To Meet the Times.

The subscription price for the Enterprise has been reduced to $1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months. Cash in advance. Subscribers paying at the end of the year will not be entitled to this reduction. The low price is made to get the list on a cash basis and induce all subscribers to pay up, and especially to prevent dead beats from taking the paper and not paying for it by reason of their being law proof.

This makes the Enterprise the cheapest paper in Clackamas county—eight pages all home print and full of live local news.

A couple of weeks since the Enterprise spoke of the attempts of the Palace restaurant to defraud its creditors. On Wednesday the sheriff tacked a little notice upon the front door advising the public that he had taken charge of the place and that he would on the third of February sell everything to the highest bidder.

The paper mills have been obliged to remain closed down several days this week on account of the high water which began rising again on Monday contrary to all expectations as the weather had turned colder the night before. From the way that the lower river held up the Columbia must have been on a rampage.

When the recent high water receded it was found that the approaches to the small bridges at the corner of John Adams and Fourteenth streets had washed out leaving them impassable. The bridges themselves were afloat during the high water but settled back again. The bridges were fixed up temporarily so as not to interfere with travel.

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING.

Three City Ordinances Passed—Stock on the Streets—Railway License.

Last Friday evening there was a special meeting of the city council for the purpose of considering the several ordinances which had been ordered printed at a previous meeting. The members and officers were all present except Mayor Straight who was not able to be in attendance. In his absence Councilman Kelly, president of the council, presided. Only one question came up during the evening upon which there was any difference of opinion to speak of, and that was the ordinance fixing the pay of the chief of police at $5 per month. Councilman Cooke spoke against this measure and grew a little warm in advocacy of the $70 per month plan, and it looked for a few minutes as though there might be a war of words, but the councilmen were in a hurry to adjourn so brought the issue to a speedy vote with the result that it was carried by a vote of six to two, Councilmen Cooke and Howell voting no and the rest aye. The council then passed the ordinance making the levy five mills to the dollar and fixing the salary of the recorder at $25 per month together with such fees as he may derive from trials in his office.

Without putting the question to a vote it was evident after listening to the opinion of City Attorney E. F. Driggs upon the rights of the city in the matter of stock running at large that it was the sense of the council that all ordinances relating to the confinement of stock should be enforced, and the city attorney was directed to furnish the chief of police with a copy of the ordinances bearing upon the subject. This question was brought out by the statement that stock was being permitted to run at large on the streets and that some such stock was evidently animals which had been turned out to die.

The city attorney was directed to proceed against the East Side Railway company in the matter of collecting the license required by the ordinance recently passed. The council then adjourned to meet at the time of the first regular meeting in January if not sooner called into session.
