FRIDAY, OCT. 30, 1891.

ABOUT SEVENTH STREET—It was nearly a year ago when the project of improving Seventh street began to take practical shape. But the inertia of the council and the legal red tape prevented the beginning of actual work on the contract till late in the season. The contractor has pushed the work as rapidly as possible, but no portion of this improvement is yet completed while a considerable length of the street included in the contract has not yet been touched. Even though the wet season holds off till late there must be much of the Seventh street work to complete after the rains shall have set in. This will add to the difficulty of doing a good job. But the loss to the mercantile interests of the city by reason of the inability of farmers to drive into town down Seventh street will be a serious matter. That is the most important highway to the country and while it is impassable those who have been in the habit of trading in Oregon City will go elsewhere. Some means should be taken to give the Molalla road a practicable entrance to Main street. If it is left with one end in the air it will divert much trade from Oregon City. And all this could have been avoided by prompt action in starting the Seventh street work.

THE WAY TO RAISE FRUIT—F. R. Andrew has an orchard on the bank of the Willamette a short distance above Canemah that he is making money from by using brains in the cultivation of it. It was an old orchard when he took it. The trees were rough-barked and moss-covered and the ground had been piled up high about their roots so that during the dry season they nearly perished. Mr. Andrew cleared the trash from about the trees, plowed the ground and stirred it well about the roots, scraped off the moss and rough bark and put the trees in good growing condition. Then when the proper time came to deal with pests that attack the developing fruit he sprayed the trees with a solution of Paris green (London purple was first used but Paris green produced better results). By this sort of attention Mr. Andrew raised 2000 bushel of apples free of worms and beautifully developed specimens of fruit. He is certain that his treatment, if persisted in by fruit raisers generally, will rid the orchards of insect pests and restore the fame of the Oregon red apples.

COMPANY F OF THE NATIONAL GUARD—First Lieutenant Ganong of Company F has been designated to take charge of the property of the company in the absence of Captain Warren, who has moved to Portland and resigned from the captaincy of the company. Next Monday night will be the regular annual meeting of Company F and inspection of officers. Colonel Beebe of Portland is expected to be present. Last Monday evening four new recruits were received—Charles Poston, Thomas Moore, A. H. Spooner and C. Shehan—making the strength of the company fifty-two. Training for the athletic tournament to be held in Portland November 11 has already begun and the boys expect to take their usual majority of the prizes. The company's committee has begun preparations for the third annual ball to be given on the evening of November 25—Thanksgiving—and the calculation is to give the best ball ever given by the company.

THE CATHOLIC CHURCH FAIR—Thursday and Friday evening's of last week the Catholic church fair was held at the armory. It had a good patronage and there was nearly $900 taken in on the two nights. The prizes disposed of were a gold watch to the most popular young lady, which was awarded to Miss Maria Hayden of the west side; a dining room set which C. G. Huntly held the lucky number on; a parlor stove to W. A. Huntly; a kitchen table to Mrs. S. Ackerman; and a secretary to George Reddaway. The contest for the gold watch was a spirited one and the candidate of the paper mills boys was successful. The candidate of the east side, Miss Grace Williams, was subsequently presented with a gold watch by the west side as an evidence that the contest in which they were successful was not against her personally. The ladies of St. John's church wish thanks expressed to the Oregon City band, Company F of the merchants and the public in general for important part contributed by each toward the success of the fair.

CLACKAMAS COUNTY FRUIT—R. D. Wilson, of the hardware firm of Wilson & Cooke was out in the Springwater country last week and he tells the ENTERPRISE that a great deal is being done to increase the prune production of that locality. One man, Mr. Gutheridge has thirty-eight acres of young bearing prune trees from which he turned ninety-eight tons—196,000 pounds—of marketable dried prunes this season. The same orchard is expected to greatly exceed this yield next year as the trees will be in better bearing condition, older and stronger. He will erect another drier in time to handle next season's crop. On Canby prairie great interest is being taken in raising peach trees for the market. Sixty thousand were marketed from there this year and ten tons of pits are being planted this fall. The fruit interests will abundantly repay intelligent labor bestowed upon them.

DEMOCRATS TO ORGANIZE—Last Friday handbills were scattered about the streets announcing that there would be a meeting at Caulfield's hall on Saturday evening to organize a democratic club. It being understood to be a public meeting a reporter for the ENTERPRISE was present to get the news but it was stated to him that this meeting was intended to be a "close communion affair" and that no republicans were welcome, either in the capacity of newgatherers or otherwise. A half hour after the appointed time two democrats had arrived. Two or three others dropped in later and a committee to draft constitution and by laws, consisting of C. D. Latourette, James Thorn, H. S. Straight, Jr., and I. LeMahieu, was appointed with instructions to report at a meeting to be held next Saturday night for permanent organization.

AN OLD CORPORATION SEAL—The corporation seal used by the recorder of Oregon City is probably the oldest in the state. The city was incorporated while Oregon was a territory. The recorder's seal consists of a plain disk in the outer part of which is "Oregon City Corporation, O. T." As Oregon became a state in 1858 this seal must have been made and used before that date. A laurel wreath is twined outside a circle on the inside of which is a representation of the sun setting behind a pile of rocks. The seal is considerably worn by long usage but it is still distinct in the main and seems good for as many more years as it has already served.

A NEW MOTOR LINE—A gentleman who was in this city early in the week and who is in a position to know what he was talking about said that to his positive knowledge arrangements were now being perfected to build a motor line up the west side of the Willamette from Portland to Oregon City. Arrangements for building the road are, he said, now being made in the East. It will not be an extension of the Second street line nor the Northwick & Batty Oswego scheme. The gentleman would not state any of the details of the enterprise but said he was positive that the road would soon be built.

CHURCH IMPROVEMENTS—The St. John's Catholic congregation has made improvements amounting to more than $1000 about its property this year, consisting of painting the interior of the church and extra repairs about the church, school and sister's house. All debts contracted this year have been paid in full. The congregation is in a flourishing condition and further improvements about its property are contemplated. Father Hellebrand takes much interest in the work and is doing much to improve the condition of his flock.

REFORM SCHOOL TO BE OPENED—The board of trustees of the state reform school, at a meeting held last Tuesday decided to open the school November 5, 1891. The superintendents of the school and his assistants, will, therefore be ready at the above time to receive boys between the ages of 8 and 16 years committed to their custody as provided by law. All correspondence relative to the admission of pupils to the school, or other business pertaining to the institution, should be addressed to B. J. Miles, superintendent of the state reform school Salem, Or.

BUILDINGS ON SEVENTH STREET—William Wade is building a store 20x30 feet on Seventh at the corner of Monroe. He will occupy it as a grocery and notion store and will run a delivery wagon when he commences business. Shively's new store and theater building on Seventh and Madison is nearing completion. The finishing touches are being given T. L. Charman's residence. A number of other buildings will soon be erected on that street.

REAL ESTATE CHANGES—J. F. Phillips has traded his house and lot at the corner of Fifth and Madison streets to J. M. Hoekert for the latter's seventy-six acre farm at Highland. Robert J. Butel has sold through Thayer & Alden his seven and a half acres at the junction of the Molalla and Highland roads to Mr. Redberg of Portland for $2200. Mr. Redberg will move on the premises.

ROADS TO THE NORTHWEST—The Oregon Iron & Steel Co. owns more than half the land between here and Oswego. It is understood that this land will soon be put on the market and it will prove attractive for settlers. On account of the sparse settlement there now the roads are in very bad condition so that much of the trade from that direction that would naturally find its way to Oregon City if the roads were reasonably good is now diverted to other points. When the land is cut into small farms it is probable that the roads will receive the attention their importance demands.

NEW CHURCH AT WOODBURN—The new Methodist church at this place was dedicated last Sunday. Rev. S. P. Wilson, of Salem, presiding elder of this district, officiated. To free the indebtedness it was necessary to raise $1,200 and in a few moments $1,400 were raised. The church and ground have cost $5,000 and it would be an ornament to even a city. It is probably the finest church for a city of this size in the country.—Woodburn Independent.

LAW AND REAL ESTATE—Sam A. Smith and H. V. Waltermire have opened a law and real estate office in the Charman block, rooms 5 and 6. Mr. Smith was formerly a leading attorney of Ness county, Kansas, where he was county prosecutor and he makes a specialty of criminal and land office business. Mr. Waltermire has had experience in banking and real estate. The firm is a strong one.

REFUSE ON THE RIVER FRONT—There is considerable complaint about people who deposit refuse on the river front in such a way that it lies and decomposes there, giving rise to a stench that is not only unpleasant but must be detrimental to health. The offal from fish markets and butcher shops is said to find its way to the river bank in violation of the city ordinance.

When all remedies for scrofula fail, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, if persistently used effects a cure. Being a powerful alterative, it cleanses the blood of all impurities, destroys the germs of scrofula, and imparts new life and vigor to every fibre of the body.
