

THE UNITED STATES BALKS AT GENOA CONFERENCE

Principles Political Rather Than Economic and Financial to Govern.

Secretary Hughes, representing the United States declined the invitation to the government to participate in the Genoa conference.

The seriousness of the situation now lies in the rules and regulations which the allied countries have hedged about the conference.

This means capitalistic things for capitalists' countries, and communist things for communist countries.

Another condition is that all nations to take part shall be not guilty of aggression against their neighbors.

This country waits for Russia to evolve conditions economic and financial satisfactory to us before resumption of trade.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

from West Linn The sophomore class taffy pull held in the domestic science room last Tuesday night proved an enjoyable event for the faculty in attendance as well as the members of the class.

Mr. John Frederick Mason of the Linfield college, McMinnville, gave a short talk concerning a college education and then gave several readings which were well taken by the student body last Wednesday afternoon.

The cast of the annual senior class play are practicing for the night of March 31, when they will present the play, "The Wrong Mr. Wright."

Word has been received from Miss Ruth Embree from Honolulu, Hawaii, and her many friends in school are glad to hear that Ruth and her mother are enjoying their stay on the island very much.

Sophomore and senior history classes are planning to take a trip through the Oregon City Woolen mills some time in the near future, probably this afternoon.

Mr. C. O. Main, head of the mathematics department, has returned after a few weeks' illness from influenza.

Mr. F. W. Fletcher of the university of Oregon extension department and a graduate of Princeton university, gave an interesting talk on the university at Eugene, Friday morning.

The student body president and secretary as well as the usual editor and manager are contemplating a trip to the university of Oregon at Eugene during the week of April 14 and 15th to attend the conference.

A student body parliamentary practice meeting was held on St. Patrick's day morning.

Photographs of the individuals of the senior and junior classes and of the various group pictures of the different organizations for reproduction in the high school annual will be taken in Calvert's studio this week.

The business manager, Marvin Hickman, and his assistant, Gordon Hammerle, are now securing ads for the Green and Gold.

The millinery and sewing classes under Miss Reidman, of O. A. C., recently enrolled in the faculty, will begin next week.

Due to the influenza epidemic and the number of students who were absent on account of the malady, the regular six-week examinations which were to have been held March 2 and 3, will now take place at the same time of the next week, Thursday and Friday, April 13th and 14th.

Now that the basketball season has ended, the next thing that will hold the attention of the students is of baseball. Although the field is not yet in the best of shape and the weather still inclement, some of the candidates for the first team are already lumbering up and prospects for the season are, from the material on hand, very bright.

Likely first-team candidates are: Hammerle Simpson, Pepon, Hickman, Patterson, last year lettermen, and Mootry, Read, Buckles, Donnelly, Smith and Tuor.

Baseball Manager Elmer Simpson is now arranging a schedule for the ensuing season.

VIENNA CONDITIONS SHOULD STIR WORLD

Ghastly Hopelessness Stalks in the City is the Report of Y. M. C. A. Secretary.

Conditions in Vienna are so terrible that its present tragedy is a blot upon civilization. So says Miss Clarette Sehon, who has just arrived in New York from Prague, where she was active in Y. W. C. A. work by way of Vienna.

"The ghastly depression and hopelessness that stalks the city is so far-reaching that even the visitor well fed and transient, cannot escape it," says Miss Sehon. "One of the tens of thousands, slowly starving to death, a man well educated and accustomed to all the comforts of life, said to me 'We simply cannot stand it any longer. If the hunger and hopelessness does not lift, we will be killing each other next.' Only a few days later the riot started."

Before the war the Austrian kronen were worth five to our American dollar. During Miss Sehon's stay the exchange was six thousand kronen to the dollar, and shortly afterwards it went up to seven thousand.

"One woman told me she could only get one egg every three weeks and considered herself lucky at that," said Miss Sehon. "The universal starvation and its acceptance by those helplessly caught in one of the biggest after-tragedies of the war is certainly a blot upon all other countries, who stand by and allow it to continue."

The Friends, Miss Sehon said, are doing a wonderful work in Vienna, feeding thousands of children daily and giving clothing to the needy. Miss Sehon who has been overseas with the Y. W. C. A., since September, 1920, has left New York for her home in Louisville, Ky.

GREAT BRITAIN'S PREMIER FACING CRISIS

Troubles, Industrial, and Sectarian, Break Out in Several Countries of Realm.

The British government is having grave troubles, sectarian strife and industrial warfare vie with each other in opposition to law and order.

At home there are over a quarter million machinists, subjects of a lock-out, who bring the total of idle men in England up above the million mark.

In the Transvaal there is open warfare with a death list of 40. The cause is a strike among the gold miners and clash with the police.

India faces a revolution on a big scale. The demand of the Indian government that the Mohammedan power shall be restored in the near east and the subsequent dismissal of Montague, the Indian agent, popular with the natives for publication of the demands, has stimulated revolution. This arrest of the native leader Gandhi has added fuel to the probable flames.

Sectarian warfare between Ulsterites and Sinn Feiners has again broken out in Belfast and with the results so far that four of the Crown forces have met death.

Lloyd George, whose resignation was expected in a few days, will return from a vacation in Wales to lead the government in its present crisis.

The Boy Describes the Mule. Being told to write a brief essay on the mule, Ralph turned in the following description: "The mule is a hardier bird than the guse or the turkie. It has 2 legs to walk with, two more to kick with and wears his wings on the side of his head. It is stubbornly backward about coming forward."

Governor Davis Gives Fine Lecture

A wholesale reclamation of the American home should be made if the people of the United States are to subdue the ogre of depression, believes Governor Davis, of Idaho, who constituted the final number of the Elison-White presentations, at the Liberty theater last Thursday evening.

"During the war I am happy to say I made a suggestion which I believe would have saved the country from the period of deflation in which we are now situated. I urged that every man, woman and child be drafted into the service of the United States and paid the same amount per month as the men in the service. Profiteering would have been eliminated, and war-time millionaires would never have existed."

Governor Davis' life history is interesting. Starting by working in the mines, as a boy, he worked up to the manager of the store at the mines, then entered politics, and is now serving his second term as governor.

He is red-headed, aggressive, and does not pretend to be an orator. The middle west, believes Governor Davis, is too self centered. Their contention over the irrigation question is that there is enough land under cultivation now. He likened this attitude with that of the American families that feel that their children are getting along all right, when as a matter of fact, they are going to the "dogs" as fast as jazz and moonshine can drive them.

Then, when inflation should have stopped—Armistice day, 1918, it went steadily higher. So that now, when everything should be normal, it is found that money is tied up tight, and everyone holding to any straw they can find. This condition is the one which must be combatted if another panic is to be averted. The governor's solution to this problem is for everyone to put their money in circulation again—to take the family heirloom out of the family sock, and put it in a bank, where it may be loaned—and loaned some more. Figures the governor says are authentic show that $1,700,000 has been taken out of circulation—these figures the report of the U. S. Treasury department. In cold, hard English, what are we coming to?
