

$50,000 Exhibition and Sale of JACKMAN'S FURS

From America's Largest Wholesale Fur House
FRIDAY Two Days SATURDAY
only
AN EVENT IN CLACKAMAS COUNTY

FROM the remotest wilds of Canada and Nova Scotia; from the Russian Steppes and icy Siberian wilderness; from tropical Brazilian jungles and coral islands in the Pacific, the pelts of rare animals are brought to the factories of Wm. Jackman's Sons in Cleveland and New York. They have their own fur stations; they are America's largest importing and wholesaling furriers.

They bring to our store, for two days only, a $50,000.00 stock comprising every stylish and wanted fur throw, wrap, cape and coat.

Their prices for these two days are 25 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent below retail prices. The modes are the new ones for this fall and winter. The furs are all from selected pelts of rare beauty. The linings are as sumptuous as the furs themselves. The richness of this display will fascinate you!

EXPERT FURRIER HERE

Mr. John F. Galloway, an expert furrier, direct from Wm. Jackman's Sons in New York, will render his personal service in showing and selling these furs Friday and Saturday in our store. Bring the children along! Mr. Galloway has studied furs from the animal to the retail market. He knows the haunts and habits of the wild, fur-bearing animals. He is at your service these two days.

Miss Margaret Clark left last Saturday for the University of Oregon, to take up the work of her senior year.

Miss Julia Lytsell joined the Girl's Reserve of Oregon City, last week.

Clarence Ditter, who broke his shoulder several days ago, fell while running, last Monday, breaking his left arm in the elbow joint. He is doing fairly well.

Miss Emily Nixon, while running thru the lower hall at union high, thrust her arm thru the glass in a west door. She has severe scratches as a result, but luckily no arteries were cut.

The temporary home built by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McKillican is practically ready for occupancy. The house is on a fine site, northeast of the high school.

A New York Physician reports a perfect case of a negro who has turned completely white in the past three years. This uncommon disease rarely covers the entire body, but appears usually in spots. It is not annoying to the patient nor is it contagious or infectious.

A vote was recently taken on the wet and dry question among the inmates of the prisons in the United States. More than 133,000 voted dry and only 909 voted wet, which shows that even the lawbreaker is capable of right thinking and dreads the results of drink.
