Why You Should buy at Home

As good citizens of a community it is our duty to patronize home industries. The money thus spent serves to build up the home town—and gives employment to home people. Every dollar sent away for merchandise helps to make our community poorer, and serves to build up the place to which the money goes.

If we would all stand by the small merchant he could buy in large enough quantities so that he could sell at prices to make home buying so attractive that we would have no desire to go to Portland or to Catalogue houses for bargains.

When one takes into consideration the actual time and expense of going to Portland, it is cheaper in the end to buy merchandise at home.

Consider the cost of transportation and minor expenses added on to cost of article or articles purchased—all of which increase price of said bargains until it is far more expensive than if it had been purchased at home even at a slightly higher cost.

Then again if said article should prove unsatisfactory—here is expense once more to return it. If taken back the same expenses we had in the first place are repeated. Or if it should not be of proper weight for parcel post there is time lost and worry and expense added before the matter is adjusted; so better buy it at home in the beginning.

There is greater satisfaction in home purchase for this reason—one always can take her time and not be rushed, which will insure better satisfaction. It, too, is more satisfactory to buy at home than to buy from catalogues as one can see the object of his purchase and if it does not meet with his approval he can select until he finds what is desired.

Goods often look better in photograph or samples than in actual view. It surely pays to select it at home in order to be sure you are getting just what you want, say nothing of time and inconvenience waiting for it.

We so often see people with ready-to-wear clothes that are no fit at all which have been purchased while in a hurry to catch a train, or ordered from catalogue. Here again it pays to purchase at home. If we are not satisfied with said garments it is up to our home merchant to have these clothes adjusted to our special fit or liking. Surely more satisfaction in a neatly fitted suit than like the above described.

Shoes, one of the most important of all wearing apparel should never be ordered from catalogue houses, our department stores have a competent shoe man who will honestly and conscientiously fit one out with proper shoes. We see people every day with wornout feet. Simply from improper fitting shoes. It is never economy to buy shoes that do not give comfort to the feet. Hence I say buy them at home. The same rule applies to all home industries. For the welfare of our-selves, home community and fellowman, buy at home.

THE DRAGON

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world. I have destroyed more than all the wars of the world. I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of sledge guns. I steal in the United States alone over $500,000,000 each year. I spare no one, and I find my victims among the rich and poor alike; the young and the old, the strong and the weak, widows and orphans know me. I loom up to such proportions that I go into every corner of the earth leaving behind me destroyed homes, factories, ships, cities or anything that may get in my path. I am your worst enemy, but yet few take the necessary precaution to avoid me.
