture cooperating with the State Department of Education. Its object is to interest the boys and girls in farm and home activities and to train their hands and minds by productive employment to the end that they may assist the community and nation in the production and conservation of food and become more efficient members of the community.

Club work is the 4H brand of education, the four H's representing the equal training of the head, heart, hands, and health.

Any boy or girl between the ages of 9 and 18, inclusive, on October 15, 1919, may become a club member, whether attending school or not.

All instructions will be mailed to members, however, not distributed by the club leaders. Individual members must make all reports directly to the state club leader.

Club projects for Oregon include corn growing, potato growing, vegetable gardening, poultry raising, pork production, sheep raising, calf raising, dairy herd record keeping, canning, cooking, canning team contests, sewing, rabbit raising, rural home beautification and milk goat care. One or more of these projects is selected by each member.

About the State

Resume of the News of the Week from All Parts of Oregon

Congressman W. C. Hawley delivered the Easter address at Knox Butte Union Sunday school.

F. J. Miller has been appointed chairman for Linn county in the reconstruction campaign.

Several arrests have been made this spring of residents and non-residents fishing without licenses in Oregon.

Ben Boringer, a well known resident of the Mesama district, died Sunday night as the result of a runaway accident.

Telephone service in Woodburn has been suspended on Sundays by a new rule. Only emergency calls will now be handled on the Sabbath.

Grand Chancellor Fred J. Johnson of Astoria and Grand Keeper of Records and Seals Walter G. Gleason of Portland visited the Albany lodge Knights of Pythias Monday evening.

Unusual building activity is reported from numerous points in Oregon. An increasing boom in business and residence construction is being predicted by authorities.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Troost celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with their children and grand children around them at their home on Bybee avenue, Sellwood, Wednesday of last week.

"We all need the services of a night patrolman," says the Gresham Outlook, after observing that a truck drove up to the Union high school there one night recently and left for parts unknown with two cords of perfectly good wood, robbing the community, not a mere private citizen.

Celebration of peace seems tentatively to have been set for the Fourth of July in Oregon. Plans are going forward in Woodburn for just such a celebration, and a similar move in Aurora has been started, which will include a big reception for all returned soldiers. It is probable that many other towns will accept the idea and make next Independence day the date of formal celebration of permanent peace. It is believed that all matters of wars and treaties will have been settled before that time.

INDIAN POET REFLECTS PRESENT MIND OF RACE

Civilization's arts subtly spread, seeping into the last outposts of primitive life, into the minds of peoples whose forefathers knew nothing of them. Now comes the Indian poet, pioneer possibly in this field, but with the poet's mind, the man who would have been the tribe tale-teller in years of untrammelled freedom. He is White Eagle of Gillette, Wyo. He visited the COURIER office Monday and presented a strange little book of verses. In technique and metre they may contain rough edges, but in philosophy and rhythm there is genuine, if weird, reflection of the modern Indian mind. White Eagle knows. Here is his "Indian's Lament."

Game all gone, we working now; Bows broken, we running plow; Raise big pumpkin, sell in town; Kill um fat hog, salt him down; Overalls on, blankets gone, White man shirts, no nice beads on.

Old time Indian think it bad, Smoking him pipe, feeling sad. Squatting by the tepee door That old times come back no more.

Record Endangered Postmaster Cook stands to lose hard-won fame because he has a swelled head—not the "swell head." He has the mumps and can't be the first one to wear a straw hat this spring, as has been his wont for many years.

Can You Depend Upon Your Eyes?

If you cannot depend upon your eyes do not run the risk of a complete breakdown of the delicate eye-muscles—have the exterior and interior of your eye-mechanism examined by our reliable optometrist. We will determine your visual acuity for near and far seeing. If you need bifocals we will suggest fused lens that give the appearance of one lens. Our moderate prices will interest you.

Friends have asked us why we "bother to sell tires."

We have a fine business in automobiles. We expect to have a better business every year. For the performance of our car in the hands of owners makes such a stir of favorable comment that sales have an amazing natural growth.

But the satisfaction which an automobile gives in use is very largely dependent on its tires. If the tire is poor the car gets a reputation for being hard on tires. And this would be fatal.

So we sell and recommend Goodyear Tires because we are sure that these reflect credit on our car by giving the lowest possible net tire cost per mile.
