CONSERNATIVE AND SAFE

A GENTLEMAN who has just returned from the East says that he has not seen outside of Chicago any city which shows the life and improvement which is manifest here in Oregon City. It is certain that there is no town in the state which has as little occasion to feel the stringency in the money market as this where there are so many improvements going on and numerous hands engaged in mills and factories, thus constantly putting in circulation a large volume at no time been given over to wild and unwarranted speculation. Paramount to this bave to pay for the street improvements. is the well known fact that the banks of this city are recognized as safe, careful and reliable institutions whose managers never speculate, and who, in the conduct of their business, do not approach the danger line. The people of Oregon City have confidence in the banks and in the men who have control of them, for they are aware that their business has always been conducted on a gold basis which will not permit of any shrinkage of values incident to other currencies in times of depression. This, together with their absolute exemption from speculative associations, makes our city's banks safe and reliable at this time when such requisites are most essential, and those who have money on deposite in either bank today could have it in no sa This city is to be congratulated at this time especially in having two banks as safe as the best in the state.

EAGLE CREEK ROAD.

The Externise has time and again adverted to the necessity of building up closer business relations with the surrounding districts. Any community which makes this policy the basis of its growth has discovered and is practicing one of the secrets of success. We believe that the business men of Oregon City should give more attention to this matter than they have heretofore, as our close proximity to Portland, which is a bidder for the trade of the farmers of this for supplies in her favor.

The people of the upper Clackamas should be drawn to this place to trade by a community of interests mutual to both, but they will not come simply because Oregon will have been diverted and business rela- crease the quantity of butter put into a roll." tions established which cannot be broken. Let this road be built just as good as we can possibly afford it now, and later we can improve it so that it will eventually be one of

The president apparently thought that he was strong enough to swim against ington to be submitted to the President. If Mr. Cleveland is as tired of swimming against the current as he is believed to be, he will suggest some verbal changes in the tion to the preceding administration. There is room for considerable appreciated and many of the older states improvement in the base running of are now moving in this line and securing Oregon Citys. Stanley got a clean home practical results which should prove of great advantage to this state which has so much need of good roads, little or nothing baving as yet been done in the way of making permanent improvements. Among the states which have recently moved in this line is Massachusetts, whose legislature has provided that after August 1, 1896, the tires on Kelly, rf. the wheels of draught wagons used in that state shall be from three to five inches in width-a practical step toward road reform. Such tires tend to make good roads, serving in a measure as rollers; and as the Reilly, 3b serving in a measure as concerning for three Harris, a new law does not become operative for three Harris, a vagons time in which to prepare for the change, which ought to do much towards securing better roads.

No improved street or road can stand the strain incident to heavy teaming with narrow wagon tires, especially where the grades are heavy as they are in this city. The cost ; of making permanent Improvements is too great to permit of the use of vehicles which will quickly wear them out when by the use of wide tires the same loads can be hauled with less than one-fourth of the strain and wear and tear upon the roads.
