The council had a short meeting last Monday night at which it ordered published an ordinance forbidding the gathering of garbage between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m., and another one levying a city tax of five mills on each dollar of valuation. The Willamette Pulp & Paper company is bringing timber from the lower Columbia to convert into pulp. Several rafts of logs have been brought up lately. Hitherto the cottonwood up the Willamette and its branches has been the chief source of supply for paper. Some white fir and a lot of hemlock from the lower Columbia this week is to be used in an experimental way. If the hemlock will make good pulp, and there appears no good reason why it should not, most of the timber for that purpose is likely to be brought from there.

THE MOTOR LINE.—The East Side motor line is coming right along toward Oregon City. It is in operation to Sellwood and the track will be completed to Milwaukie in a few days. The Gladstone Mill company has gotten out 2500 ties and delivered them along the route of the road north of the Clackamas. The only reason why the bridge over the Clackamas is not now under construction is that the company is waiting for the Oregon City council to pass the right of way ordinance for this city—at least that is the reason given by the company. So many changes have been made in the ordinance since its introduction that the company says it is not willing to proceed with the line to this city until it finds out exactly what sort of a franchise it can get here. This matter will be decided at the regular meeting July 6, if the ordinance be not further amended, and then the company will push on to this city and have its line in operation this season.

JULIUS LOGUS DEAD.

HIS LIFE ENDED BY APOPLEXY LAST MONDAY.

A Prominent and Respected Citizen of Clackamas—A Biographical Sketch.

The city was shocked by news of the sudden death of Julius Logus last Monday afternoon. The news spread rapidly and business was temporarily suspended. His was the most familiar figure on the street and he always presented a picture of rugged health. It was hard to realize that he had died in a moment without any warning.

Mr. Logus had been down town as usual in the morning. He ate a hearty dinner and then took a horse and rode down to the farm just north of the city. He returned about 3 o'clock and for a little while sat on the porch reading a newspaper. He then went to the hammock under the trees at the north side of the house and lay there for some time when workmen engaged in putting down a cement walk noticed that he was breathing heavily and went to him. His hat had fallen down over his face and when it was raised he opened his eyes but did not move. The alarm was given at once and one of the men hastened for a physician. It was about three minutes from the time the alarm was given that Dr. Carl arrived but Mr. Logus was then dead. The cause of his death was pronounced to be apoplexy. The end came silently and swiftly and he lay dead in the hammock.

The Misses Logus, who had gone to Mrs. Best's a short time before were notified of the occurrence. Messages were sent to relatives in Portland. Undertakers Holman & Warner dressed the remains and the Knights of Pythias provided a watch. Portland relatives arrived Tuesday morning and the funeral arrangements were made.

The obsequies were set for Thursday morning at 8:30 and were under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, of which order the deceased was an active member. Mr. Logus was a member of the Episcopal church but in the absence of a clergyman of that faith Rev. O. W. Lucas of the Congregational church officiated. Achilles lodge No. 38, Knights of Pythias, attended in a body as did also the board of trade. After a short service at the house the remains were conveyed to the steamer Altona and taken to Lone Fir cemetery for burial.

The pall bearers were Geo. A. Harding, Chris. Hoberg, E. Mathias, J. E. Rhoades, Geo. C. Brownell and Gordon E. Hayes. Business houses were closed during the hour of the funeral.

Julius Logus was born in Kanwinkle, Prussia, October 20, 1838. He came to America in 1864 and on the 28th of November of that year he landed in Oregon City and obtained employment with the firm of Albright & Logus the members of which were an elder brother of deceased and the father of C. O. Albright, the present junior member of the firm. In 1869 Julius Logus purchased his brother's interest in the meat market and ten years later Charles O. Albright succeeded his father, and the firm name continued "Logus & Albright" to the present. Mr. Logus was one of the incorporators of the bank of Oregon City. By his unremitting industry and frugality he accumulated a great deal of property in Clackamas, Linn and Multnomah counties. He owned a well stocked ranch of 680 acres near Lebanon and held considerable valuable property in East Portland. The estate is estimated to be worth between $50,000 and $75,000 above all indebtedness. Deceased had served as city councilman several times but had never held any other political office though he always took a lively interest in politics.

In 1870 Mr. Logus married Miss Antonia Shweiker who preceded him to the grave a little more than two years, namely, April 6, 1890. Three children are left, Misses Augusta and Sophia, and William, a lad about twelve years of age. One brother, Charles, and two sisters, Mrs. A. Borghardt and Mrs. J. Wentze live in East Portland and another brother, Frank, and sister, Mrs. William Shiley, are in Germany.

Mr. Logus was one of the most popular men in Clackamas county and he was universally held in high esteem. Though born a German he was proud of his American citizenship and was as active a patriot as any native Yankee. His homespun geniality, his rugged honesty and his liberality gave him much influence among the people. He was a man of strong convictions but was always disposed to be fair and reasonable. He was progressive in business and active in supporting any measure he endorsed. His death is a distinct loss to the community.

RESOLUTIONS. The following resolutions of respect to the memory of Julius Logus, were passed by Achilles Lodge No. 38 K. of P.:

WHEREAS, The Supreme Ruler, in his infinite wisdom, has removed from our order a well beloved member in the person of Julius Logus, therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Julius Logus we have lost a well tried, brave and worthy knight, who, by his consistent life and knightly conduct, has won a warm place in our lodge and hearts.

Resolved, That this lodge hereby extends to the family of our late lamented brother its sympathy in the hour of their severe and sudden affliction.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of this lodge, that a copy be sent to the family of the late deceased, and that the charter and door of this lodge be draped in mourning for thirty days. ISAAC ACKERMAN, Chancellor Commander. J. E. RHOADES, E. of R. and S.

SHOT WITH A LOADED CARTRIDGE.

When Henry Himmeler was shot by Martin Boyles at Park Place May 1 it was supposed that the charge in the gun was buck shot and bird shot. Several fine shot struck Himmeler in the head, one of them destroying his right eye. A larger missile, supposed to be a buckshot, entered his body about four inches below his right nipple. The Doctors could not find where it had entered the abdominal cavity and it was supposed the ball had dropped out. On the opposite side, however, a little below and a little back of the left nipple there was a bunch which bore the indications of a fractured rib and it was so treated. Himmeler improved and was able to move about, even coming up to town. But the difficulty in his left side continued to trouble him and had to be drained daily. Last Monday he drained the wound and discovered it with his jack knife when he discovered a piece of brass. Dr. Carl was passing the house that day and he was called in to look into the matter when he found a loaded cartridge lying just under the skin. It was a 44-60 rifle cartridge loaded. The patient was brought to town and the cartridge removed and he is getting along finely now. The loaded cartridge must have been put in the shot gun on top of the ordinary charge and it was not exploded by the discharge. It passed entirely through Himmeler's body piercing the diaphragm, which is considered to be a fatal wound, and just missing the stomach, lower end of the esophagus, heart and aorta. If it had hit any one of these it would have been almost certainly fatal.

HURRAH FOR THE FOURTH.—The Fourth of July committee last Wednesday selected the site for the base ball game on the west side of the river. A part of the program will have to be carried out on the east side on account of the better ground for the races. The saw log race has been changed to a log rolling contest in the river. The arrangements are being perfected for a big celebration and an immense crowd will be in attendance. There will be accommodations for nearly 20,000 people. There will be no celebration like it in the state.

O'CONNELL & GLASS'S SALE.—The second semi-annual sale of O'Connell & Glass is now in progress. Their specialties are $15 suits and 50-cent hats. The firm has a large stock which it is endeavoring to reduce before the dull summer season and it is putting everything down to the lowest limit. This is the greatest suit and hat sale ever made in Oregon City. You can get real bargains if you want anything in that line.
