THE MAYNARD MATTER.

What a Friendly Law Journal Has to Say of It.

The most important legal event of last week undoubtedly was the report of the committee appointed by the New York City Bar association to investigate the charges which are popularly current regarding the conduct of Judge Maynard in respect to the Dutchess senatorial election returns. It is a disagreeable topic, and we do not care to discuss it, and yet the legal journalist should not keep silent on it.

The action of the committee, made up of seven Democrats and two Republicans, cannot fairly be regarded as partisan. The report drawn by Mr. James C. Carter, acknowledged to be the leader of the city bar, a calm and unprejudiced gentleman and a citizen of wide influence, and concurred in by the eight other members of the committee, gentlemen also standing in the very front rank of the city bar and high in the public esteem, is a very serious arraignment. The report was written in the light of Judge Maynard's public letter of explanation, a letter which failed to satisfy the City Bar association of the propriety of his conduct. It was adopted almost unanimously by a meeting at which nearly or quite 500 of the most respectable and eminent lawyers of the city were present and took part—the largest meeting of the association ever held, as we are informed.

In our judgment this document deserves, indeed demands, prompt, serious and unpartisan attention of the legislature, and more than this, it should lead to an investigation by the bar and the court of Judge Maynard's home. The charges are so weighty and so closely concern the propriety of his conduct as a lawyer and his fitness to occupy a place on the bench, as entirely to remove the discussion from the region of politics.—Albany Law Journal.

What Say Anglomaniacs to This?

There is a volume of significance in a brief paragraph in a native newspaper of Bengal, British India, protesting against the exportation of corn to Great Britain, and asserting that the famines in India had been much more frequent under English rule, owing to this cause. If an irresistible demand should arise in India that the grain should be kept in the country, it is difficult to see where England could look for a sufficient supply of food except to the United States. The famine in Russia shows that the grain depots of Odessa are an uncertain resource.

Canada's production is limited, and her means of transportation still more limited. Great Britain must look to the United States as the granary of her pent up millions, and this fact ought to be a sufficient restraint upon those English statesmen who never seem to be satisfied unless they are doing something to arouse the indignation and overstrain the patience of the American people.—New York Press.

Governor McKinley Thanked.

Governor McKinley, of Ohio, the other day received a letter of thanks for his championship of the tariff from a gentleman who has always voted the Democratic ticket. This gentleman is J. B. F. Champlin, of the Cattaraugus Cutlery company, at Little Falls, N. Y., and he thanks McKinley for making it possible to revive that industry in this country. With business questions before the country it is possible to give practical illustrations of the benefits of a party policy. The McKinley act opened the eyes of many business and workingmen to the advantage of the Republican policy of protection to American industries.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Very Comical, Indeed.

In the view of the Memphis Appeal-Avalanche the very idea that David B. Hill "should have traveled a thousand miles to deliver a platitudinous essay upon the constitution to an expectant assemblage of leading Mississippi Democrats is almost comical." The Appeal-Avalanche might easily have said not only almost, but altogether, and kept within the limits of truth.—New York Tribune.

General Alger's Generosity to Sheridan.

Mr. Sayles, a gentleman from Detroit, relates this anecdote of General Alger's generosity: Three years before General Phil Sheridan's death he was persuaded by General R. A. Alger to be examined for a $50,000 life insurance policy. "Sheridan had just been married," said he, "and had a child, and declared he could not pay the premiums. General Alger said he could arrange the first three years of the company, as they liked to use the names of prominent persons to advertise their benefits. Then he quietly went around to the company's office and paid the premiums for three years himself. That made the policy good for $50,000 for that period, and good for something on the basis of the three years' premiums even if Sheridan never paid any more. Sheridan died before the three years were up, and his widow got the money."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Democratic Object Lesson.

"The next president must be a Democrat," says the wicked New York World, while in the same column it denounces the course of the Democratic governor of New Jersey, begs the Democratic legislature of New York to repeal its infamous Central park race track bill and pleads that the overwhelming Democratic majority in the house of representatives will refrain from passing a fraudulent free silver bill. The World may want more of this sort of Tammany Democratic government, but the people do not.—New York Mail and Express.

Modesty Doesn't Annoy Hill.

Senator Gorman is a rather more modest man than Senator Hill. Mr. Gorman observes that the mention of his name in connection with the presidency reminds him of a Kentucky man by the name of Stone, a great big fellow who was loafing about the senate when Franklin Pierce was nominated in 1852. "Who in the world is Franklin Pierce?" said Stone. Somebody tried to relate, but broke down. "My God," said Stone, "if this Franklin Pierce has been nominated for president, who is safe? The next thing, perhaps, will be that Jim Stone, of Kentucky, will be nominated."—Boston Herald.

Cleveland's Following.

The committee of seven of the Columbian party, box 5,294, Boston, has issued another address which gives the Democratic party the choice between disruption and Columbianism. "Cleveland alone," says the address, "cannot pull the Democratic party out of the slough, yet, aided by the men who insist upon a Columbian platform, he can save his party by making it over anew."—New York Sun (Dem.).

The Reporter Was Wise.

Editor (of southern paper)—Mr. Probus, you will interview Senator Hill—Reporter (joking up his notebook with alacrity)—Yes, sir. Editor—With special reference to his views on the silver question. Reporter (opening a drawer and taking out a corkscrew, a burglar's jimmy, a screwdriver and a pair of strong pliers)—I'll try, sir.—Chicago Tribune.

Crisp's Ambitious Rival.

Czar Crisp must pale his ineffectual fires before the pyrotechnics of Czar Sheehan, who adjourns the senate by simply declaring the session ended and leaving the chair.—New York Press.

Wisconsin Won't Stand Tammany Methods.

The Wisconsin gerrymander has been declared unconstitutional. Tammany methods work in Wisconsin, even if Peck's bad law is governor.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Not That Kind of a Candidate.

When any one dares to suggest to Isaac Pusey Gray that he ought really to retire in favor of Cleveland he says, "Excuse me," with a pronounced accent on the me.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Favorite of the Republicans.

The favorite of the Republican party of the country for the Democratic presidential nomination is David B. Hill.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Willamette Silver Band came out with brand new uniforms Wednesday night and they fairly cast the electric lights into the shade with their splendor.

The music of the occasion was even more inspiring than usual. The boys make a fine appearance in their new outfits and every encouragement should be given them to perfect their organization and make it an artistic as well as a financial success.

The Ladies' Relief Corps is taking the initiative in a movement for a big celebration here the fourth of July.

The corps proposes to enlist the citizens in the enterprise and to organize the celebration on a large plan. The design includes running excursion boats and trains and to have such a celebration of the nation's birthday as has never been witnessed in Oregon City.

Redemptorist Fathers Lingard and Marion are holding missionary meetings at the Catholic church.

They began last Sunday and all this week, English services at 8:00, 8:30 and 11:00 a. m. and 3:00 and 7:30 p. m. The English series will close Sunday evening and Monday and Tuesday the services will be conducted in the German language.

The Oregon City Republican club held a business meeting at Pope's hall last Tuesday night and decided to arrange for two big meetings during this campaign.

The executive committee is to perfect the details.

With but little care and no trouble, the beard and mustache can be kept a uniform brown or black color by using Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers.
