Arbor Day in West Oregon City.

Arbor Day was observed by the West Oregon City school last Friday afternoon. By one o'clock quite a number of the patrons of the school had assembled at the school house, which they found profusely, yet tastefully decorated with wild flowers by the little folks, under the direction of Miss Baird. After spending a half hour in social inter-course the school was called to order and teachers and movils antachand the audience with songs, declamations, concert, recitations, etc. The children all did well. Prof Gurley gave a short history of Arbor Day, reading the law relating to schools observing the day etc., after which all present repaired to the school grounds where the main part of the business, i. e., the planting of the trees was done in short order, the largest shovel of earth. The trees were of several varieties; oak, cedar, ash, walnut and maple. After the planting all joined in singing "Arbor Day" Then goodbye was said and we Wended our several ways homeward in the belief that Arbor day had been properly observed by the West Oregon City school.
