PLANTS NEED COLD WEATHER

Experiments Have Shown That in Northern Countries a Certain Amount is Essential.

According to common belief, cold weather causes plants to become dormant during the fall, while warm weather the succeeding spring again incites new growth. Intensive investigations of Dr. Frederick V. Coville of the federal Department of Agriculture, which have been conducted over a period of ten years, and which have covered every phase of this subject, demonstrate that both of these traditional theories are erroneous. Dormancy in our native trees and shrubs begins some time before the start of cold weather each winter; the appearance of Jack Frost is not necessary for the establishment of complete dormancy. Furthermore, after such a condition of dormancy has developed, exposure of the plants to the ordinary growing temperature thereafter does not arouse them from their lethargy so that they begin growth anew.

Interestingly enough, the Coville experiments show that plants which have responded to the lure of autumnal and winter dormancy will not react properly and resume normal growth the following spring unless they are subjected during the interim to a period of chilling. A certain amount of cold is essential to stimulating the plant growth.—Scientific American.

LIARS PRETTY WELL MATCHED

American Evidently Found Foeman Worthy of His Steel, in Old English Farmer.

An American poultry farmer went over to England to have a look round the poultry farms there and see where the farmers were making mistakes. He did not hesitate to tell how far advanced was the art of poultry keeping in America, and spun several very tall yarns on that subject.

Twenty chickens from twelve eggs appeared to him an everyday occurrence in the United States, if the stories he told could be believed.

But a bluff old English farmer was not unduly impressed.

"Happen, maister," said the old man, "ye have never seen as many as a hundred chickens hatched by one hen at a setting?"

"Wan!" answered the American, "I can't say that I have, but—"

"Well, then, listen here, maister; I have," returned the farmer, "Down Ipswich way we allow fill a barrel with eggs and set the old hen on the bung-hole!"—Houston Post.

The Sex of the Planes.

When the negroes of Stanley Pool saw the first two airships of the Belgian postal service land in the Congo region, their first impulse was to run away. However, on recognizing the uniform of the officers who descended from the apparatus, they immediately returned.

The next day their fear had completely disappeared. Why should they be afraid of these big birds? Were they not tamed by the white men? For they were surely a couple of birds; and without hesitation they pointed out the male bird and then the female.

Asked by what they could distinguish one from the other, they replied that it was not difficult. The birds did not know the country; the male bird descended first, then he called his female, that came down to land after him.

It is Mr. Louis Franck, minister of the Belgian colonies, who told this story at the Sorbonne.

Grim Joke for the Professor.

President H. O. Vance of Oskaloosa college said in an address in Oskaloosa:

"The post-war changes have hit nobody harder than they have hit the college professor. The college professor is one of the poorest men in the world today.

"A young Latin instructor proposed to a young lady and was accepted. After their first tender transports were over they fell into serious talks.

"Now we are engaged," said the young woman, "we must begin to economize. Promise me, darling, that you won't do anything you can't afford."

"The young lady instructor laughed grimly.

"If I promised you that," he said, "I'd have to break off our engagement."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

FISHING MEASURE IS FOUGHT IN COURT

The suit to restrain the secretary of state from placing the Green fishing measure on the ballot at the November election will be pushed to a rapid conclusion.

Opponents of the measure claim that the initiatory petitions contain several thousand names obtained fraudulently. It is claimed that Green attempted to sell for a cash sum these petitions.

CONTRACT FOR BUILDING CITY HALL AWARDED

The city council at its meeting Wednesday night, tentatively awarded the contract for the building of the city hall.

With some slight modifications, the original plans drawn by Edmund Bergholtz, a Portland architect, will be followed. J. G. Smith & Company have arranged for the posting of a surety bond for the construction of the building within the $35,000 bond limit, and a draft of this bond was presented to the council by Mr. Bergholtz.

The contract for $35,000 includes the building, the wiring, plumbing and installation of the heating plant. The $1,750 fees of the architect are in addition to the $35,000, and will be paid from interest already accumulated on the unsold bonds.

The contract is contingent upon the satisfactory arrangement of the bond and the detailing of all the changes which are to be made in the design. Councilmen Metzner, Cross, Bridges and Van Auker urged the adoption of the contract pending the arrangement of all the necessary details, while Councilman Mount opposed it.

Opposition to the new plan for a combined S. P. freight and passenger depot was voiced by H. C. Stevens, who threatened injunction proceedings in case the Southern Pacific were allowed to occupy a small portion of Railroad avenue and Sixth street.

A communication from T. L. Charman, offering the city a 30x65 piece of property adjoining the Redmen's property near Ninth and Water streets for the location of a structure to house the city fire apparatus, was rejected.

Several matters regarding street improvements were referred to the street committee and the city engineer.

Antiquarians are puzzled to account for some old coins found in the stomachs of bullocks slaughtered after grazing on the Sheepy marshes. Among the coins obtained from different animals during the past few days are a small coin dated 1735 bearing the name of Victor Amédé of Sardina, a Charles II farthing dated 1674, a George III half-penny dated 1800, and a Hamburg shilling dated 1727.—London Mail.

FIREMEN HONORED WITH BANQUET AT THE "QUALITY"

In appreciation of their efforts in combatting the re which destroyed the Oregon City laundry and threatened his restaurant across the way, George Newton, proprietor, banqueted the members of the department at the "Quality" on Tuesday evening.

Chicken and all the other good things to eat which go with it were served.

Fire Chief John Fuson was presented with a silver set, Chief Priebe making the presentation, in honor of his marriage to Miss Ariel Newton.

As a matter of "safety first" the boys took along the fire truck and left their temporary address with the telephone operator.

Those attending were: Chief Priebe, asst. John Frison, captains Warner and Seiler, Louis Nobel, Calvin Price, George Snooks, Al Cox, George Harvey, Walter Young, Raymond Bierman, Ed. Quinn, Ed. Lindsley, Jacob Bingham and Raymond Elliott.

Self-Feeding Sows.

Some breeders are very successful in self-feeding sows during the suckling period. Experimentally, this practice has given better results than hand feeding.

CLEAN WATER IS NECESSARY

Nothing Discourages "Growth Impulse" Quicker Than Hog Hankering for a Drink.

Pure clean water at all times—at all times, remember—is one of the necessities for all kinds of swine. Nothing so discourages the "growth impulse" in a hog as wandering around looking for a drink of water when it is thirsty.

Immunizing Against Cholera.

When immunizing hogs against cholera do not make injections in the ham or shoulder as this lowers the value of those portions of the carcass. Inject serum in the flank or between the fore legs.

Pavement is Billboard.

City streets and sidewalks may be converted into temporary billboards by an invention resembling a law-roller that prints the advertising message in water on the asphalt.

As the machine is pushed along by its operator, a spray of water from the tank in the upper half passes through a perforated belt or drum that acts as a stencil. The belt is of fine wire gauze with waterproof letters fastened upon it. In consequence it leaves a band of wet, dark pavement behind it, upon which the words of the advertisement stand out—dry and white.—Popular Science Monthly.

Vacationists With Shelter Tents and Tin Cow Learning to Walk All Over Again.

Oh! It's not the pack that you carry on your back. Nor the rifle on your shoulder. Nor the five inch crust of khaki-colored dust. That makes you feel your limbs are growing older; And it's not the hike on the hard turnpike That drives away your smile. Nor the socks of sisters that raise the blooming blisters— It's the last long mile. —Plattsburgh Marching Song.

Stringing out from the suburban transit terminals of New York every Sunday and holiday goes the army of khaki-clad hikers. There may be an automobile for every twenty of the country's population, but a host of city folks disprove the theory of a future leg-encumbered citizenry and are learning to walk all over again.

To the more casual minded, the hike is just exercise, but to those who catch its real significance the hike means a great deal more. It is the
