nations from another war is the United | States, "This will be accomplished not so much by diplomats and statesmen as by the demands of youth," he

"The power within the nations that can alone avert another international upheaval," Dr. Guthrie said, "is that power of the new idealism resident in the hearts and minds of the young folks the continents over."

According to the general secretary who has sounded the situation in every country that was engaged in activity or affected by the world struggle, the youth of today is tired of hatred and estrangement and is hungering for international goodwill and friendship around the globe,

Relative to the youth of France and Germany, he said that the youth of these countries look forward with horror to the possibility of another war and are anxious and eager to welcome the leadership of young America, and to cooperate in the establishment of world peace.
