FEW ADVERTISERS FAIL

Advertising merchants constitute only 16 per cent of all business failures reported in Bradstreet and Dun, says an O. A. C. news exchange. Of all business failures in the entire country 84 per cent are non-advertisers, mostly small town merchants. "This shows that the country town merchant is not using publicity as he ought," declares the exchange. The O. A. C. dispatch says that Oregon editors have long known that the phenomenal success of mail order houses in Oregon is due to paid publicity, but many merchants seem to think that this fact is used only to wheedle money out of them. The merchants can hardly accuse the great rating firms of Bradstreet and Dun of being partners in this imaginary scheme.

COLLEGE NEWSPAPER

LAUDS LOCAL STUDENT

When Miss Evangeline Dye returned to her studies in the Oregon Agricultural college at Corvallis, The Barometer, student organ, had this to say:

"In high school Miss Dye was prominent in debates and took part in a number of debates with other schools. In college she has not only done well known for her high standing in scholarship but also for her leadership in student activities. She was elected Barometer reporter for Waldo hall in her sophomore year and in her junior year she was editor of the class sections of the 1919 Beaver. As vice-president of the college Y. W. C. A., Eva had charge of the membership committee which has done much to aid the spread of Christian ideals and principles. She is senior member of the executive council of the Women's league and has been a member of the Pan-Hellenic for two years. During the regime of the S. A. T. C. she had supervision of mess for 1,200 who ate at the army six weeks. Miss Dye is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority."

The Oregon City girl is a daughter of C. H. Dye, prominent local attorney, and Eva Emery Dye, author of "The Conquest," one of the most widely read books of recent publication, and works on Oregon history. She had been ill of influenza several months. Her return to regular classes late in the term was allowed because of her record of 91 per cent throughout her college career as a home economics student.

Fishermen Arrested

Two fishermen, R. L. Young and M. Kaddery were arrested Tuesday for fishing in the river at this point with two lines each. They appeared before Justice Stipp, who took both cases under advisement.

AMERICAN ARMY WAS #### LARGER THAN BRITAIN'S

At the signing of the armistice, the American army on the western front was second in size only to that of France, and occupied the second largest extent of the fighting front. On November 11, the American troops held 134.25 kilometers of the total front of 642 kilometers, compared with 40 kilometers held by the Belgians, 113 by the British and 354 by the French. In January of that year, the Americans held only 10 kilometers of the fighting line, the British 187, the French 520 and the Belgians 40.

The American army was being rapidly increased and the extent of the front they held so extended that in a few more months, had the war gone on, they doubtless would have had more fighting men at the front and would have held more of the line than the French. And this was accomplished by a war department whose critics declared had "ceased to function."

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford One Ton Truck may well be classed as an agricultural necessity, it fits into and fills so many wants on the farm. It is a reliable bearer of farm burdens, not only doing the work of several horses quicker and better than the horse, and does not "eat its head off" when not working.

The aggressive farmer has only to consider the possibilities of the Ford truck and he is ready to buy one. We judge this to be so from the way farmers are buying them. Truck Chassis $550 f. o. b. Detroit.
