FIRE IN A SCHOOL HOUSE.—J. A. Haycock, who teaches the school in the Astoria district, reports that last Friday morning the school house caught fire and came near being destroyed. The family of August Kuslermeier and Mrs. Platt discovered the blaze and by carrying water they managed to extinguish it before much damage was done.

WOODBURN BOOMS.—Woodburn has concluded to raise a bonus of $2000 to place a Riverville, Wash., miller to build roller process flouring mill of a capacity of seventy-five barrels a day there. The mill will cost $18,000 and work on its construction will begin within three weeks. A contract has been given by the city to Overton for the construction of a brick building to cost $223. The town is having a rapid growth.

SIDEWALK FOR MOLALLA AVENUE.—Messrs. Ely & Groat have taken in hand the project of building a sidewalk along Molalla avenue from the point where Seventh street intersects the city limits to Elyville, a distance of about half a mile. The lumber for the walk was drawn this week. This will be a great convenience for the people of that neighborhood. The walk should be extended out to Mount View cemetery.

A CLOSE CALL.—Last Tuesday afternoon the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Phillips, who reside on Sixth street on the bluff, was playing in the yard and had a small fire built of chips. She approached too near the blaze and her dress caught fire and but for the timely discovery of her predicament by Sister Bacon she would have fared badly. He extinguished the flames before the child was much injured, but had his hands seriously burned.

A PROMINENT ASTORIAN.—Col. John Blair, of Astoria, was in the city attending to business the fore part of the week. Col. Blair was born in Astoria and has spent his life there. His father was the first collector of customs on the Pacific coast and the first custom house on the coast until recently stood on the edge between Astoria proper and that portion of the city known as Alderton. Col. Blair is prominently connected with the business interests of the lower Columbia.

CATHOLIC FAIR.—The St. Johns Ladies fair will be held at the Armory hall in Oregon City, commencing Monday Oct. 10 and ending Thursday the 22. The exhibit will embrace all kinds of fancy work and articles of value, many of which will be raffled off in addition to the regular sales. A vote will be taken for the most popular woman, married or single in Oregon City the prize to be a handsome gold watch. Refreshments will be served. Good music will be furnished.

SAMPLES OF SEED WHEAT.—The Oregon experiment station is prepared to send out a limited number of varieties of wheat to farmers in the state for trial. Not more than two varieties will be sent to any individual and the right to select the kinds sent is reserved. Those who wish to test some of the varieties, which promise to excel the old sorts, can obtain them by sending name and post office address to H. T. French, Agricultural, Oregon Experiment Station, Corvallis, Or.

THE LAWTON AND CANEMAH ROAD.—The Lawton and Canemah road, which is a continuation of the New Era road in direct line to Seventh street, Canemah, was to avoid the detour to the eastward before entering Oregon City, is now open to pedestrians may pass that way. On the Canemah bluff considerable work must be done before teams may pass. The new road is about one-half a mile long and it will be a great convenience to people living to the southward of Oregon City.

ONE OF THE FIRST OREGONIANS.—Dr. W. C. McKay and wife, of Pendleton, visited friends in this city last Sunday and Monday. Dr. McKay is probably the most interesting historical character now living in Oregon. Astoria was founded by his grandfather, who was a partner of John Jacob Astor in the fur trade. Dr. McKay was born there in 1824 at the old fort. After the death of his grandfather his grandmother became the wife of Dr. John McLaughlin, governor of the Hudson Bay Company, west of the Rocky mountains, so Dr. McKay's boyhood was spent under the tutelage of Dr. McLaughlin. In 1838 he was sent east and educated, returning in 1842 with the party in which was S. W. Moss, of this city. Dr. McKay is a skillful physician and a most delightful narrator of events of early Oregon history, and he is the last of the famous actors in the drama of old Fort Vancouver. Here the early emigrants found friends and food, and as a boy and youth Dr. McKay saw the first white settlers entering Oregon.

QUARTZ MILL TEST.—A large number of representative miners from all parts of the North and Northwest—Okanogan, Coeur d'Alene, central, and southern Oregon—met yesterday at the Union Iron works, of this city, to witness the new Oregon quartz mill at work for the first time before the public. It was, however, an imperfect test, being only of the crushing power of the mill. All present were more than satisfied. At less than half the real capacity of the mill, 230 pounds of more than usually hard quartz was run through one of the two hoppers, and was crushed to impalpable powder—perfect flour, in fact, in twelve and a half minutes, which at full capacity means considerably over one ton an hour; with such excellence of work that is extraordinary. The mill is the invention of Mr. James Thoro, of Oregon City, associated with E. G. Good, of Chicago. The principle of the mill is pulverization by impact or concussion—that is, making the rock pound itself to powder, and at the same time avoid all deterioration of the machinery by friction.—Oregonian, Oct. 3.

THE PORTLAND REGATTA.—The regatta of the Willamette Rowing Club on the White House course was well attended last Saturday. There were five races, three amateur and two professional. In the professional, double, one mile, and a half and turn, Hanlan and O'Connor defeated Dutch and Stevenson by three lengths; time 23:05. Amateur, single one mile and half, won by Dr. Nann, of Portland; C. Laisen, Willamette, second; time not given. Four-oared Junior, mile and one-half, won by Vancouver team by three-fourths of a length; Willamette second, time 9:45. Professional, single, one mile and a half and turn, O'Connor first, Dutch second, Stevenson third; time 24:34. Four oared senior mile and one-half, Portland team first, Willamette second, Vancouver third; time not given. The accommodations for spectators were most wretched. The view from the White House stand was much obstructed, there were no programs and nothing to distinguish the different participants to the crowd. The four-oared junior race was protested and must be rowed again.

Signal Service for Oregon City.
A short time ago the ENTERPRISE received a communication from the United States signal office stating that Oregon City would be furnished a code of weather signals and daily telegraphic advices giving weather forecasts if the citizens would provide for receiving the advices and displaying the signals. Instead of soliciting subscriptions to support such a display station, the ENTERPRISE offered to maintain it at its own expense. G. A. Harding contributed to the enterprise by erecting a flagstaff on the Enterprise building and after October 25 the signals will be seen fluttering therefrom every day. The following letter from the observer at Portland is self-explanatory:

PORTLAND, Or., Oct. 6, 1891.
Messrs. Meserve & Lawrence,
Oregon City, Or.
GENTLEMEN:—Flags and telegraph advices relative to the weather forecast will be furnished you about the 25th inst. The delay is caused by the fact that each display station secured must first be approved by the Washington, D. C. office before flags can be issued or telegrams can be sent. Very respectfully,
B. S. PAGUE, Observer.

Death of William Raw.
William Raw died suddenly at his home at Mountain View last Sunday morning. The funeral service was held at Mountain View chapel Tuesday morning, conducted by Rev. O. W. Lucas.
Mr. Raw was born at Danby, England, July, 1835. For thirty years previous to his coming to America he lived in the city of Hull, Yorkshire, England, and followed the trade of brick mason in which he was a skilled workman. He came to America three years ago last May. He spent eight months in Denver, Colorado, and eight months in Portland, and has since lived in and near Oregon City. During his residence in Hull he was an active member of the Congregational church. Upon coming to Oregon City he, with his wife, transferred their membership to the Congregational church of this city, and were regular attendants upon its services. About a year ago sickness compelled him to give up work, but for several weeks past his apparent recovery was so rapid that he contemplated resuming work in a few days. On last Sunday morning a severe paroxysm of coughing occasioned the bursting of a blood vessel in his lungs, and he passed away in a very few minutes. Mr. Raw leaves a wife and five children—two sons who are following their father's trade and three daughters, one of whom is married.

When we use perfume we certainly should use only the best; and judges of perfume—good judges, you know—say there are only four or five perfumers who make the best—that is, the very best. There are a dozen good ones, but only a few best. The best is what you all want in perfume if in anything, particularly when they cost no more than the next best.
