Canby Department Dr. John Fuller

Berry Growers Succeed In the vicinity of Canby, there is approximately 90 acres of full bearing logan berry vines, which, so far this season has furnished the growers eighty six tons of berries for shipment. This is the amount taken in and shipped by Mr. O. Blain Long from July 3rd to 17th and represents about one-half of the expected output for the season.

Mr. Long is the local buyer for the Oregon Growers Packing Co., and in conversation with the writer this week, expressed opinion that from present indications, Canby and vicinity is destined to become one of the successful berry producing sections of the valley. This is the first year, of bulky shipments of berries from this section, and if the childhood year of this industry has proven so successful in returns, why not a bright outlook for future cultivation of this fruit, of which our state boasts.

The climate, the soil and shipping facilities are here, and there is left, but one item between the land owner and success. This is work. Get busy, and succeed.

OBITUARY Mr. D. C. Rones, for 23 years a resident of Canby, died at his home in east Canby, on July 16. Mr. Rones was born in Norway, August 24, 1840, and was in his 83rd year at the time of his death.

Funeral services were held at the M. E. church in Canby on Wednesday July 19 at two p. m. and were conducted by Rev. Skilbred, pastor of the Lutheran church in this city. The outstanding features connected with the life of Mr. Rones are his Fatherhood and good citizenship. While born in a foreign land, he was loyal to the country of his adoption, and was respected by all who knew him, for his loyalty to the peace and welfare of our community life. The surviving members of his family are his wife, 74 years of age, and eight children, John and Fred of Portland, Oregon; Charley, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Elmer of San Francisco, Cal.; Mrs. Nels Oath, of Canby; Mrs. S. Pettiford of Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. Henry Hoffier of Astoria, Oregon and Mrs. John Genes of North Bend, Ore. All his children are here for the funeral except Mrs. Pettiford, who is unavoidably detained in Minneapolis. If I were called upon to write the last words in description of the earthly career of these good old fathers, it would be, "He was a Father, and a Good Man."
