NEW STATE CHAIRMAN FOR G. O. P. COMMITTEE TO BE ELECTED SOON

Plenty of Chance For Keen Competition Between Rival Sections Of The State

From all indications, the future organization of a new Republican state central committee and the election of a new chairman will be undertakings of great moment and difficulty.

Among those most frequently mentioned are: Phil Metchan of Portland; Bruce Dennis of La Grange, present senator from Union county; Bert Anderson of Medford and Walter L. Toole, Jr. of McMinnville.

Factional differences will play a large part in the selection of the new chairman. Eastern Oregon, represented by Bruce Dennis; Southern Oregon, by Bert Anderson; and Multnomah county by Phil Metchan will each make strenuous efforts to capture the honor from the Willamette Valley where it has rested with Charles McNary and Thomas H. Tongue for the past three terms.

In addition to this inter party factionalism, the effort of the Ku Klux Klan and Federated Patriotic Societies to dominate the entire state Republican organization injects further complications into the chairmanship contest.

Laurer Leaves For Chicago

Franklin Laurer, who for several years has instructed the young people of Canby in instrumental music will on June 14th start for Chicago to take a special course of study under Percy Grainger.

Though self dependant since his graduation, Mr. Laurer has in his ambitions, steadily advanced to the point in his career, where a Professorship in Willamette University has been offered him. He will take up a special course in music with that end in view.

The striking feature, in connection with this young man's success, is seen in the contrast between a studious young man, who has reached a goal in useful culture and one who prides himself on being the best card player, or the best dancer in the town, or the "cutest" target for the "vamp" or "Flapper". In the latter case the forerunner of the gambler, course of dissipation, and failure. In the other case, we see the prophecy of hope, the earnest of life, the moral uplift of the nation, intellectual development and the sunshine of life old age. Is there a contrast? Do you see it young man? A piano, looks much better under a young man's nose, than a cigarette. Don't you think so?

We are thankful as every community should be thankful, for the good example, in moral bearing of Prof. Laurer, and we feel sure that the faculty of Willamette University will find in him a valuable acquisition to its faculty.

VOTING AT PRIMARIES SHOWS INDEPENDENCE IN PARTIES

Vacancies In Party Ticket Filled With Opposing Candidates

NAMES WRITTEN IN

Responsibilities Increased For Those Receiving Endorsements From Opposite Party

The official sheets show some interesting sidelights on the voting by political parties. Candidates as well as party principles received endorsements outside of the partisan fold.

In almost every instance where the democratic ticket offered no candidate the opposition candidates received the nomination. Where, however, the candidates of its own candidates had been announced, the party rallied to their support.

Milton A. Miller, who through the press and through directions issued to precinct committees over the state prior to the election had announced his candidacy. He was nominated by his party by a large plurality although in several counties, state treasurer Hoff ran ahead of him for the democratic endorsement.

Democrats wrote in 29 different names for member of congress to succeed W. C. Hawley, resulting in a plurality for George A. Mansfield, president of the Oregon State Farm Bureau.

The favorites in voting for supreme justices were the three republican nominees. The democratic endorsement for labor commissioner went to C. H. Gram, republican candidate.

In Clackamas county, where there was definite organized effort made a full county ticket and candidate for state treasurer, by writing in the names, the following ticket has been put into the field:

Milton A. Miller, state treasurer; Roscoe Gard, county commissioner; Mrs. Elsie Gaffney and M. C. Glover, state representatives. E. G. Cantfield received 103 votes and F. J. Toole republican candidate 47 for senator. These results indicate that votes are no longer bought by partisan procedure or prejudice to the extent of a few years ago.
