

FEW of our people realize that Oregon excels in not only natural resources, but in manufactured products most Pacific Coast states, and in many instances the entire United States.

A few high spots are enumerated below.

You are urged to familiarize yourself with these facts and seek to advance the state's interest by your personal effort and support upon every possible occasion.

One county in Oregon (Umatilla) produces 1 per cent of the wheat of the United States.

Oregon has a knitting mill that ships its products into eleven western states and two foreign countries. This factory's advertising carries Oregon's story throughout all the West. The raw material from the sheep's back goes as a finished product to gather new money from many distant places to make Oregon more prosperous.

Oregon walnuts and filberts are fast growing in favor and when the growers standardize their marketing methods, the Oregon nut will take its place in National markets.

One-fifth of the standing timber of the United States is in Oregon. The variety of merchantable timber in commercial quantities probably exceeds any state in the Union.

Sugar and yellow pine, red and yellow fir, spruce, red-wood, Port Orford cedar, are a few of the well-known woods.

Forty per cent of the water power of this country is within the borders of these four Northwestern states and only 5 per cent developed.

Oregon produced 10 per cent of the platinum used by the United States during the war.

The reputation of Oregon cheese extends to foreign countries.

Oregon's shipbuilding record is a world's record in many respects. We were able and did obtain greater returns on labor output and money costs than any other shipbuilding state. Up to October 1 the Oregon district produced in less than three years: 85 steel ship and 152 wood steamers, all equipped for sea.

In the manufacture of cereals, Oregon equals all and surpasses many other states west of the Rocky Mountains.

Oregon is the largest furniture manufacturing center in the entire West, and in some special lines of furniture we stand third in the entire United States. Our markets extend to some of the Latin-American countries.

The largest walnut grove in the U. S. is near Astoria, Oregon.

The largest prune orchard in the U. S. is near Eugene, Oregon.

A saddlery manufacturing Oregon leads Pacific Coast states and carries trade to points far east and south and to foreign countries as well.

In the handling of agricultural implements Portland is the fourth city in the United States.

In the manufacture of woollens Oregon is away ahead of other Western States. As a wool center Portland is the second city in the country.

In candy manufacturing Oregon is second to none other Pacific Coast state.

Our cracker and macaroni plants take the lead in the West. The third largest seller of soda crackers in the United States is made in Oregon.

The largest copper-smith plant in the entire United States is in Oregon.

The only carbon paper manufacturer west of Chicago is in Oregon.

The largest factory on the coast making rubber heels and soles is in Oregon.

Our paper mills and stove foundries equal any to be found in the West.

The largest single plant making jams and jellies west of the Mississippi is in Salem.

Carloads of our manufactured fruit items go to many states east of Chicago, are labeled by the jobber handling them as his private brand, and some few of our Oregon merchants buy them back under the lure that they must be better than Oregon can produce.

The only worsted mill west of the Ohio River is in Sellwood, a suburb of Portland. The yarn there produced from Oregon-grown wool is shipped to knitting mills in other states, fashioned into sweaters, bathing suits, caps, etc., and our merchants buy it back, paying freight two ways and charging you with it all.

Our woolen mills produce mackinaw and other cloth, ship it to many parts of the country to clothing manufacturers, who resell it to Oregon retail merchants, who might have purchased here in the first instance.

Oregon cherries, loganberries, prunes, apples and strawberries are known in every part of the country as being superior.

When the loganberry was first introduced it was regarded as a failure—it would not hold up under shipping. This fault has now been capitalized, and the fame of Oregon is being spread through the advertising of "Phez Loganberry Juice."

Razor strops made in Oregon are being nationally advertised and sold.

Candy made here is being advertised and nationally distributed.

Cough drops made in Oregon go to nearly every state in the United States.

Oregon robes and blankets are nationally advertised and nationally sold.

Drag saws made here are nationally advertised and distributed in twelve foreign countries.

Ice cream cones invented and made in Oregon first.

Oregon is the home of dehydrated fruit and vegetables—the quality and quantity unexcelled. An advertising program calls for the expenditure of a quarter of a million dollars in the next year in national mediums.

Portland is second city on Pacific Coast as a coffee roasting center.

An Oregon life insurance company has the best financial record of any company founded during the last 20 years. It is the only company that has shown a growth of insurance and surplus without having to obtain stockholders' aid beyond the original paying for stock subscribed. In the last four years it has written more life insurance than any other company doing business in the state.

ber production, and when attained it will be sustained for all future time.

The largest plant in the West devoted exclusively to boiler manufacturing is in Oregon.

No other state has such a wide area of fertile land uncultivated by rail-way lines as is represented in the great Central Oregon country—an area nearly as large as the State of Ohio. Think of the possibilities of the future when the land is under full cultivation and served by carriers.

Excepting in California, Oregon spends more per capita for public highways than any other state.

Some of the largest undeveloped potash and mineral salt fields and lakes in the world are in Oregon.

One of the largest quicksilver mines in the world is in Oregon, and even though not entirely developed, is one of the United States greatest producers of this mineral.

One of the largest lumber cargoes ever floated anywhere was from a Columbia River point below the City of Portland—the S. S. Algou carrying 6,200,000 feet.

Portland is the livestock center of the Pacific Northwest.

Oregon dairy cattle and poultry are in the world's record class.

Oregon canned milk is distributed to every civilized country in the world.

The payroll dollar is the fastest moving money in the world.

It finds its way into every line of business and professional life of the community.

Raw material producer, Transportation, Manufacturer, Worker, Merchant, Professional man, Tax man, Property owner, Farmer, fruit and stock-raiser. All share in the distribution of payroll money.

Your support of Oregon's industries helps them to grow and reach out to wider fields, bringing new wealth into the state.

Quality, Service and Price being equal.

And to use them in your home.

It is good business to stock the products of Oregon factories—

THE DRAGON

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world. I have destroyed more than all the wars of the world. I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of siege guns. I steal in the United States alone over $500,000,000 each year. I spare no one, and I find my victims among the rich and poor alike; the young and the old, the strong and the weak, widows and orphans know me. I loom up to such proportions that I go into every corner of the earth leaving behind me destroyed homes, factories, ships, cities or anything that may get in my path. I am your worst enemy, but yet few take the necessary precaution to avoid me.

FEDERAL PROHIBITION DIRECTOR REVIEWS SITUATION

Accumulative evidence entirely and conclusively disproves recent unfounded statements of propagandists designed to deceive the public, but which, in truth, have steered the friends of enforcement to closer cooperation and more concerned activities.

"The facts are," says Commissioner Haynes, "that real liquor for beverage purposes is practically unavailable, the bootlegger market is diminishing daily, because of universal fear of their poisonous product; the home brew fad is waning and moonshiners are on the run, all brought about by cutting off sources of supply, cooperation on the part of enforcement agencies of every character, backed by a crystallized public sentiment, an aroused press and helpful cartoonists more convictions by juries and stern, stiffer sentences by courts. The action of Chambers of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis and similar organization, and prominent clubs in practically every state is most significant and testifies indisputably that the people are emphatic in their desire for strict enforcement.

"Perhaps the most encouraging recent development is the manifestation of genuine cooperation on the part of the police in large metropolitan centers.

"The 18th amendment is being enforced to a greater extent than was ever dreamed possible.
