Smallpox at Clackamas.

Last Monday morning O. P. Hibbard of Clackamas brought word to this city that there were two cases of smallpox at Clackamas. On Sunday Mrs. Benjamin Knox and her youngest child were stricken with the dreaded disease. The citizens sent for a special physician from Portland to attend the cases. They have also procured a nurse and quarantined the house; but it is doubtful if the spread of the disease can be prevented, as John Knox, from whom they caught it, was all about the town. The citizens are taking vigorous measures to protect the community from contagion. The Telegram gives this history of the case: Knox, it will be remembered, took a shirt which belonged to the man Brown, who was the first patient taken ill with the smallpox in Portland several weeks ago. At the time it was not known that Brown had the smallpox. Knox put the shirt on and wore it, and in that manner contracted the contagion. After being thus exposed, Knox continued to circulate around his home at Clackamas. In this way many persons were exposed to the disease. Soon after Knox was taken sick and then determined to come to Portland for medical treatment. An examination of his case showed that he had the smallpox. He was at once removed to the pesthouse, where he is now, and is reported doing well. The city physician states that if the situation becomes serious at Clackamas he will place the town under quarantine regulations, and not permit any trains to stop there. The Southern Pacific company say that they will be guided by the wishes of the board of health of Portland in this matter. When Knox was taken from his brother's house to the train to be taken to the hospital in Portland he was carried on a bed in an express wagon, the supposition being that he had a relapse of typhoid fever. While waiting for the train he was in the postoffice where quite a number of people met him. People on the train were also exposed for it was not known till he reached Portland that he had the smallpox. From this it will be seen that Clackamas had a good chance to catch the smallpox and it will not be strange if there are several more cases before the people are free from it.

Mr. S. W. Moss is able to be out again after a long illness. Fifty years ago last December Mr. Moss surveyed the town site of Oregon City for Dr. John McLaughlin using a rope and a compass brought in his pocket across the plains. Just fifty years ago this month of March, Dr. Whitman arrived in Washington after his famous winter ride on horseback from Oregon to the states. Mr. Moss talked with him at Walla Walla just before he started and entertained him here on his return in 1843. That was the great boom year for Oregon City when a thousand people came with Dr. Whitman from the states.

This week's Pacific, San Francisco, contains portions of an admirable discourse recently delivered by Rev. M. A. Dougherty from his pulpit in this city. Such sermons, full of fire, logic and sound theology, are seldom heard on this coast as fall from his lips heard after Sunday.

W. S. Kellogg Missing. One week ago last Friday W. S. Kellogg left his home in Canby on the evening train, to go to Independence via Salem where he intended to stop over night and proceed to Independence Saturday morning. Since he left Canby no trace of him can be found. He was going to Independence to start a butcher shop and had on his person when he left about $400. No reason can be assigned for his mysterious disappearance except foul play. He is described as being about five feet eleven, light complexion with light blue eyes, dark hair and sandy mustache. His features were sharp and he usually leaned forward and walked with an easy swinging gait.

The eve of St. Patrick's Thursday, March 16, will be appropriately observed by St. John's parish in this city by a public entertainment at Pope's hall, at which will be given besides recitations and vocal and instrumental music, a lecture by the famous blind orator, Gilman McGinn of Portland. Subject of the lecture, "Ireland and Home Rule." Mr. McGinn is a brother of Hon. Henry E. McGinn, and is an able lawyer and an eloquent speaker. Tickets 50 cents. TEAMSTERS' COMBINE—One of the contractors in town says that the teamsters have entered into a combine and fixed the price for wood hauling at one dollar per cord irrespective of distance and wages at four and a half dollars per day for man and team.

Our Candid Advice. It is seldom that we appear in the roll of spiritual adviser or family physician, but there are times when we feel satisfied in calling the attention of our many subscribers to an article of true merit. We feel justified in saying that Moore's Revealed Remedy contains more actual merit than any medicine it has ever been our good fortune to test. One trial bottle will make you as enthusiastic as the writer. For sale by all druggists.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Louis Jagger was up from Portland on a visit last Sunday. Hon. G. J. Currin was in the city Tuesday on business. R. E. Hanna, a city distributor, upon the O. & C. mail cars was in this city on Sunday. E. G. Caulfield, cashier of the Bank of Oregon City made a trip to Salem the last of the week. Mrs. C. B. Montague of Lebanon, while enroute for Olympia stopped over Wednesday night with her daughter, Mrs. G. Wm. Giboney. On Sunday Wm. Trullinger of the Astoria electric plant operated by the West Shore company was in town and visited the electric power station, which he admired very much.

Washington Notes. Senator Dolph was in his seat in the senate for the first time since he was taken sick. He is still far from well, but managed to go up to the capitol and remain a few hours. He has made a lucky choice of seats and has secured that formerly occupied by Senator Dawes, of Massachusetts. It is in the second row next to the aisle and one row in front of Senator Mitchell. Senator Mitchell gave a luncheon today for the Oregon democrats in this city. Besides himself, Senator Dolph and J. B. Montgomery, there were present and representing the democratic party: C. A. Cogswell, state senator from Lakeview; John Lane, of Roseburg, and Z. T. Siglen, of Coos county.

Candidates for office in Oregon seem to be rather plentiful. Those whose applications have just been placed on file are: Blackman of Heppner, Charles Nickell, of the Jacksonville Times, and W. L. Weatherford, a nephew of Senator Bate. All three want to be collector of internal revenue.

The present roll-call of the senate shows: Democrats.....44 Republicans.....38 Populist.....1 Independent.....1 Farmers' alliance.....1 Vacancies.....3 The vacancies are one each in Montana, Washington and Wyoming. Should the republicans eventually fill all of these vacancies, which can scarcely be the case in view of Beckwith's appointment in Wyoming, it would give them 41. Should the third-party senators then all vote with the republicans (an unlikely supposition), the senate would still be a tie, with Vice-President Stevenson holding the controlling vote.

COMPOSITION OF THE HOUSE. The house, as shown by the unofficial returns, will be made up as follows: Democrats.....217 Republicans.....128 Third party.....8 Street commissioner Hoberg is able to be out again.
