

SCHEDULE OF TIME

Table with columns for Steamers ALTONA & RAMONA, SUNDAY, and SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY. Includes departure and arrival times for various routes.

Table for THE MAILS, listing mail close times for North, South, and Side routes.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1902. RAINING THE ELECTRIC POLES.—During the past week the force of men has been busy raising the 45-foot poles on Main street for the use of the electric line...

A COUNTRY SNEAK THIEF.—The sections adjoining Carus and Mulino were recently visited by a provident sneak thief who had an eye to the good things of this life while out on his predatory expedition...

DOING GRAND WORK.—The following clipping is taken from the Salem Capital Journal and will prove of interest to persons suffering from liquor, opium, morphine, cigarette or tobacco habits: Clell Nash has returned from the Keeley Institute, at Forest Grove, where he has taken a five weeks' treatment for morphine, whisky and cigarette habit...

GOVERNOR PENNOYER IN TOWN.—On Friday Governor Pennoyer accompanied by Representative Miller of Linn county was in town making a thorough inspection of the falls, their object being to determine in what manner a flash ladder can best be constructed so as to be permanent and useful...

MULTNOMAH COUNTY ROADS.—The Trontdale Champion contains the following items relative to the roads in that section. It seems that even Mult-nomah's roads are not all rock paved: "Of interest to the county commissioners. It took Fred Mills from five o'clock in the evening to haul a cord of wood on Wednesday about three-quarters of a mile. The frightful condition of the roads is enough to make any one use a big "d" when they find themselves stuck in the mud..."

HUNTED FOR WILSON.—The Telegram says Deputy Sheriff Morgan returned last night from the Eorse Heaven district in the eastern part of Clackamas county, where he went to look for a couple of horse thieves. Mr. Morgan did not get his men, but had the pleasure of returning briefly to his old occupation of looking for Birdie Morton...

NEATH MR. HOOD'S SHADOWS.—Last Saturday J. C. Hackett and Robert Creelman returned from Mr. Hackett's homestead on Elk Flat where they had spent a week. They were almost at the foot of Mt. Hood the base of which is only six miles from Mr. Hackett's ranch right up the Sandy canyon. It rained, hailed and snowed while they were there but no snow remained on the ground in the valley...

PREDATORY FROWLING PEDDLERS.—For some time past the residence section of the city on the hill has been infested by Italian peddlers both male and female who avoid paying the city license by getting off of the boat or train and starting at once for the hill. An officer seeing them on one of the main streets would infer that they were going to or from the country but as soon as they are on a back street they peddle diligently. Recently one visited a house and after knocking several times and getting no answer she tried the door and finding it locked went to the window and looked in. Such prowlers should be summarily ejected from the city.

WAS IT ASBESTOS?—In excavating for the stone wall about his lots T. L. Charman unearthed chunks of a black substance which had evidently been wood some time long ago and been partially burned. It looked like charcoal but was much heavier. Mr. Charman subjected it to acid tests which it withstood, and a sample exposed to the air in a few days showed white threads which placed upon a hot stove were not destroyed by half an hour's exposure to a strong heat. A gentleman familiar with asbestos mines said that it had exactly the appearance of that mineral.

MORE RIPE BERRIES.—On Tuesday morning just as ye editor had drawn his shoulders together with a shrug and made up his mind that winter was upon him the sanctum was invaded by Mrs. Julius Norris who brought with her some nice ripe red raspberries. Upon the end of one sprig there were eight ripe berries besides several green ones, while the leaves were as bright and fresh as in May. With one retrospective glance to the winter of our youth where Christmas and 30 degrees below zero were no uncommon companions we ate the berries and concluded that this was not much of a winter after all.

CLACKAMAS A. O. U. W. OFFICERS.—Last Saturday evening the A. O. U. W. lodge at Clackamas elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: S. E. Holcomb, master workman; S. D. Jones, foreman; E. C. Chapman, overseer; W. T. Johnson, guide; C. E. Pease, recorder; A. Mather, financeer; J. W. Roots, receiver; E. Cummings inside watchman; E. C. Chapman, outside watchman; L. L. Jones, trustee. The installation occurs on the first Saturday in January and on the 10th the lodge will hold a public meeting.

BRICK TOO CHEAP.—The Pacific Builder notes that Wills Bros. have closed down their brick yard at Willsburg and state that they do not intend to sell another brick until spring. They are emphatic in their opinion that better prices should be maintained by the brickmakers, and assert that they would rather plough up their yard than make brick in it at the prices some are being sold at.

ELECTRIC RAILWAYS.—The Statesman gives an account of the consolidation of the motor lines in that city one object being to build lines into the country round about. It includes the account with the following: "There are those who believe the new corporation is simply a branch of the Portland-Oregon City electric line and that the valley will be entirely covered by their lines."

NOW WHERE IS ROSS.—The Yamhill Reporter furnishes the following: "A deputy sheriff named Ross, while in search of Chas. Wilson, the Milwaukie murderer last summer, left a bay horse at Walling's livery in Amity, and never called for him. The horse was sold the other day for $77. Walling's bill for keeping him was $75, and other expenses incurred amounted to $3.50. Walling is now advertising for Ross to come and pay him the difference. This goes to show that a horse can more than eat himself up in five months time in this country."

THE OREGON LEGISLATURE.—Will soon meet and everyone will be interested in watching its proceedings, as matters of more than usual interest affecting the farmers interests are almost certain to come up. The ENTERPRISE is making arrangements to have the fullest possible report of all important happenings, written up in a style to particularly interest its Clackamas county readers. If you want to know what the Clackamas county representatives are doing for the good of Clackamas county, take and read the ENTERPRISE.

OFFICERS OF MULTNOMAH LODGE.—On Saturday evening Multnomah lodge, No. 1, A. F. & A. M. met in regular session and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: L. L. Porter, master, H. E. Ferrin, senior warden, T. J. Lawrence, junior warden; T. F. Ryan, secretary and Fred Palmer, tyler. The installation will occur on St. John's day which is on Tuesday the 27th. There is considerable interest taken among Masons looking toward the organization of a chapter here, and it is now thought that it will soon be done.

GREEN GOODS INVITATIONS.—Wednesday several citizens found letters in their postoffice boxes setting forth the great advantages of "green goods," made by them from "original plates" and which they were willing to supply on very reasonable terms. Mr. Rands states that judging by the appearance of the envelopes there were only about fifty of these invitations in the mail that morning.

FOR THE UPPER RIVER.—The Newberg Graphic says: "It is reported that Captain Waud will put a bran new boat on the line between Mission Landing and Portland next spring. Charley Spaulding is also considering the feasibility of putting a boat on the river to tow logs and do other freighting as the public demands. Plenty of river crafts are always to the benefit of the public and we hope to see both boats put on the river."

A TEMPORARY ROAD.—Street commissioner Hohberg has been busy the past week with a force of men building a piece of plank road along Main street opposite the Sash & Door factory. Nearly all of the old grade will be taken up by the motor line and a temporary piece of road had to be built to prevent the lower and eastern country from being blockaded in the lower end of town.
