

To Meet the Times.

The subscription price for the ENTERPRISE has been reduced to $1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months. Cash in advance. Subscribers paying at the end of the year will not be entitled to this reduction. The low price is made to get the list on a cash basis and induce all subscribers to pay up, and especially to prevent dead beats from taking the paper and not paying for it by reason of their being law proof. Reduced price will only commence with date of renewal. This makes the ENTERPRISE the cheapest paper in Clackamas county—eight pages all home print and full of live local news.

OUR LAW MAKERS.

Foreign Immigration Restricted—A Senator Reprimanded—The Tariff.

Oregon City's solons met in regular session last Friday evening in the A. O. U. W. hall. Owing to the weather being inclement and the sidewalks icy the attendance was not large, but the members made up in enthusiasm what they lacked in numbers. Owing to a misunderstanding the invited visitors were conspicuous by their absence.

President Miller called the meeting to order after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Chief Clerk Story.

Senate-resolution No. 2 was reported upon favorably by committee on coinage. Laid on the table for future action.

Senate Bill No. 5 was reported back without recommendation by the committee on coinage.

Bill introduced by Senator Thorn of Alabama providing for the repeal of the civil service law. Read first time and by title second time and referred to committee on judiciary.

Bill introduced by Senator Story of Idaho providing for deporting and excluding Chinese laborers from the United States. Read first time and by title second time and referred to committee on foreign relations.

Senate Bill No. 9, providing for greater restrictions on foreign immigration and of the elective franchise, which was referred to the committee on foreign relations, was reported back with the recommendation that it do not pass. This bill having been made a special order of business was taken up for final disposition. Its provisions were that no person could enter the United States who had been guilty of any crime or had been the inmate of any poor house, asylum or public institution, or was physically unable to earn a livelihood. Those that were admitted were not to have the elective franchise until after a residence of twenty years and to be able to read and write the English language with ease. By the request of the senator who introduced the bill Senator Strange led the discussion in a forcible speech, in which he advocated the passage of the bill. There had been a great change in the character of the immigrants in the last ten years. Now anarchists, criminals, paupers etc., constituted the bulk of the immigration and it was high time that America should cease to be the dumping ground for Europe and Asia.

Senator Hyde next followed in a telling speech in which he favored the bill with the exception of that section requiring a twenty-years residence to enable a foreigner to vote, which he would lower to five years.

Senator Powell favored the bill and would extend the educational qualifications to all voters, native and foreign.

Senator Ferrin grew very eloquent in depicting how the average immigrant looked who were landed from the steerage of the Atlantic lines in New York and Boston favored even greater restrictions.

Senator Hankins opposed the bill on the ground that it was too liberal in its provisions. Would exclude in addition to the criminal and pauper classes all laborers, for to their coming he attributed in a great measure the distress the laboring classes were now suffering under.

Senator Thorn opposed the bill for the same reasons that Senator Hankins gave. Thought though there was some good coming out of the present system as it enabled us to Christianize many people from the inferior nations who came here, which was cheaper than sending out foreign missionaries, a practice he did not believe in.

Senator Dye favored the bill. Scouted Senator Thorn's plan of missionary work. Thought that more effective work could be done by sending missionaries to the foreigners in their own country. In fact that was the only way that had proved successful. Had not the early Christians sent missionaries to Britain the honorable member (Thorn) would, instead of being a member of this august body, be now going through the incantations of the Druidical worship in some British forest.

Senator Meserve was in favor of the principles set forth in the bill but did not favor all the provisions of the measure. Held that a five years residence with the educational qualification was sufficient. Favored a more rigorous examination of intending immigrants. Would have them go before our nearest consul and prove from the records of their country that no criminal charge had ever been made against them; that they had not been the inmate of any eleemosynary institution and show that they were physically and mentally sound and able to read and write their own language with ease.

Senator Hoffman held that the bill was not strict enough in some particulars. Would only allow those to come here who intended to become citizens. Cheap passage in the steerage of the Atlantic steam-ships now enables hundreds of Italians and other nationalities to come to New York and other cities and work during the summer and return home in the fall with their wages, thus carrying an enormous sum of money out of the country each year.

By request of the senate President Miller was called to the floor to give his views of the question. In response President Miller said he favored a more rigid restriction on foreign immigration. Now that all European nations are making a systematic effort to get rid of their criminal and non-productive population, it is high time that America should be closed as their dumping ground. The public land was being taken up so fast that within ten years there would not be an acre left for either American or foreigner and then what will the landless do? Already the labor market is being over-crowded and with no cheap land to draw off the surplus, the laborers of ten years hence will be forced to submit to any exactions that may be put upon them with no chance of escape. On a vote being taken the bill was passed without any alteration.

A special committee on finance was appointed consisting of Senators Strange and Meserve.

A motion was introduced and unanimously carried directing the president to reprimand Senator Powell for dereliction in duty in failing to invite the Oregon City Chautauqua circle to attend this session of the senate, the senator having been appointed to personally give such invitation. President Miller briefly and forcibly called the senator's attention to the great breach of senatorial etiquette that he had been guilty of. That it was cognizant to this honorable body that he had used every means to get himself appointed as such committee, to the great disappointment and chargin of the other young members, who fondly hoped that this delicate and responsible mission of inviting and escorting the young ladies of the Chautauqua circle to this session, would have been given to the handsomest and most attractive member of the contingent, and it was a slight that they could ill endure. He was further admonished that a failure to have the Chautauquans present at our next session would be sufficient grounds for expulsion. The senator was profuse in his apologies and promised to carry out his mission or die in the attempt.

By a vote the members were given permission to invite such friends as they choose to the next session.

Senate Bill No. 7, introduced by Senator Thorn providing for absolute free trade and raising of all revenues by direct taxation was made a special order of business for the next session at 8 o'clock P. M. Senate adjourned to meet at 7:30 Friday evening January 12th in the A. O. U. W. hall.

The ENTERPRISE is requested to announce that Senator Powell has fulfilled his mission and that the Chautauquans will be present at the next session in a body chaperoned by the senator. It is expected that the members and visitors will be present promptly at the hour of opening, as there is considerable parliamentary work to be carried out before the regular debate begins.

Physical Culture Class

Mrs. Helen Stafford, the lecturer on and teacher of curative physical culture, at the urgent request of her pupils, has consented to remain another week so another class will be formed. These exercises furnish relief for every part of the body from the crown of the head to the sole of the foot, in fact a headache or backache is unknown in Mrs. Stafford's class after the third day, and she has a never failing "cure" for all female weakness, being an exercise applied to the muscles which control that part of the body. Mrs. Stafford says, "did men know what this would do for women she would not have time to eat or sleep." Try then and take a new hold on life.

Mrs. Stafford has never had one dissatisfied pupil during the four years she has been teaching these exercises. Mrs. Stafford's class meets promptly at 2:30 P. M. in room 24, Electric hotel. Satisfaction guaranteed. If

A contract was closed on Tuesday by the Portland General Electric company with Haviland & Russell for upwards of 20,000 cords of wood which is to be cut on the company's land near the mouth of the Tualatin and delivered at the end of the electric line within the next two years. The electric company will haul it to this end of the line on their cars and deliver it in the yard of the paper mills to fill a contract which they have with the mills to supply them with all the wood required for two years. The contract is said to contain a provision under which the contractors are to give the preference to married men or men supporting families residing in the neighborhood of Oregon City, with the express stipulation that no employment shall be given to any man who is not a citizen of the United States and of reputable character.

A number of business men of the city are complaining bitterly at what they deem the swindling methods of the restaurant keepers near the corner of Main and Sixth streets. Bills have been run with A. W. Schwan, Bellomy & Busch, John Duffy and others in amounts ranging from $10 to $40. They say further that when they go to collect, that one day some one of the crowd will have the goods mortgaged and the next some other one will hold a bill of sale so that no bills can be collected.

The home talent entertainment to be given by the Aldredge Brothers at Ely in the near future promises to be attractive and interesting. The boys have devoted much time and care to the preparation of the program. See bills for date and particulars.

Public School Chart Class.

Notice is hereby given that there will be chart classes organized in both school buildings in this city on the 22d of January. Pupils desiring to enter should do so on that date, or at the latest during the week. By order of the BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

"We hear that the popular Western Union telegraph operator, Mr. T. N. Cowing, of Oregon City, was married Christmas day. He is well and favorably known in this section, and his friends wish him much happiness." The foregoing from a Roseburg paper was shown to our Tom, to whom it refers, and proved news to him. The only explanation he could offer as probable was that he had been married by telegraph to either Miss Belle Willis or Miss Kate Boick, the jolly operators at Roseburg, and authors of the above item, without his knowledge or consent, and that he had not discovered his dilemma till we called his attention to the clipping. Tom's all right.

Rev. Gilman Parker states that at a business meeting of the Baptist Church held the first of the week the advisability of building a new church edifice the coming season was discussed and a committee consisting of D. At the last meeting of the Chautauqua circle in this city Mrs. C. H. Dye was elected president, Mrs. A. B. Graham, vice president and Miss Mary Conyers, secretary. The circle is arranging to give an interesting stereopticon entertainment at an early date for the benefit of the free reading room at which attractive views from "Ben Hur" will be shown. Mrs. Dye was, at the request of the senate, elected a member of that body to represent Colorado, and Mrs. Brownell a member from Wyoming. The circle will attend the next meeting of the senate in a body.

A. Newell, of Damascus, was in the city on Wednesday and called at this office. He reports the roads the worst ever known and attributes their condition largely due to the fact that last winter was a long wet one and that the summer was so short that the ground did not have an opportunity to thoroughly dry out before the winter rains set in again.

Friend of Woman.

The very remarkable and certain relief given womankind by "Moore's Revealed Remedy" has won for it the name of Woman's Friend—it is uniformly successful in relieving their delicate ailments.

SEATTLE, JAN. 30, 1891. "I want you to publish my testimonial for MOORE'S REVEALED REMEDY, for it has been a grand thing for me, for it has cured me of headaches, from which I have suffered whenever I became chilled, for the last fifteen years; I have suffered perfect torture for twenty-four hours at a time, sometimes retching for three hours without any rest and unable to get help from any of the numberless remedies tried. Now I am free from this suffering, for at the first symptom of one of these attacks I take a good dose of "Moore's Revealed," and that is the end of it. It has also cured me of constipation. My husband says it has saved his life, and he would not be without it. We are both so happy over it we cannot say enough in its favor, and advise all our friends to use it." MRS. JAMES GLEASON. Cor. 12th and Jackson Sts., Seattle, Wash. For sale by all druggists.
