"Flag of the free heart's hope and home!
By Angels' hands to valor given;
Thy stars have lit the welkin dome,
And all thy hues were born in Heaven.
Forever float that standard sheet!
Where breathes the foe but falls before us.
With Freedom's soul beneath our feet,
And Freedom's banner streaming o'er us."

THE AFTERMATH

UPON a platform of tax reduction by means of retrenchment; by use of the veto power; by application of new methods of raising revenues; by cutting down expenses, and by promising larger values for the money expended, Walter M. Pierce has been elected governor. His campaign was personally and politically bold and aggressive. His interpretations of the public mind were keen. He made the most of existing conditions and added to himself votes. He assumed responsibilities in so doing which will require courage and carefully directed judgment to discharge. That he may prove equal to the requirements is the belief and hope of his supporters.

Mr. Pierce will enter upon his career as governor with opportunities all about him for accomplishing great things for Oregon. He is committed to a program endorsed by a majority of the people, but vigorously, if not bitterly, opposed by a minority. He can reduce taxes and obtain the applause of all. In his plan for adding new sources of taxation he will be both commended and condemned.

In his appointments lies an opportunity to rise above the plane of partisan politics in the service of the state. In affairs controversial his vision of equal rights and opportunities will be put to the test.

His big majority in a normally Republican state, indicates that his election was not alone upon party issues. His duties as governor are not partisan, but are to be performed in behalf of all the people without regard to politics, Randall, Philip Hammond, Fred Meindl, M. J. Lee, W. H. Clark and F. J. Tooze, the encouragement of every citizen of the commonwealth.

CITY FATHERS

WITH the city election over, fifty per cent of the personnel of the legislative branch of city government is composed of new members. Four new councilmen will occupy seats in the council at the beginning of the new year. Three of the present members were candidates for re-election. They have given much time and effort to the city in their official capacity. That official efforts should be appreciated is right, but seldom acknowledged. The vacillating policy with regard to the city hall; controversial subjects not at all connected with their duties; illness of one member, and the general public attitude that "others might do better," resulted in the "landslide."

The new councilmen will enter upon their duties with full desire to accomplish great things for the good of the city. They have a right to the co-operation and encouragement of the citizens. In some things they will succeed; in others they will be doomed to disappointment. By some they will be encouraged and by others they will be "kicked." It is merciful that they are confronted by confidence and hope.

The budget committee should not expect them to make "bricks without straw," nor should the public expect them to render other service impossible. They have unusual opportunity for real service, if given a fair chance.

The re-election of Shannon with greatly increased majority over his opponent of two years ago, is taken as an endorsement of his administration, and here's to him and his official family—success and public appreciation.

OUR LEGISLATORS

THE legislative members elected to represent Clackamas county are Republicans. There were two Democratic nominees who went down to defeat chiefly because of lack of votes. If the county had been entitled to seven instead of five representatives and senators, it is conceded by both parties that she would today be very fortunate.

In accepting this important responsibility the successful candidates, G. G.

Randall, Philip Hammond, M. J. Lee, Fred Meindl, W. H. Clark and F. J. Tooze, have taken upon themselves exacting and important duties. Clackamas county has many interests which will knock at the door of the legislature for active consideration. Her tax burdens and other problems coincident with other counties, call for solution at the hands of her and other legislators. Team work will be necessary among this county's delegation. Co-operation and coordination with legislators, from this and other counties, will be essential for local and state-wide success.

It is the desire of all who represent this highly diversified and notable section of the state to do everything possible for her advancement and her happiness. With the constituents co-operating frankly and helpfully, there should be a satisfactory accounting by these public servants—the people's choice.

ALTOGETHER NOW

THE city hall site, for two or more years buffeted about by voters, council and courts, has at last found a resting place at the corner of Seventh and John Adams streets. The voters did the landing by a vote of 911 to 697, or a majority of 214 votes for the hill site. They defeated the present city hall site by 399 to 1091, or a decisive majority of 692—almost a 3 to 1 vote.

This decision leaves no alternative for the council. Their duty is to purchase the Caulfield property at the corner of Seventh and John Adams streets for $5,000 and proceed to build the new city hall at a cost within the $35,000 voted for this purpose months ago. Further delay in the purchase is inexcusable.

Whatever the arguments for a downtown location, they should no longer perjure or sway the actions of either council or people. The decision of the majority in this city, as in the republic at large, should be accepted by all sides as one of the results of democracy.

The site selected will be hailed by the hill section as evidence of general city-wide improvement and progress. And this viewpoint, accepted generally, will turn valuable effort, recently expended in controversy, into power for the general good.

RESPONSIBILITY

THE fire department has been voted additional funds for the employment of additional firemen, up-keep of apparatus and general maintenance. This has been done in the face of mounting taxes and the demand for even more rigid economy. The chief reason for the affirmative action of the voters was protection. The excellent work of the department also stimulated a favorable vote.

The department is entitled to pride in the confidence and trust of the public, but they should not and will not fail to recognize the added confidence and encouragement as also an added responsibility.

GOVERNOR IS GAME

GOVERNOR OLCOTT exhibits fine characteristics in his congratulatory message to his victorious opponent. Void of feelings of envy or animosity, the Governor gamely wires Pierce, at his Union county home:

"Please accept my congratulations upon your very decisive victory. If there is any way I can assist you in your new duties, command me. Oregon means more than the personal fortunes of any man or any set of men and it is my hope that under your administration she may grow and prosper."

What Becomes Of Sonny's Work
By Mabel R. Young

Sonny now goes to school, and almost every day brings home some little article he has made. He comes home, full of enthusiasm over his work, telling just how it was done, how long it took him, and above all, how carefully he did it. There is pride in his voice as he tells you about it—pride in his bearing as he shows his prize; for his work has meant thought, effort and painstaking care.

What becomes of his handiwork? Probably it is praised, then laid aside, to be lost or even thrown away.

At first sonny is surprised and just a little disappointed when his work is thus disregarded. Then he reaches the "don't care" stage where he often throws his pictures or cardboard toys in the street on the way home. Finally his schoolwork is done in a careless, haphazard manner; for it has become a mere task to be done. There is no longer any incentive to much effort.

What can we do about it? Here is one mother's idea. Make a sufficiently large book of heavy brown wrapping paper either sewing it together or fastening it with small clips in order that additional pages can be added as desired. Have sections from drawing, cutting, folded articles and pictures. Let sonny take full charge of his book and paste in each day's work after it has had due admiration to keep it clean and safe. He will take great care of his book, indeed he will be prouder of it than of the most expensive volume you could buy him; for this is his own, his very own work, and proves to him what his young hands can do. Then not only will sonny himself enjoy the book. It will be a delight to younger brothers or sisters. Many an otherwise dull hour will be made bright and happy, as together they inspect its contents, and big brother re-makes their favorite articles for them, just as he learned to do "in school."
