There is no use making promises for this occasion. The people know Mr. Brownell too well to lose interest in his addresses.

A MAN CUT TO DEATH

FATAL RESULT OF A SALOON BRAWL AT CANBY.

Silas Suter of Eagle Creek Stabbed in the abdomen by William Henderson.

A bloody affray occurred at Canby last Monday afternoon in Susbauer's saloon kept by A. B. Dimmick. Dimmick, Silas Suter, William Henderson and a man named Wright were playing cards when Dimmick was called to the bar to wait on a customer. When he returned to the table Suter was dealing the cards and when he had finished Henderson claimed Suter had not made a fair deal. The game was continued, however, though not very good-naturedly. Henderson continually complained of Suter and the game finally broke up in a row. It is said that Suter made rather light of Henderson's anger and after they had quit playing he put his hands on Henderson's shoulders saying to him "You wouldn't fight." The weapon Henderson thrust a knife into Suter's abdomen about three inches to the left of the navel, twisted it around and withdrew it. The other men then interfered and got Henderson away but he was soon at his victim and plunged the knife into him again near the same spot. After the first cut Suter made an attempt to seize a chair as if to strike his assailant but his strength appeared to leave him while in the act and after the second stab he sank to the floor with his entrails protruding several inches from the bleeding wound.

Henderson walked coolly away, stopping at Dr. Knight's drug store and telling the doctor that there was a man badly cut at the saloon. He then walked out of town. Suter was covered with some blankets and allowed to remain in the saloon until Dr. Carl of Oregon City arrived, the men having made an unsuccessful attempt to replace the intestines. Dr. Carl and Dr. White of Canby dressed the wound but it was evident that there was scarcely a hope for his recovery. The knife had been twisted around after entering the bowels and the intestines were badly cut. Suter lingered till 2 o'clock Wednesday morning when he died. The hemorrhage from the wound and the mouth continued during the whole time. Coroner Holman was informed of the death and he went up to Canby and held an inquest Wednesday, and the jury found that deceased came to his death from a wound inflicted by William Henderson. The remains were taken to Eagle Creek, where the family of the deceased resides, Wednesday.

Suter was an unmarried man 27 years of age who lived with his mother at Eagle Creek. His father is dead. Two brothers and a sister also live at Eagle Creek.

Sheriff Ganong was notified of the cutting affray and at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning he went up to Canby to search for Henderson. He tracked him a short distance northeastward but then lost the trail. Wednesday he sent out word in the locality supposed to have been traversed by the refugee that he would give $22 for his apprehension. James Hodges of Canby was in Portland Wednesday and he met Henderson on Front street near the National hotel. He immediately telephoned for a policeman and two officers were sent out and they arrested Henderson and took him to jail. Wednesday afternoon Sheriff Ganong brought the prisoner to Oregon City and lodged him in jail. Thursday morning Henderson appeared before Justice Fouts, waived examination and was held to appear before the grand jury on the charge of murder, without bonds.

Henderson is a well known tough. His home was formerly in eastern Oregon. He had to get out of that country to escape being punished for some misdeed and he went to Olympia, Wash. From there he went to Chehalis. He was frequently getting into trouble. About two years ago he came to Clackamas county, achieving a little distinction as a rider of bucking horses. A little more than a year ago he got into a fight with a man named Purdom, in which he gouged out one of the eyes of his antagonist with the neck of a broken beer bottle, for which offense he spent three months in jail, but was finally released for want of prosecution. He and the man he murdered had been cutting wood together near Canby and they had been living together a short time, Suter, it is said, practically supporting the vagabond who did him to death.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

Hiram Cochrane Suffers Three Weeks—in a Critical Condition.

Hiram Cochrane, who was engaged on the carpenter work for the drift wing at the entrance to the "basin," was stricken with paralysis while at work framing timbers on the bank of the river at Canemah last Wednesday shortly after noon.

Mr. Cochrane had eaten his lunch and was beginning work when stricken. He was near the bank of the river and but for the timely assistance of one of the other workmen he would have fallen off a 12-foot bank into deep water. He was caught and carried to a neighboring house where restoratives were applied, and word was sent to his son-in-law, F. R. Charman and for a doctor. Dr. Carl happened to be passing Canemah on his return from Canby and he stopped and attended to the patient. Mr. Cochrane recognized Fred Charman but no one else. Subsequently he suffered two spasms, the last of which was the severest. Then he was taken home remaining totally unconscious.

Thursday he manifested signs of consciousness but he still lies in a very critical condition. His age—nearly 60 years—makes the outcome more uncertain than it otherwise would be. The disease is pronounced cerebral paralysis.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Report of the Condition in Western Oregon for the Week.

The monotony of those long, warm, dry dusty and smoky days has at last been broken by the few timely showers of the latter part of the week just closed. In this section the rains have been pretty general though light, except in a few of the southern counties where over half an inch fell. In portions of southern Oregon, fruit, vegetables and grapes have been benefited to some extent by these showers while pastures everywhere have been greatly improved. Another, and no less important effect of this precipitation, has been the extinguishing of the disastrous forest fires that have been raging for so long, and a general clearing up of the dense smoke that has obscured the heavens so much of late.

The temperature as well as the sunshine have been rather less than the average amount for this time of year, the deficiency in the latter being due mostly to a densely smoky atmosphere.

CROPS. Hop picking is now well nigh over and reports point to a light crop. Fruit and tender vegetation have also received their full share of benefit from the precipitation of the past week. Gardens are doing better now than at any time since last July. Fall ploughing has been made possible by the rains.

IN THE COURTS.

546. Cal. Howell vs. S. R. Green; suit to enforce the payment of a promissory note for $145 made May 1, 1891 due one day after date. H. E. Cross attorney.

5047. Louisa Daziel vs. John Daziel; suit to dissolve the marriage contract entered into in Michigan in July 1876, desertation being alleged. S. Huelat attorney.

5048. Thomas M. Miller vs. Mary E. Barlow, Margaret I. Pillsbury, Henrietta M. Kelly and J. G. Pillsbury; Suit for the partition of the Samuel Miller D. L. C. and another tract of 5.95 acres in which plaintiff claims to have an estate of inheritance to the extent of an undivided two-fifths part. S. Huelat attorney.

Mrs. Mary Miller of Powell's Valley, entered complaint against Henry Parrot charging disorderly conduct before ladies. Geo. C. Brownell defended the case. The charge was dismissed and costs amounting to $42.65 taxed against complaining witness, as it was a conclusive case of malicious prosecution. The Millers do not stand well in that community.

Last Monday Justice Fouts heard the case of Henry Smathers vs August Hubert in which the crop of oats or seven acres of land was in dispute. Smathers had rented the farm of Milo Gard who subsequently sold it to Hubert. Smathers claimed the crop of oats which he had planted and the purchaser of the farm also claimed it. Geo. C. Brownell appeared for the plaintiff and D. C. Lafourrette for defendant. A jury was called for and the verdict was for the plaintiff.
