Grant Neal, of Anacortes, Washington, is in Oswego.

Stafford.

As Stafford has not yet been heard from I will try to give a description of the place and its location. It is a country post office six miles from Oswego, and six miles direct west of Oregon City, on the Oswego & Aurora mail route, has good roads etc.

Mrs. S. L. Hayes is slowly recovering from her past illness.

Hay is most all gathered and harvest is here.

The mail carrier's horse ran away last Friday with cart and mail sack, also with some loose letters. All but one letter was found.

Mr. F. Beckman died Sunday morning. He was buried Monday, July 21, 1891. We U.S.

Molalla.

The "hay weather" is now at hand, and sweating is the unavoidable order of the day.

Some wheat will be cut this week, and the song of the "golden sheaves" will be acted out in reality.

Dust! the returning particles that many hands will try, in vain, to brush aside for the next few months.

John Everhard & Co. have purchased an engine to run "The Buffalo" during the threshing season.

Jacob Harless & Co. have procured a new separator from Stayer & Walker, and will get a new stacker. These, together with their new engine of last year will make a first-class outfit.

The enterprising citizens of our town are erecting city scales and the community can now weigh their pigs, cattle and hay at home for a very small sum.

Mr. M. McDonald is about again but not able to work. He has procured a new nian in the shop, having discharged his former assistant.

Molalla is still improving, and will undergo a decided change when it takes in Barlows that is building on its river bar.

Yesterday your correspondent visited the Wilhoit Springs, commonly known in this immediate neighborhood as "Soda," for short. We found the road very much better than we expected with the exception of a few bad cutters in the vicinity of the Ridge. Several hundred people were at the Springs and in the woods. The day was very pleasant. The campers are just beginning to come in for the season to this splendid summer resort. Quite a number of boarders are at the hotel. The stages from Oregon City and Mt. Angel are running. Throughout the day everybody seemed to enjoy themselves, keeping within the bounds of regulations. The boys made some effort to get up a foot race, but as they had all "celebrated," and attended picnics their cash "put up" did not run high. In the afternoon two insurance agents held a discussion in the grove to the amusement of the assembly. A "special" of the Farmers & Merchants of Albany tackled a local of the State of Salem, in regard to difference in rate of the two companies on certain class of building. The former claimed to know all about the insurance business, down to cleaning the office spittoons. The latter claimed to possess a few pointers, and appeared glad that he had met with such a wise man who had found out the error of his way by experience, and now was going about making restitution to the people for his past sins. Both agents kept cool; the words did not take fire. "All's well that ends well." Moral: other timber grows in the mountains besides the genus "greenhorn." Soda drinking was the continual order of the day. T.E.M.

Carus.

Why is it we do not get the ENTERPRISE before Monday? Our items and little jokes get as stale as old buttermilk by that time.

Yes, our good friend went fishing on his way home from town. He says that he was all right, but the rail wasn't sound, and when he tried to cross the creek on it he fell in, or rather sat down in the water.

Rev. R. M. Jones gave a very interesting and profitable discourse last Sabbath afternoon. But where the nine?—and others? Out in the big field playing base ball. It would be well for these youth of Oregon if there were some state law to prevent Sabbath desecration.

John S. Jones has nearly completed a nice dwelling house on his land adjoining Ed. Howard. Too good a nest for an old bachelor, John.

Charlie Baker was out to church with his bride last Sabbath. He will soon build on his farm, recently purchased from Mr. Bob Cassidy.

Mr. J. W. Graham has made a sale of forty acres of the old homestead, including the improvements. Purchaser, Mr. George Graham. Consideration, $3000.

Needy.

Mr. L. O. Bower and Mr. George Horton returned from a ten days sojourn to the coast at Tillamook, where they went to see the country. They are so well pleased with the country and its prospects that they think very strongly of removing there with their families.

Mrs. Anthony Wigans died last week, and was laid to rest in the Rock Creek cemetery last Friday. The funeral was largely attended. She leaves a husband and five small children who have our heartfelt sympathies in this their hardest trial and bereavement.

Born, on July 15th, to the wife of Wm. Roop, a son. Mother and son doing well, but Will is still somewhat dazed. We saw him the other morning pacing up and down the back yard in an absent minded way, with his hat off and one suspender trailing behind him. But we hope he will soon be himself again.

Mr. Henry Wolfer has started his self-binder to humming in the wheat fields, and Mr. Ben Wolfer is overhauling his engine and separator preparatory to threshing the golden sheaves, which will not be very long if this favorable weather continues. HERO.

Our Modern Amazon.

I'm trying on my armor, dear, With which my battles are won; I shall count some brilliant conquests before The summer sun has gone.

Here's a white dress and a big-trimmed hat, And a parasol like foam; They'll make my eyes look darker yet, As I fetch my prisoners home.

You would not think this simple silk, As light as a sea-gull's wing, Could bring down many a knightly heart In the lists of "summering"!

And here's a fan—it is not smoke, But lace and ostrich feather; It will be watched by eyes that ask My faney's wifed and weather.

And here's a yatching suit that says, Upon life's merry wave I, like an admiral, shall win Engagements brisk and brave!

And at this shoe, all tipped with gold, A trembling slave shall stoop— A vassal whom a rival queen Lost in some waiting group.

In short, when autumn once more hangs The land with gorgeous hue, I shall come riding back to town In triumph. Wouldn't you?

Meadow Brook.

A majority of the farmers of this vicinity are taking advantage of the present sunshine by cutting and storing their hay crop which proves to be more than an average yield.

The growing wheat is also gradually assuming a golden hue and soon the merry hum of the binder as it handles the beautiful grain will prove to the ever diligent farmer that he will be amply paid for his labor.

The basket meeting held at the Garbett school house on Sunday the 19th inst., was well attended. Every one present seemed to enjoy the dinner with more than usual heartiness, which proves that the ladies of this neighborhood are excellent providers. Rev. Hargrave, of Oregon City, delivered a very impressive discourse which was fully appreciated by the audience.

Rumor tells us that a large number of the sports of Clackamas county assembled at Wright's Bridge, on last Sunday afternoon to witness several horse races. Quite a large amount of money changed hands.

Mrs. Lizzie Reese wishes to say to the person who borrowed a package of coffee belonging to her from her father's place, Mr. David Wright, while the family were away from the house, that she would be very thankful to have the package returned.

Many thanks are tendered the good people of Viola, by a couple of young men for being permitted the privilege of sleeping in a hay-field after a hard days traveling and numerous nays from people applied to for hospitality. After several hours slumber a fire was lighted to take away the chill of one of July's coldest nights and snows were made that in case the same parties ever traveled through that section again to first provide themselves with eatables and blankets.

A few days since, Mrs. E. W. Hammett obtained a box of "corn salve" and applied to her toe, the salve worked like a charm but a mild kind of a blood poison set in and she may lose her toe.

Miss Lizzie Jennings, of Butte Creek, is here on a visit to her aunt Miss Jessie Robeson.

On Saturday, August 1st, a handsome flag six feet will be raised to the pinnacle of a 60 foot liberty pole at the upper Canyon Creek school house. There will also be a rural picnic with luncheon, vocal and instrumental music, recitations, stamp speeches, etc. Come one and all. The entire neighborhood extends a cordial invitation to our ex-teacher, Miss Maggie Williams, of Oregon City, to participate in our flag raising. TUOENIX.

There settled in Baker county, Oregon, near what is now Baker City, a man who has since become identified with the resources and development of that country. This man is no other than Mr. John Stewart, one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens in the county. In a recent letter he says: "I had been suffering from pains in my back and general kidney complaint for some time, and had used many remedies without any but temporary relief. The pains in my back had become so severe that I was prevented from attending to my work and could not move about without the use of a cane. Hearing, through a friend, of the wonderful cures effected by Oregon Kidney Tea, I was induced to try a box, and from that very first dose I found instant relief, and before using half the contents of the box the pains in my back entirely disappeared. I have every faith in the virtues of the Oregon Kidney Tea, and can conscientiously recommend it to my friends. I would not be without it for anything."
