RECALL MOVEMENT SHY OF CANDIDATE

Charles Holman will probably not run as a recall candidate to unseat the present County Judge. The sponsors of the recall had included his name, with fifteen others, from whom one was to be selected to make the race. Holman had been asked to run and had the matter under consideration, it is said, when the list was compiled. His decision not to run will be followed by other attempts to name a man who will assume the role of "Moses."

DEMAND FOR CASCARA BARK

Industry Was Once a Babe, but it Has Developed Greatly in Washington State.

A half million dollars was the value of this season's cascara bark, harvested by Grays Harbor (Wash.) folk. It is the peeled leather-like skin of the barberry tree, stripped by settlers and city dwellers who spend six weeks each spring in the swampy forests near Hoquiam.

Six years ago this bark gathering industry was a babe, the few who attempted to sell the peeled bark getting from 3 to 4 cents per pound for it—not knowing just how to properly cure and pack it.

Then came the drug famine. The wholesale price which has gradually been rising is now 15 cents per pound and skilful strippers make $10 to $15 per day. With a knife an incision is made near the ground and a piece of bark once loosened there may be pulled from the tree upward for ten to fifteen feet. Taking but a part of the bark does not injure the tree.

Likes Color. The other evening one of the charity organizations was giving a supper for a number of poor children of Indianapolis. One of the women had baked a particularly nice angel food cake for the occasion. One little boy attracted her interest and she decided that no matter what happened he should have a piece of her cake.

Accordingly she offered two or three women in passing their cakes by to get her own. She carried a big piece to the little fellow who gave it one look and said: "We got bread at home, lady. Please gimme some cake."

Crestfallen, she carried back her own cake and got him a piece of marble cake in which red and white mingled. And now she says, "No more angel food cake for me for charity parties."

Truth Mixed With Poetry. A Muncie lawyer was making his first church speech. It was a welcome to the new minister, and in it he was telling of the beauties of his home town. He spoke of the streets, the residences and then he began on the trees. "I have one great tree in my yard," he said, "that means more to me than any other in town. Whenever I pass it I think of how often I have reached into its boughs to pluck the spring blossoms."

And then came an interruption. His little eight-year-old son who had been paying close attention to father's speech spoke up. "Don't forget the caterpillars, too, father," he said. "We have to burn 'em about that time, too."—Indianapolis News.

Shipping Sheet Rubber. A new case for shipping sheet rubber has been introduced into Singapore shipping circles by an American firm. These reach local exporters in the form of sheets made of 100 per cent fiber, the riveting, packing and wiring being done by the shippers. The thinness of the sheets enables the cases built from them to hold from 12 to 25 per cent more weight of rubber than the old wooden boxes, and the new construction is practically unbreakable, very cleanly and waterproof.—Scientific American.

CLEAN BATH BEST FOR HOGS

Animals Will Show Appreciation by Making Profitable Gains if Given Chance.

Given a chance hogs will keep themselves clean. While we have come to associate these animals and muddy wallows, the fact of the matter is that the hogs are usually compelled to live in places where they cannot avoid the mud. If the premises are so arranged that the swine can keep the bodies washed off and at the same time stay out of the mud they will respond in gains as an expression of their appreciation for the opportunity to have regular clean baths.

SUITABLE FEEDS FOR SWINE

Farmer Who Can Produce Large Crops of Barley, Kafir or Milor Should Raise Hogs.

Many persons living in a section where good corn crops cannot be raised in an average season hesitate to raise hogs even if they can produce large crops of barley, feterita, kafir or milo. For all practical purposes these feeds are just as good as corn for growing or fattening hogs, and anyone who can produce these crops can grow hogs.

PROFIT IN HOME GROWN FEED

Closer Feeder Sticks to His Own Crops Better Showing Will Be Stock Returns.

A good rule for all farmers to follow is to feed what they raise as much as possible. Some purchased feeds will usually be necessary, but the closer the feeder sticks to his own crops, the better showing will be made when he figures up his profits on a bunch of pigs or cattle.

TO MAKE HOG-RAISING PAY

Sanitation Must Be Provided, Together With Suitable Feed and Pure Water.

Filthy, damp or dusty quarters, for hogs are not disease breeders, but are disease builders. You must provide sanitary quarters, good feed, plenty of pure water, and these with pure bred stock and constant care means a profit at almost any price.

Value of Protein. Protein is the nutrient which makes young animals grow, repairs an old animal's body and which largely produces the finger nails or hair in humans, milk, meat, wool and horns in domesticated animals.

Protecting the Pig Crop. Give pigs special care after they have received double treatment against cholera. Through lowered resistance at this time they may get sick.

Change of Subject. "Do you think Mars is inhabited?" "I'm looking the matter up," replied Senator Sorghum, "along with evolution. My wife says we men have made such a muddle as politicians that it's time we took up science or literature or something."

I. B. Good is a Mennonite preacher passed over Sheridan, Wyoming, in Pennsylvania. His precepts do not belie his name, for that sect believes in non-resistance. Millions of grasshoppers recently they clouded the sky.
