SCHOOLS CLOSE SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Following is the program given: Music, high school orchestra; invocation, Rev. C. H. L. Chandler; chorus, high school glee club; address, Dr. John H. Boyd, of the First Presbyterian church of Portland; music, high school orchestra; presentation of diplomas, Chairman Jos. E. Hedges; awarding class honors, Principal W. A. Arant; music, Amariyllis-Barlow High School Girls' Quartet, consisting of Maude Lageson, Flossie Blackburn, Esther Staats, and Mabel Morgan.

A scholarship was awarded to Margaret Toedemeir by the Willamette university, and Margaret Clark received a scholarship offered by Whitman college. The two scholarships offered by the Oregon Conference of Colleges went to Florence Kerr and Florence McGeehan. The Oregon Conference of Colleges includes Pacific, McMinnville, Philomath and Albany colleges and the Pacific university. The conditions varied for awarding these honors but always included a high scholarship standard. Florence Andrews some time ago received free scholarship in the Art school at Portland.

Following are the names of the graduates from the Oregon City high school for the year 1919:

Marie Andresen, Florence Olivia Andrews, Margaret Ann Beattie, Flossie Mae Blackburn, Dorothy A. Blake, Earl C. Boardman, Edgar Robb Brock, Payne Eleanor Burdon, Margaret Jane Clark, Clara Belle Davis, Emma Jeanette Dohring, Mildred Josephine Ellis, Clarence Alvin Enghouse, Genevieve E. Evon, Hazel Ruby Fenton, Edith M. Freese, Algier Merle Gottberg, Clara B. Harbison, Lillian Harris.

Florence C. Hart, Ferrell Albert Heater, Henry Heardt, Grace D. Helaby, Roswell Morris Holman, Howard Lawrence Hull, Anna L. Johnson, Umatilla Johnson, Clara

OREGON CHICKS WANTED ON CALIFORNIA FARMS

White leghorns of the O. A. C. strain are wanted by California commercial poultrymen. W. L. Sales, a Petaluma grower, has just visited the college to place an order for more than 1000 cockerels with Oregon poultrymen who breed the college stock. The order was placed with Groves and Reusch, whose farms are near Corvallis.

Mr. Sales was attracted by the vigor and laying qualities of the college strain, and when he saw an advertisement of some of the college birds in a Petaluma paper he came north to place large orders. He expects to distribute the cockerels among the poultry breeders who supply him with hatching eggs for his incubators, which turn out 100,000 chicks a month. His purpose is to increase the egg-yield in the famous Petaluma district by introducing new stock in the form of high bred males. So great is the demand for this stock that the Petaluma advertisement brought orders for several thousand cockerels.

The poultry department has sent out many breeding males to Oregon poultrymen but only in limited numbers to any one person or firm. This policy has enabled many commercial growers in Oregon to develop large flocks of the O. A. C. strain, and these breeders are able to offer breeding males in large numbers.

The work of the poultry department was heartily commended by Mr. Sales who says that its equipment is not above the reach of any commercial grower. He considers the work most valuable in that it provides breeders with a source of well bred stock to improve their home and commercial flocks.

Foolish Fear of Poverty.

A great deal of apparent poverty comes from dread of poverty. A man saves every cent and goes mind and soul hungry, and, ten to one, he is starving somebody else at the same time along with himself. He is really poor, for the time being, although he has a large bank account.

Poverty will come every time as the result of the improper attitude toward money. Money is not a reality; it represents things that we consider for our good. But there is no poverty like that of the starved soul that shrinks and dries up into narrowness and compression. In getting the feeling of wealth look about you. See all the wonders of nature; believe that wonders will happen and then get ready for them.

After the day's work is done build air castles, and then go in and lay a strong foundation under one of them. Expect to develop into efficiency necessary for the bigger job. The key to this lies in your hands in doing the little things well.—Patrick Fenton in Nautilus.

Praise of Open Fires.

To many of us plain bread-and-butter persons, praise of open fires sometimes seems a little too warm and comfortable—too snugly contemplative. We like open fires. We would have them in every room in the house except the kitchen and the bathroom—and perhaps in the bathroom, where we could hang our towels from the mantelpiece (as gallant practical gentlemen, now some centuries dead, named it) by hanging up their wet mantles and let them warm while we were taking our bath. We go as far as any in regarding the open fire as a welcoming host in the hall, an undisturbing companion in the library, an encourager of digestion in the dining room, and a goodnight thought of hospitality in the guest chamber. But we cannot follow the essayist who speaks contemptuously of hot-water pipes. "From the security of ambush," says he, "they merely heat, and heat whose source is invisible is not to be coveted at all."

Oh, merely heat!—From the Atlantic.

A Watch and No Owner.

The owner of a Shelby county watermelon patch has found a watch therein. The watch is said to be in good condition and ready to be restored to its owner upon proving property, paying for the newspaper notice, and possibly fully explaining just how and why the watch got into the melon patch. Unless it is a mighty valuable watch we have serious doubts as to its being claimed.—St. Louis Republic.

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well."

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. I relieved me from my troubles."

so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years experience is at your service.

Commander a "Good Fellow." One of the home-guard boys had on a uniform that was too large for him. While waiting on the station platform for the train to come the commander noticed this boy and coming up to him turned him around and around, looking him over on every side. Finally he said: "Young man, that suit does not fit you."

The boy, not realizing to whom he was talking, promptly retorted: "Well, that is no reason why I should be made a windmill of, is it?"

Luck favored him and the commander laughed.

DAIRYMEN'S PICNIC PROVES SUCCESS AT LOGAN SAT. The Dairymen's picnic, which took place last Saturday at Logan was attended by over 150 farmers and stockmen, and the program for the day, and especially the speakers, was enjoyed by all. An exhibition of fine dairying stock was made at the gathering by Mr. Smith, and Professor Westover, of the O. A. C., of Corvallis, gave an address on the value of good breeding stock. Brooks Hogan,

REALLY NO SECRET

Power to Charm Lies in Forgetfulness of Self.

Women Who Fascinate Have Simply Developed the Art or Power of Putting Others "On Good Terms With Themselves."

A vivacious woman writer seeking the secret of feminine fascination, finds it in the art or power some women have of charming others by putting them, as a blunt Britisher phrased it, "on ripping good terms with themselves." Is not this a characteristic of almost all those persons, men and women, whom we like the best and enjoy the most? Do they not, either by artifice or by instinct, endeavor to make the people they meet feel that they amount to something, know something, have some excellence, attractiveness or interesting qualities, and thus put them on pleasant terms with themselves. The persons who are least adept at this or least inclined to try it are the self-centered, self-important people completely absorbed in their own affairs and not wise or well-bred in little worlds of which they are the centers, and may be said in a certain sense to revolve about themselves.

This is a characteristic brought up from lower forms of life from which we are ancestrally derived and only in part outgrown. For most animals the only concern of the least importance are those which directly affect themselves. They are egocentric. The things that touch them make up their world and they have no interests outside of that. More than any other animal the dog can sink his personality so to speak, subordinate himself and make his master's interests his own. Only infrequent individuals of other species can or will do this. Hence dogs as a rule are more companionable for men than any other living creatures below him in the evolutionary scale.

But to return to human beings, Josephine was the most beloved and charming woman in France because she took a genuine and kindly interest in the affairs of all with whom she came in touch. She was outgoing, inclusive in her sympathies and thus contracted antagonism created by Napoleon, who was self-centered to an extraordinary degree. Not to multiply examples, does not experience teach all observant people that in selflessness lies the secret of charm? Are not the lovable people those whose love goes out spontaneously, or appears to? Is not egocentricity, entire absorption in themselves, a characteristic held in common by most of the people who get on one's nerves? Kind hearts are more than coronets, said Tennyson.

More attractive, therefore, than beauty or the brilliancy and glitter of intellectuality is the drawing power of kindly consideration for others. Fascination is born of the heart, not of the mind; and whether instinctive or acquired, would seem to be the art of entering into the lives of others and putting them, as the Englishman said, on good terms with themselves.—Rochester Post-Express.

She Knew Better Anyhow. A certain small town, seven miles from somewhere else, as the crowd flies, boasted only two physicians, Doctor Smith and Doctor Brown. There was considerable rivalry between the two knights of the pill and powder and when Doctor Smith received a very urgent call from a young farmer about four miles in the country, he left an office full of patients, cranked up what has to be cranked up and was off.

When he arrived at the farmer's house he found that a three-year-old "farmer" had cut his finger. The doctor was chagrined when he saw the "serious" nature of the accident. He thought of the office full of patients he had left and had visions of them walking in single file to the office of Doctor Brown.

"It was very, very silly of you to call me on this case," he said, somewhat testily, to the farmer's wife.

"I know it was, but Doctor Brown was out."

Strained His Telescope. The oldest inhabitant of Little Cockerleton possesses a telescope which he never uses.

"Why don't you make use of it sometimes, James?" a neighbor asked.

"It used to be a good 'n," James said sorrowfully, "but it's broke now."

"Broken?" the neighbor asked.

"How's that?"

"Well," James replied, "it was such a good 'n that I could see the old church steeple five miles away quite plain, but Joseph, the scoundrel, got the lens of it and tried to make out of the steeple of the Methodist chapel morn'n ten miles away. He tried and tried and couldn't, so that he strained my glass and it's never been right since. Drat Joseph!"

Twice Proven. If you suffer backache, sleepless nights, tired, dull days and distressing urinary disorders, don't experiment. Read this twice-told testimony. It's Oregon City evidence—doubly proven.

Mrs. Thos. Blanchard, Sr., 1102 John Adams St., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney and bladder trouble that had annoyed me for years and have received fine relief. I have taken in all, less than two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills but they have shown their merit so that I can endorse them and advise their use to others."

The above statement was given on April 4, 1913 and on April 17, 1916, Mrs. Blanchard said: "I have certainly found Doan's Kidney Pills to be all that is claimed for them. Whenever I have occasion to take a kidney medicine I use Doan's for I know they are most reliable."

Accessory Service Important

This year one of the important considerations in buying will be the service which the various accessory manufacturers will be able to provide for the convenience of the motorist. Accessory service has always been important but with many service organizations depleted during the war and not built up, it behooves the prospective automobile purchaser to look carefully into the opportunities he will have to secure service of the accessories of his car because of the fact that the WILLARD STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY lost no time in rebuilding its service organizations with the result that WILLARD SERVICE STATIONS all over the country are now back on pre-war basis.

"We realized the necessity for rapid readjustment as soon as the Armistice was signed," said W. W. Wynekan, sales manager for the Willard Company recently, "and we started at once to rebuild our organization. Probably no other manufacturer of a motor car accessory lost as large a proportion of its men as the Willard Company did. Aside from our losses through volunteers and draft we were constantly being asked to supply expert battery engineers to the Government. These men came from our factory, branch office and service station organizations. Many of them have returned however, and others will soon be released. As a result since January first, we have appointed over one hundred new Willard Service Stations in the United States and foreign countries. Any man can buy a motor car now with the assurance that there is a Willard Service Station close to him where he can secure expert advice and information about this battery."

HESPERIAN MAKES ANNUAL APPEARANCE ON JUNE 9th

The Hesperian, a magazine published annually by the Oregon City high school seniors, made its appearance Monday with the annual number. It is one of the best issues ever put out by the senior class of the high school, and is profuse with engravings, half-tone cuts and special articles. The magazine consists of 151 pages, and the title page carries a beautiful picture of the Willamette falls. The entire graduating class is shown in the issue, besides each member on the board of directors.

Bernice Beryl Mack

Bernice Beryl Mack, daughter of L. R. and Mable A. Mack, died at the family home at 451 Marguerite avenue, Portland, Friday morning at 7:45, after an illness of 11 days. The little girl was 13 months old and the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Mack. The funeral services were held from the family home in Portland Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and the remains brought to Oregon City, arriving at Mountain View cemetery about 3:30, where the interment took place in the family lot. L. R. Mack, father of the little girl, was a former resident of Oregon City.
