NELLO JOHNSON'S AMERICON. - Saturday Evening's Telegram has this account of Nello Johnson's present occupation. He is now stationed at an altitude of 10,000 feet above sea level, on the Mexican border, with a detachment of the Stanford university scientific expedition. This expedition is divided in parties of three or four men, with headquarters in the field. In the locality where young Johnson is located the renegade, the Apache Kid," recently stole a white boy, and, stripping him stark naked, marched him across a burning sand desert, Johnson and his friends are now looking for the Apache outlaw, hoping to cover themselves with glory by exterminating him. It is a hazardous undertaking, and the adventuresome young men will be in big luck if the "Kid" dosen't kidnap $10,270,535. F. E. Donaldson, Agent,

LOVE'S REMINDERS.

Shy bluebird on you maple spray, My coming causes you entrrise. You cry sloud and fly away On wings that glitter as they rise: Bo blue are they, so skyey clear, Unequaled blies their beaming brings; For now I think of one most dear, Whose eyes are bright as bluebird's wings.

From covert groves glides forth a trill

From cover; goves gines forth a trill Of wild birds singing listily, Yet while I list my thoughts will still Seek her who is most dear to me. For, oh, her soft and southing voice Sounds merrier than the leaping throng Of waters when spring rills rejoice— Its music mates the linnet's song.

Upon a bourgeoned white birch broad A squirrel gambols spry and fleet, Until, by my rude spaniel awed, She higher mounts on heaty feet;
And as she bounds without a fall
From lower limbs to limbs above
Her agife motions well recall
The flake-light footfalls of my love.

Advice From a King.

Kabarega, the negro king of Unyoro, in Central Africa, is a man who rules his subjects with a rod of iron. Like all tyrants, he regulates their smallest actions, and a host of spies inform him of any disobedience to his commands.

Among other things, he has made a fixed tariff of prices for everything bought or sold in his country, and every Church deviation from it is severely punished.

Judges and time-keepers—T. F. Byan, An instance of this is given by Vita Hassan in his book about Emin Pasha and the Equatorial Province.

Reception—Chief Engineer O'Connell, in Unyoro he bought a fowl and paid 30 About a month after Hassan's arrival appeared and brought back 5 cowries. with the message:

"A fowl costs only 25 cowries, while Mrs P. B. Keyes of San Francisco will you have given 30. The seller has done wrong, and the king will punish him. but he sends to you the advice to be careful henceforth in your purchases-never to give for anything more than it is the market."-Youth's Companion.

An Interesting Predicament.

A man who lives in a flat near Central park recently had a peculiar experience. A couple of deaf mutes rented an apartment underneath his own and were blessed in due season by the arrival of a bouncing baby with an excellent pair of lungs. At night the little one woke up nearly the entire house by its cries, but through all of it the parents slept until the tenant above, at the solicitation of on a fresh attack of Indigestion and his wife, went down stairs and fairly couple resort to many ingenious devices to overcome the disadvantages under which they labor. They are unable to hear their doorbell, so they have arranged a piece of colored paper upon the gong in such a way that the paper flutters when the bell rings. By keeping a watchful eye on the bell they are able to receive their visitors promptly, but their inventive genius has not as yet devised a scheme to indicate the baby's distress at night .- New York Mail and

New York Women Officials.

Eighty-five women were nominated for school commissioner in the late canvass in New York and four were elected. The Republicans nominated eight, the Democrats 30, the Prohibitionists 42, the People's Party 42 and the Political Equality party 1. The list of women commissioners is increased by one over last year.

The French have long been famous for their riddles, but it was an English family who lived in such an atmosphere of puzzledom that on the husband inquiring in excited accents of his wife, "Why is that door always left open?" she took on a reflective air, and after a moment's musing answered, "I give it up."

A young man advertised for a wife, and his sister answered the advertisement; vertisements, and the old peois pretty hard to have two family.

It was an old bachelor who said that he never read the women's corner in his paper, although he was something of a omen scorner himself.
