question, Uncle Howard, let me say, sir, that my claims as to being a human are somewhat vague. One of the first things I discovered about myself was my unreality. When do we eat? Tyle ran out and returned with a piece of frosted cake that looked like a corner broken off a marble mantelpiece. The General was laughing.

"Well, Liberty, we are always glad to see you, anyway. It is the unreality, if I may so speak, that spices our lives; and when you come with your gilded worries, you enliven us. Where have you been, anyhow?" "I've been wherever there is," said Shottle, gesturing with his cane. "First I went to Memphis, to the races, and gave old Skinny Hughes two hundred for a sure card on the entries. Lost ten thousand. Then I followed the horses to Lexington, with my bank account leaking like a sprinkling cart. But why linger when nothing can be swifter than the approach of poverty? Finally I sold my clothes to a negro preacher and invested my all in lottery tickets. It seemed that I possessed myself of all the figures of the multiplication table, didn't see how I could possibly miss, but I did. It wasn't laid out for me to win again. He gets to a certain pinnacle of fortune, slips off, and spends the rest of his life struggling to get back. When do we eat?"

Long after bedtime Shottle came to Virgil's room. "Virgil, you know I've got to hit on something of a permanent nature. So the question is, now that I've quit gambling, what am I going to do? If you'll not go to sleep, I'll tell you of a plan. Mark me: I have observed, along with thousands of others, that nothing digs deeper after rainy-day money than a circus and menagerie. It is known that the poor man of the South, and especially the negro, will sell his cookstove to buy a circus ticket. Now comes my plan, and mind you, I strive to keep it from being too sudden. Attention! You buy a circus, and I'll go along as ring-master. That is the one thing I am really fitted for. You never saw me crack a whip, did you?"

"Don't believe I ever did." "All right, you've got something to look forward to. Yes, I'll be the ring-master, and you'll be the elephant on the turn of a card," said Virgil. "Ah, one of my own, perhaps, but not one entrusted to me. I am not an embezzler of elephants. I wouldn't bet a garter-snake on a sure thing. Besides, I told you I'd quit gambling—that is, I'm quitting. It isn't wise to expose my constitution to the shock of a sudden change. . . . Well, good night." (To be Continued Next Week)

WILL HELP REVISE OLD MAILING LISTS

The use of antiquated mailing lists by business concerns sending out advertising matter and circular letters is resulting in serious economic waste, the postoffice department states. Besides the delays undergone by the postal machinery in handling and re-handling vast quantities of this class of mail which is incorrectly addressed, the loss suffered by the mail order houses and other larger users of mail, runs into thousands of dollars annually. In an effort to put an end to this waste of energy and time, instructions were issued to postmasters throughout the country to co-operate with business concerns in correcting and revising their mailing lists. A charge of 60 cents per hour may be made for this service.

Denatured alcohol is grain alcohol made unfit for use as a beverage. Completely denatured alcohol is made by adding 10 gallons of wood alcohol and a half gallon of benzine to 100 gallons of ethyl alcohol. This is free from government tax and may be bought by any one for use as fuel or light.

The denaturing must be done when the alcohol is produced and in bonded warehouses used exclusively for the purpose and for storing denatured alcohol, and is done under the supervision of the government. The grain alcohol may be made from grain, corn, potatoes or similarly starchy products, but the conditions under which it must be produced make it impracticable except for well-equipped factories.

"Driven" To Death. Some of the "drives" are perfectly legitimate, others are holdups. It keeps one busy watching the antics of profiteers and the schemes of adventurers. When a business man places a five dollar bill in his till he would not bet that there would be no one coming on the next train to take it away from him.—Woodburn Independent.

SECOND GRADE CREAM CAUSE

Lack of Careful Attention to Separator and Improper Cooling Are Held Responsible.

Does your cream grade number one? If not, it should. Lack of careful attention to the separator and not cooling properly usually causes most second grade cream. Raise the quality of butter by keeping your cream out of the grades below.

Second grade cream consists of cream that is too sour to pass as first, that contains undesirable flavors or odors in a moderate degree; that is foamy, slightly yeasty or slightly stale, or that is too old to pass as first grade cream. All sour cream containing less than 25 per cent of butterfat shall be graded as second grade.

Clean Milking Practices. Cleanliness in milking should be exercised at all times. Before milking begins the cow's udder and flanks should be wiped off, preferably with a damp cloth, in order to prevent particles of straw or loose hair getting into the pail.
