

ABOUT GEESSE.

Profit in Goose Raising if It is Rightly Managed.

Mr. William Rankin, writing in The American Agriculturist, says: There are only three varieties of geese which need be considered—the African, Toulouse and Embden, or Bremen. The two varieties of China, Brown and White, although hardly, are not large enough and do not make pounds enough of flesh for the early market. The writer has been quite successful with two crosses, those made by mating an African gander and Embden geese and then crossing the young geese with a pure African gander. The most perfect geese are the pure bred African, as they mature earlier and will lay more eggs while young, and they are very vigorous and hardy. It is usual to raise all of them that are hatched.

The Toulouse, though a large breed of geese, are not quite as hardy. They are fully as good layers as the African, but will not take on flesh quite as fast when fattening for the early market.

The Embden, sometimes called the Bremen, although not quite as large as either of the other two varieties, have the advantage of being pure white, with a yellow bill. When picked, their flesh is very white and will sell readily, yet they are not as good layers as the others mentioned, seldom laying more than 12 or 15 eggs to a clutch. The African or Toulouse will lay from 15 to 25. Every gosling may be regarded as worth $1 as soon as it is two days old. In the cross mentioned above an improvement is gained in the number of eggs, a marked improvement in the color of the flesh, and the green goose for early market, if well fattened, will sell very readily.

Keep the geese laying as long as she will, then she will line her nest and want to sit. Break her up, and in about a week she will lay again. After she finishes that clutch allow her to sit and hatch. Then let her and the gander run with the young, for both will guard them with care and the geese grow strong again.

The profit of this business is largely dependent on the price of grain, etc. Each goose should average 20 goslings per year. Allowing that the goslings average 10 pounds, the produce from each goose would be 200 pounds, and I have sold at an average price of 30 cents per pound for several years in the Boston market, which would give $60 per goose. There is a great difference in geese, and I only save the best layers.

Overheated Horses. We have said that horses should have frequent drinks of cold water when working hard in the hayfields. It has also been advised in these columns that the polls of the horses should be shaded and kept wet by means of sponges, says The Farmers' Review. These precautions would do much to prevent overheating, but it may be well to give some advice as to what should be done should a horse "give out" during the busy season. The symptoms of this trouble are probably well known to most of our readers. The sweat suddenly dries, the horse stops or staggers, and if forced to continue working commences to pant and blow, with every other evidence of distress plainly noticeable. The flanks rise and fall as seen in a horse with fever, and unless something is done speedily the poor animal will go down and in many cases die. The horse should be unharnessed whenever there is the slightest symptom of overheating. Take him to a cool, shady place where the air is felt and at once give him a stimulant, such as alcohol 3 ounces or whisky 6 ounces, nitrous ether 3 ounces, water a pint, at one dose. At the same time he should be sponged all over with cold water and have cold water dashed on his head continuously. If very bad, it will be well to rig up a barrel on a high shelf, then put a faucet in it, to which attach a piece of hose pipe. Tie the latter to the bridle, then fill the barrel with water, turn the faucet and allow the water to run in a steady stream upon the horse's head. The water should be kept running for hours until the animal has regained strength, which in some cases is not for a day or more. Where there is a supply of ice at hand this will be found of great service. Break it up fine, place it in a sack and keep this ice poultice on the back of the horse's head until he is well. For a few days afterward give a dram of niter in each gallon of drinking water.

Maud S will be trained with the pneumatic bicycle sulky through the summer and until fall. Then she will be put to the test to find whether she cannot break the 234 record of Nancy Hanks.

Where Frank R. Stockton Lives. Follow the Morristown road, past one country seat after another, for a quarter of a mile, and you come to Kitchell avenue. You are in Morristown now, but in reality nearer Madison. Turn to the left, and the first place you come to is surrounded by a low stone wall. Through iron gates a gravelled roadway leisurely turns, and passing beneath huge evergreens reaches a yellow and white frame house, with a veranda in front and a tower at the farther end. Opposite the doorway, beneath the great trees, is a rustic seat and a rustic table.

Between two of the trees is swung a hammock, and in pleasant weather Frank R. Stockton lies in the hammock dictating his fanciful tales to his wife, who sits on the rustic settee. It is an ideal home for an author, situated upon an eminence commanding miles of country, removed from the main road and surrounded by a grove.—Newark Advertiser.

A New Crater in the Moon. In a bulletin of the Astronomical society of the Pacific Professor Weinek, director of the observatory of Prague, who is a specialist in the study of the moon and to whom have been sent copies of the Lick negatives of the moon, has discovered in one of the Lick photographs a crater which is not to be found on Schmidt's map. This object, which is estimated to be about a quarter of a mile in diameter, is of sufficient size to have been seen by Schmidt, and it is difficult to imagine that the distinguished selenographer overlooked it.

To Trade.—Two yoke of good work oxen for oats or hay. Apply to Gladstone saw mill office.

Wedding stationery, the latest styles and finest assortment ever brought to Oregon City at the ENTERPRISE office.

Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego, Cal., says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good." Price 50 cts. Sold by C. G. Huntley.

MRS. ELMIRA HATCH.

HEART DISEASE 20 YEARS.

Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind. IAN RUS: For 20 years I was troubled with heart disease. Would frequently have falling spells and smothering at night. Had to get out of bed to breathe. Had pain in my left side and back most of the time; at last I became dropsical. I was very nervous and nearly worn out. The least excitement would cause me to faint. I was also much troubled with fluttering. For the last fifteen years I could not sleep on my left side or back without taking your New Heart Cure. I had not taken it very long until I felt much better and I can now sleep on either side or back without the least discomfort. I have no pain, smothering, dropsy, no wind on stomach or other disagreeable symptoms. I am able to do all my own household work without any trouble and consider myself cured.

It is now four years since I have taken any medicine. Am in better health than I have been in 40 years. I honestly believe that Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure saved my life and made me a well woman. I am now 70 years of age, and am able to do a good day's work. May 29th, 1892. MRS. ELMIRA HATCH. SOLD ON A POSITIVE GUARANTEE.
