WHY THEY CHANGED.

Six thousand citizens of Indianapolis who voted the democratic ticket in 1892 voted the republican ticket in the municipal election lately held. What was the reason for the change? No one can answer that question better than the men who managed the democratic campaign, and they have been interviewed on the subject by the Indianapolis News, a democratic newspaper. Chairman Taggart, of the democratic city central committee, says that while local issues had something to do with the change there is no disguising the fact that it was a land-slide from the democracy on account of the hard times. Touching this phase of the matter he says:

"It was best illustrated by the vote of the men at the Atlas engine works. They were almost universally democrats, but the vote fell a hundred short, and only about two-fifths of the remainder voted the democratic ticket. This was attributed to the loss of work."

Thomas L. Sullivan, the defeated candidate for mayor, says it was "hard times" and the American Protective Association, although he admits that the vote of the latter organization was merely incidental. The fact is that workmen were denied into believing last year that a change would benefit them, and they voted for it. The results are not to their liking and the pendulum is swinging the other way.

GOVERNOR PENNOYER said to a prominent attorney of this city the other day, referring to the political situation in this state, "we have got them," meaning by that that the populists held the key to the situation. It would seem by the following extract from the Salem Independent that at least some of that party are not as fond of our governor as he is of the party. It says: "It is said that Governor Pennoyer will endorse the people's party and stamp the state in their interest. The governor has been a little too reckless in his endorsements heretofore and probably the people's party would be better off if he would keep still. An endorsement from a man who would recommend Joe Simon for a life position on the federal bench and endorse a proven thief and gutter drunkard for a state position is not worth much to a reform party. Besides, the governor may find if he takes the stump that the people will ask him many troublesome questions regarding his stewardship. Before the time comes for Governor Pennoyer to stump the state, his record as governor will be so well known to the people that the people's party will not give him much encouragement to stump the state for them. The governor has lived a double life for over six years, but he will go back to his original self before long."

THE death of Mayor Harrison at the hands of an assassin removes from public life a well known and popular man of much more than ordinary ability. It is not to the interest of the people of this country that the work of cranks in removing men in public places is becoming as common as it is. Modern civilization has no need to resort to the pistol or other death dealing implements and the freedom which this country boasts is degraded and set back by every such act of the assassin who seeks to avenge or set right by private means public wrongs real or imaginary. It is also well to remember that the man who applies the torch, throws the bomb or pulls the trigger is not necessarily the real culprit as much as the man who knowing better yet talks these methods and thereby leads a weaker man to commit the crime. The American people may well pause and consider in the face of the increasing frequency of these acts of insane and other men, and no sane man ought to be found to encourage them by even so much as a word of sanction.

Discussions of the situation in the senate a democratic exchange says: "No despot, no monarch, no czar in all the history of the world ever asserted a power more absolute and arbitrary than that which has been conceded to a minority of the senate of the United States." When Speaker Reed was compelling a democratic minority in the house to transact business decently and in order, the same paper from which this extract is taken pronounced him also a usurper and a czar. The opinions of men change with the change in conditions, especially when those men happen to be democrats.

County school superintendents and teachers are experiencing the troubles incident to a law which is loosely drawn. It is provided in the present school law that a superintendent may issue but one certificate of a certain grade, and this provision is construed in various ways in different counties. Some contend that a teacher may receive a third grade certificate in any county in the state, while still others hold that having once received a certificate of that grade neither in the county of issue nor in any other in the state can the applicant receive a third grade certificate. The difference in construction of the law necessarily tends to raise the grade of teachers in those counties holding to a strict construction, while in those counties where third grade certificates may always be obtained, there is a tendency to establish an itinerant profession which, having but little personal pride in elevating the work and the schools, helps to lower the standard of both.

BEFORE another issue of the ENTERPRISE there will have been held in several of the Eastern states elections of considerable importance some of which, notably those of Massachusetts, New York, Ohio and Iowa, are being watched with keen interest as it is generally thought that they will indicate or furnish an expression of the several sections of the Union relative to the economic questions which have received such a large share of public attention during the past few months, and it is expected that the result may influence in no small degree the legislation at the coming session of congress. In most of the states the issues, have been well defined and the election will be decided on national issues, though some attempt has been made to incorporate local questions to the exclusion of others. It is difficult to foretell the result of an election and this is especially true when the stage of observation is so far removed as is Oregon from the field of contest.

THE closing of the world's fair marks an era in American history which will have its influence for years to come. Among the things which it has demonstrated are the indomitable will and push of the American people who made the fair a greater success and the aggregation of exhibits more wonderful and attractive than that of any previous exhibition. Too magnificent, grand and comprehensive for any person to grasp all of its wonders it was calculated to leave an impression on the mind of each visitor which can never be effaced and which in the years to come will bear fruit in ten thousand ways not now dreamed of. It was a wonderful exhibition, skillfully planned and executed with diligent attention to every detail, the aggregate of which made the entire affair the greatest success of the age. Great is Chicago and the American people.

STATEMENTS differ as to the number of men out of employment in the United States as compared with the same period one short year ago. The American Economist has prepared a careful synopsis of the reports of 600 correspondents in forty-one states and finds that 61 per cent of all the manufacturing wage earners are idle. The shrinkage in wages is placed at $30,000,000 per week. Taking reductions in wages into the account, the wage fund of the country has shrunk 95 per cent as compared with a year ago. These are startling figures, but there is no doubt as to their reliability. This gigantic loss is due to fears of democratic interference with the tariff. The working men who voted the democratic ticket last fall did so in the expectation of securing better times, but instead of bread they get a stone.

WHEN the republican party was in power cities and towns were hard at work in efforts to induce factories to locate with them. Now that a democratic administration is at the helm all their energies are directed to keeping the people from starving who have been at work in the factories they already have. Bounties are raised to run soup houses instead of to build new plants. Free trade and free soup go together.

MR. GREENHALGE, who is making a canvass of Massachusetts as the republican candidate for governor, recently remarked that "a foreign born citizen with native principles is better than a native born citizen with foreign principles." This well-tuned phrase has thrown some of the mug-wump editors of the East into hysterics.

ACCORDING to the Illinois State Journal, one million people are on the verge of starvation in free trade England. In the United States 1,500,000 are out of work as the result of the fear of free trade. It will be seen that it is a good policy to steer clear of.

AN exchange rises to remark that under a democratic administration men no longer earn their bread in the sweat of their brows. They go without the bread.

MR. NORMAN LUCY, Des Moines, Iowa.
DEAR SIR:—Will you please be kind enough to let me know who is your agent in Baltimore, for the sale of Krause's Headache Capsules? I have tried at a number of drug stores but have always failed. I have had several boxes of them sent me from Washington, and found them to be the very best remedy I have ever had for my severe headaches.
Very truly yours,

MINK MUTTERINGS.

Lutherans Expect to Erect a Church—An Interesting Lyceum Meeting.

MINK, Oct. 31.—Rev. Gray, a German Lutheran minister, who recently came from Ohio, preached to a large congregation last Sunday at the Mink school house. It is the intention of the Lutheran congregation to erect a church as soon as possible, although at present it is not known where it will be located.

Miss Flora Moehne spent a few days in Oregon City last week with her sister Marie, and also visited her parents at Tualatin, and her brother Willie whom she found very ill.

Mrs. Cooper of Portland spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wolf. Her sister Lizzie accompanied her back.

Mr. Staben lost a valuable horse last week, it being sick only a few hours.

Fritz Blum and Moehne Brothers sold their hops last week to the Gambrinus brewery.

FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

MINK, Oct. 30.—Farmers are busy digging potatoes and sowing their fall grain while the sun shines.

August Blum paid a visit to the metropolis last Saturday and took in the fair. He says everything except the cannibal looked "fair" while he was there.

Robbie Ginder is plowing for Peter Behlander.

Martin & Sons have finished sawing timber in this part of the country.

The Mink literary and debating society met last Saturday evening. The literary program, consisting of readings and recitations, was listened to and applauded by the audience, followed by a discussion of the question, Resolved, That it is wrong for a government to deprive a willful murderer of life. The question was decided in favor of the affirmative.

Curus Happenings.

CANBY, Oct. 31.—Every body is scurrying around to get ready for the long rainy Oregon winter, which mayhap is past.

Not many changes are taking place in this vicinity.

Greybill has moved with his family to Canby, and some new parties are moving in on the Roberts place.

Parties are quite the order of the day. A very pleasant one was recently held at the home of Miss Annie Jones.

Last Friday evening a goodly number of young people were entertained by Mrs. M. E. London. Social games filled up the time until refreshments were served.

Another party is spoken of for tomorrow night. Details later.

W. W. May and family drove off early last week and nothing has been seen of them since. We hear, however, that they are visiting friends in Forest Grove.

A pleasant surprise of an unique character was given Prof. Evans last week. After the closing up of the merry making at Mrs. London's, the boys, minus girls in their care, repaired to the professor's and sawed off twenty-two cuts of timber and split it into stove wood, the big bright moon shedding her light on the glorious joke. As a sequel, the next day a well disposed young lad went with his horses and wagon and hauled the wood to the house. CALLA.

Stafford.

STAFFORD, Oct. 30.—The past week has been reasonably pleasant. Plows, harrows, seeders, etc., have been at work in every direction.

Some potatoes have been dug and the yield is as good as ever.

The families of Daniel Frey and John Weisz moved from our midst last week. They have gone to near Jefferson, Marion county, to live on their farms which they recently purchased.

Be, the 18 months old daughter of Mrs. A. H. Gage, fell against the hot stove while rocking near by, and burned her arms and face to a blister.

The mail carrier's horse gave him the slip while he was closing a gate Thursday last and went racing down the lane, scattering mail sack, umbrella and cushion as it went. It ran about half a mile, knocking open one gate and coming up standing against the next. Horse and cart were not much damaged—only scratched up a little.

The Duplex literary society met Saturday evening and had a rousing good time. Thirty-eight persons were present, and all took hold with a vim. W. E. JEN.

Maple Lane.

MAPLE LAKE, Nov. 2.—Last Thursday evening a special school meeting was held in our district to elect a director to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of A. Mautz, chairman of the board. It resulted in the election of W. F. Brayton, Mrs. Martin, who had taught the school five weeks resigned on account of sickness and W. H. Walker, of Oregon City, commenced teaching Monday.

A. Strack has a porch in front of his new house and his house lathed and plastered. Frank Kellogg did all the work on the house. And by the way Frand has made quite an addition to his house by building a kitchen and bed room.

Mrs. A. E. Latourette has a new granary. So you see improvements are made if times are hard.

Potatoes are nearly all dug and are a very poor crop.

The Misses Kate and Mattie Mautz and Flora Richards are home from their visit in Portland. O. I. SEN.

FUT TO FLIGHT

—all the peculiar troubles that beset a woman. The only guaranteed remedy for them is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For women suffering from any chronic "female complaint" or weakness; for women who are run-down and overworked; for women expecting to become mothers, and for mothers who are nursing and exhausted; at the change from girlhood to womanhood; and later, at the critical "change of life" — it is a medicine that safely and certainly builds up, strengthens, regulates, and cures. If it doesn't, if it even fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

What you are sure of, if you use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, is either a perfect and permanent cure for your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case may be, or $500 in cash. The proprietors of the medicine promise to pay you the money, if they can't cure you.
