On Sunday, June 18, at the home of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. O. Staats of Colton, Miss Esther Staats became the bride of W. A. Alverdes of Portland.

On Tuesday evening of last week a very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's Episcopal church when Miss Evelyn Harding, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Harding, was united in marriage to William W. Laxton of Portland.

Mrs. Minnie Donovan of Oregon City planned and carried out a complete surprise on her daughter, Mrs. Ray Fosberg, whose birthday was on Wednesday of last week.

Why Buy It At Home Letters Still Arrive

Oregon City, Oregon, June 21, 1922. Dear Editor:—Imagine Main street, Oregon City, lined with a few ramshackle second-hand stores, a couple of pool halls, restaurant and drug store or two, and a third-rate bank. You can't.

Yet, excepting the court house and post office, that would present a fair picture of Oregon City's business section if all her citizens pursued the policy of buying away from home.

These days the retail catalogues of eastern mail order houses reach every home. They are large and colorful, designed with every artifice of clever advertisers to take our retail dollars to Chicago or New York.

Often we are tempted to rummage through these catalogues, to write letters, buy money orders, pay parcel post or express charges. All this to buy something we have not seen, which may be far from our desires as to color, fit, quality, material or workmanship, on the sole strength of clever advertising.

But Chicago does not tell us to send it Oregon City dollars because it desires to increase Chicago payrolls and Chicago profits. New York does not remind us to help build New York homes and New York industries with our money.

Next to our paper and woolen industries, our retail business property pays the heaviest share of local taxation. Its value is determined by its usefulness for business purposes. And if our dollars do not make our business property valuable, but add to Portland or Chicago property values, the home in Oregon City will necessarily pay increased taxes.

But we should buy at home for still more cogent reasons. On the office wall of every retail establishment a sign should read substantially, "Satisfied Customers Build Business." That is the crux of the whole Buy-At-Home idea. The public desires to buy what it wants without delay and according to its own specifications, which are sometimes extremely exacting.

In this respect the home merchant excels. He exhibits what he has to sell; he fits you and suits you before you pay your money. He stands back of his quality and quantity. Always, he is where you can get at him and require first-hand service. If he is the right kind of merchant, he goes out of his way to please, to fill your needs, and to take back or refund for merchandise which falls below a reasonable standard of quality.

After you have tried Chicago and Portland you will find that home service saves you time and money, annoyance and delay. Buying at home adds to the prosperity of the man who spends his dollar, as well as the man who receives it. A loyal, industrious community can make itself prosperous. E. B. CHARMAN. CHURCH SERVICE First Church of Christ, Scientist Subject of lesson sermon, "God." Sunday services at 10:45 a.m., followed by Sunday School. Why They Were "Canned" Perhaps A teacher who believed in keeping her youngsters in touch with the march of events was beginning a lesson on the revolution in Russia. "Now, who can tell me what the ruler of Russia used to be called?" she asked. "The Czar," bellowed the class. "Right! And what was his wife called?" "The czarina," two or three ventured "Good," said the teacher. "Now, I wonder if you know what the czar's children were called?" There was a long pause, then one little voice piped up: "Czardines!" —Union Pacific Magazine.

Plan To Lower Rates McCoy and Kerrigan members of the Public Service Commission elected through the recall are planning action for the restoration of telephone rates which were in effect before the former commission raised them.

Home Buyers' Contest Closed Next week, the announcement of the winners in the Home Buyers' contest will be made and the last of the letters published.

Strike Looms Certain It is doubtful if the contemplated railroad strike will be called off. It is set for this week Saturday and will affect 400,000 men. The only action which can now be taken, it is reported, to stop the strike is for the railroads themselves to ignore the cut of $60,000,000 in wages, ordered by the U. S. Railway Labor board.

Jack Spratt could eat no fat; his wife could eat no lean. You see, they spent their money on a Henry Ford machine.

Chancellor Bradford Coming to Chautauqua One of Most Prominent of American Lecturers to Discuss "This Way Up" at Coming Session

Chancellor George Henry Bradford, the former University President, who forsook collegiate duties to enter a larger field of public service, the lecture platform, is to give his great lecture, "This Way Up," before Chautauqua people from the fifth night. For years he has been one of the most prominent of American lecturers, leaving a trail of impressed towns, inspired auditors and enthused men, women, boys and girls in the wake of his lecture. He became Chancellor of the Methodist University of Oklahoma in 1911. He is a member of the general board of education of the M. E. Church. As a speaker he is forceful, sympathetic, thrilling and understanding. His lecture points the HOW, the WHEN and the WHY of your own way up.

NOT AS BAD AS IT SOUNDED Woman Was Unduly Alarmed at Gruesome Story Which She Overheard in the Street Car.

A Columbus woman in a trip on an interurban car recently sat behind two women who were holding an animated conversation, the Indianapolis News relates. She paid no attention to the talk until a part of a sentence reached her ear, through the noise of the car—"in an awful fix, with both legs disjointed." The woman was impressed with this tale of suffering and while she was considering it another bit of the conversation was wafted to her ears over the roar of the wheels—"and one foot nearly off." This was positively distressing, and the woman moved uneasily in her seat, stretching both feet to assure herself they were in proper condition. Buzz, buzz, went the voices, and then—"a hand all mashed." By this time the woman was having horrid visions of a mangled body. "A wreck," she said to herself, and to add to her horror the train made a sudden terrible jolt which sent her heart to her mouth, figuratively speaking. A smooth place in the road enabled her to hear the last of the gruesome tale: "It would cost as much to send it to a doll hospital as it would to get a new one, so I'm just going to buy her a new one."

English Food Importations.

A large part of the north of England is a busy hive of industry, containing such manufacturing centers as Nottingham, Sheffield, Leeds, Bradford, Manchester, and many other places where large populations are concentrated. The north country calls for great importations of food stuffs, the bulk of which comes from this side of the Atlantic and is landed at Liverpool or carried on to Manchester by the ship canal. One of these imports is flour, of which in 1919 there were
