ROCKEFELLER'S NIECE ENGAGED TO SWISS

Disparity in Age and Wealth Are Ignored in the Power of Romance.

The country's society section has been agog over the announcement of the engagement of the granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, the world's wealthiest financier. There are two reasons for the gossip and the newspaper headlines portraying this engagement of the heir to millions to a Swiss horseman.

One is the great disparity in wealth involved and the other is the difference in the ages of the pair—she 17 and he 44 years old.

It is reported that Harold McCormick, father of Mathilde, gave readily his consent, the mother ignores the match as does the sister; and J. D. is yet to be interviewed for consent.

The groom is described as belonging to one of Switzerland's best families himself, modest, intelligent and of rural tastes, a fine horseman owning excellent stables and genuinely in love with his youthful fiancée.

This wedding will take place it is believed in early summer and the home will be in a rural section of Switzerland it is said.

OPPOSITION HARD AT WORK AGAINST TREATY

Thirty-Three Votes Necessary to Defeat Measure in the Senate.

The treaties arising from the disarmament conference are before the senate where they will probably be accepted except the Four-Power pact which deals with international matters.

It is an agreement between the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan, with a view to preserving peace in the Pacific.

At first politicians like Borah, Johnson, Shields and Reed opposed it claiming that under its provisions this country would have to go to the aid of Japan in case of trouble on her mainland. The possibility of such interpretation was promptly removed at the leadership of Secretary Hughes and yet the "irreconcilables" find some other possible interpretation upon which they oppose ratification.

It will require 33 votes to reject this pact and it will soon be clear whether in the senate there will be this number lined up against it. Opposition to alliances is the chief weapon now wielded by the opposition.

U. of O. Summer Term Has Great Schedule

Summer work on the campus of the university of Oregon in 1922 will be much like the instruction given in the other terms of the college year, according to Colin V. Dymont, director.

He adds that the only differences will be that the offerings of the summer term will be somewhat restricted and specialized and that more attention will be given proportionately to the needs of advanced students. Some elementary courses will be offered but the emphasis will be upon those courses in which the libraries and laboratories on the campus can be used to best advantage by mature and experienced students.

Dean Henry D. Sheldon comes back to the summer term as head of the education work, assisted by Assistant Superintendent Thomas R. Cole of Seattle, Professor Carl Douglas and two other instructors. Miss H. H. who will head the department of English, has called Dr. Otis Richardson of the university of Idaho to give courses in English literature. Dr. Samuel B. Harding comes from the university of Iowa, and will offer work in history.

MULTNOMAH COUNTY WILL PAY HER SHARE OF LOOP ROAD

The United States Government, State and Counties Bear Share of Cost

WORK WILL PROCEED

Portion of Loop Outside Forest Reserves Costs $640,000, Clackamas County to Pay $83,000.

When arranging for the improvement of the Mt. Hood Loop road extending from Portland up the Columbia highway to Hood River, thence up the Hood River valley around Mt. Hood through Government camp, Sandy, Gresham and back to Portland.

Clackamas county through her county court agreed to pay $83,000; the state through the highway commission pays as its share of the loop outside the forest reserve approximately $387,000; Multnomah county outside the reserves $107,000. The state and the United States pay for the improvement within the reserves.

Altogether this loop road will cost Multnomah county about $1,000,000, and its entire cost will be about $5,000,000 for one of the most scenic highways in the country.

After apportionments of costs had been settled upon, the tax commission for Multnomah county cut off the funds intended by the commissioners for this improvement and the whole project was "in the air." The said commission gave as one of the reasons for cutting off the funds that there were doubts as to the legality of Multnomah county spending money outside for road purposes. But the district attorney for the county has given as his opinion to County Commissioners Holman, Hoyt and Rudeen that they may legally direct the expenditures of the county's share of funds derived under the motor vehicle law.

The budget for road work on the Mt. Hood loop road. To Clackamas county the completion of the "loop" means $640,000 worth of highway for $83,000.

It is expected that work will now proceed and the highway covering territory in both Multnomah and Clackamas counties will be completed at an early date.

Later advice show deficits for the Multnomah county commissioners to meet and which may delay the matter a little longer.

The symposium in charge of Mrs. Dye will again be a feature of the program. The hour for this part of the program is set for four to five o'clock.

The regulatory provision now for the buzz buggies on Main street is that they must not remain thereon longer than 45 minutes.

The city officials have been lenient with those who have transgressed the laws in this regard but with the metal warnings installed compliance with the regulations will be insisted upon, the officials announce.

PROSPECTS FOR BONUS BILL NOT BRIGHT AT THIS TIME

Opposition Grows Stronger As Measure Comes on For Final Vote

HARDING STANDS FIRM

Plan Most Favored Is to Provide for Payment From Proceeds of Foreign War Debts.

The bonus bill has arrived at a point in congress where it makes no progress. One of several things which will give it new life or kill it for the time must result from the political pull and haul to which it has been subjected. There is now probability that no bonus bill will pass this session. Again it is possible for some form of bill to be passed by the house and receive the ax in the senate or veto by the president. Or that a bill may be passed providing for payment of the bonus from the war debts of Europe.

The president has held to the position that no bill will be acceptable to him which does not provide sure and adequate means of payment to the soldiers. With this view he could do no less than veto the proposed European debt method of payment as it would be neither sure or adequate.

So much opposition and feeling has been stirred up over the bonus measure by manipulating politicians who keep an eye on the soldiers' vote that even the political value, whatever the outcome, will not be very great.

Those congressmen who have promised to vote for the measure and who must go before their people for election next fall are anxious to get a chance to record a favorable vote. Those who feel themselves safe or who hold over this next election prefer to wait for a final vote until after the "idea" of November for an honest business vote.

The president resents the course means brought to bear upon him in the matter and will, it is believed, continue to oppose all bills which do not provide definite means for raising the money for payment.

Hence hopes for a satisfactory bonus measure during this session of congress are not very bright.

BIG EXPENDITURES SCHEDULED BY GREAT NORTHERN

Oregon and Washington Will Profit by Improvements Costing $3,500,000.

Officials of the Pacific coast are now optimistic over the future of business in Oregon, especially, Enclenched thus, they have been planning to handle increased business particularly in lumber. And with this outlook the Great Northern has recently with the Northern Pacific company, taken over the Astoria and Pacific railway which extends to the timber sections of Tillamook, Clatsop, Washington and Columbia counties.

These tremendous expenditures are justified the railroad authorities believe on the basis that the purchase and use of material will create business for others and in so doing will help the roads themselves.

Among the improvements will be an addition of several hundred new freight cars, the wood of which will be fir; new block signals and terminals. Altogether the Great Northern will expend in improvements on its lines $15,000,000.

It is expected that passenger rates this next summer will be 2 cents a mile from this section to Chicago and from all eastern points they will be at a pre-war level. Freight rates have been reduced on some commodities and other reductions await lowering of costs of labor and materials. It is expected that the lower passenger rates will greatly stimulate travel.

Christopher Neunchwonder Passes. The funeral services of Christopher Neunchwonder were held from the church at Yoder on Friday, last, with interment in Yoder cemetery. The deceased had passed the three-score years and ten mile stone and is survived by his widow and daughter.

New Bridge Span in Place.

That work on the new bridge across the Willamette is on in earnest is evidenced by the erection of the span which is now in place. Work is being rushed at the east approach of the bridge also.

The report that the bridge will not stand floods and that it will obstruct boat traffic to any considerable extent is decryed by the state highway engineer, Herbert Nunn. He declares that the bridge will admit of navigation for any height of water except at a point reached only once during the past 40 years and then only two or three days.

The speaker condemned the celluloid playthings given the child, dresses, receptacles and other celluloid articles and demonstrated their combustibility by setting fire to them with an ordinary match. He demonstrated the danger of fire from the use of ordinary stove polish by setting fire to a few drops on a piece of paper.

He condemned the use of gasoline and showed it to be one of the most prolific causes of fires.

By moving pictures he showed buildings in the burning, noted the causes and urged prevention.

Statistics showed, said he, that every building is subject to fire once in 11 years.

In the afternoon Mr. Stevens addressed the high school and showed his pictures at the Shively opera house in the evening. His talks were very entertaining, instructive and should have been heard by every citizen.

GUBERNATORIAL RACE SHOWS PROGRESS DURING WEEK

Hall, Lee and Bean Have Now Definitely Committed Themselves

OTHERS CONSIDERING

Taxation Is Chief Plank in Platforms Congressman W. C. Hawley Has Lone Field So Far.

This week sees the scoring turned into a final get-away for at least two aspirants for governor, although there has been so far not even the suggestion of a scorer to contend for W. C. Hawley's congressional post.

Senator Charles Hall of Marshfield has crossed the "line" and with the endorsement of the federated societies has sent out over the state announcement of his platform. He declares for reduction of taxes on general property; state government machinery of ten departments instead of the four-score or more commissions, boards, etc.; increased market facilities; increased credits for the farmer; gasoline tax for highway use; completion of state highway systems with special attention to market sections; continued building up of the public schools; against Japanese land ownership or control; and for strict enforcement of all laws.

J. D. Lee of Portland, who was the first to lay claim to gubernatorial honors, is making a quiet, persistent campaign in and about his own city and will no doubt, extend his efforts to other parts of the state soon.

Stephen A. Lowell of Pendleton has announced a platform, but has not put forth organized or personal effort in behalf of his candidacy.

Louis Bean has already campaigned in eastern Oregon. Patterson and Kelly are non-committal.

Ben V. Olcott, present governor, has whatever aspirations he may have to succeed himself securely locked in his own bosom. It is very patent, however, that he will announce his candidacy in due time and form. And with many others in the field, it is predicted in various political quarters that with his prestige and patronage he will be at least a very formidable candidate.

No one has so far announced himself a competitor for Congressman Hawley's toga.

List of Legislative Candidates Grows

There are now three candidates who have announced their intention to run for the office of state senator from Clackamas county. F. J. Toose, from Canemah precinct; William Stone, Oregon City, and R. E. Church, Barlow.

Of the candidates for representatives are Philip Hammond, Oregon City; I. C. Bridges, Oregon City; George Randall, New Era; M. L. Lee, Canby. Messrs. Hammond and Bridges have announced themselves and it is expected the others will do so on the near future.

The Banner-Courier will give the platform of all candidates so far as possible to obtain them in the very near future.

Matt Scribner Gone.

Matt Scribner, prominent farmer of the Logan section, died at his home on Monday this week, from apoplexy. He was a long-time and well-known resident in this county. Those who are left to mourn are his wife; his children, Olga and Del, and a sister, Mrs. W. L. Bell, of Bend, Ore.

Siam Missionary Will Speak.

Mrs. Henry White, wife of the pastor of the Millard Avenue Presbyterian church, Portland, will be the speaker at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening.

The occasion is the annual praise service and thanksgiving gathering under the auspices of the Missionary society. Rev. and Mrs. White for years, and until recently missionaries in Siam, which country will furnish the theme of Mrs. White's address, which will be accompanied by the presentation of stereopticon pictures. The address and pictures will be of special interest to Oregon City residents, as they will portray the conditions under which the Brodie family are living. One of the finest pieces of missionary work in the world is being done by the Presbyterian church in that unique country.

Clackamas County Honored.

At the Oregon Retail Merchants' association meeting at Roseburg last week, Everman Robbins, merchant of Molalla, and F. A. Rosecrans of Canby, were elected respectively to the office of first vice-president and director.
