WILLAMETTE VALLEY CHAUTAUQUA ASSEMBLY.

The three days' Session Proves Interesting and Attractive—The Exercises.

An important educational meeting projected a few weeks since and arranged for in the interim was started in the beautiful grove at Gladstone Park near this city on Tuesday morning. At 10 o'clock President Gilman Parker called the Assembly to order and after invocation and music introduced Dr. J. S. Smith, of Ashland, superintendent of the Pacific Coast Chautauquas, who spoke at length of the educational features and advantages of a course of study and lectures as directed by the Chautauqua Assemblies and circles which walk hand in hand.

Chautauqua is a great university whose students are scattered in homes, on farms, in shops and factories, in towns and mining camps, in cars and ships, wherever a human soul carries the love of learning. Then once a year they flock to the great assembly to study under competent professors, to round up the year's work, to receive diplomas, to form new classes, and to go back to life's duties refreshed and inspired.

The Chautauqua course of study embraces four years of reviews of the history and literature of Greece, Rome, England and America. Books of science are issued every year of the latest and best researches, art and philosophy are treated by the most popular authors, and study is divested of the dry details that sometimes render school life irksome.

The time and money required may be summed up as an hour a day, seven dollars a year for books, including the Chautauquan and an enrollment fee of fifty cents a year. That these books are the latest and freshest may be shown by the fact that college graduates find them full of facts they never heard of. They are up with the times and latest discoveries.

The address of Professor W. G. Hawley president of the Willamette University upon the "Possibilities of Youth," was a bright and able presentation of an interesting subject. Professor Hawley charmed his audience and afforded much food for thought in the practical presentation of his subject. The day had been advertised as children's day and most of the speakers either addressed their words to the younger portion of the audience or spoke of methods of instruction in which the older ones were interested.

The "Little Citizen" was the topic selected by Rev. G. E. Hawes of Portland for a live talk. It was highly commended by all who heard it as was also the talk of Noel H. Jacks secretary of the state Y. M. C. A. Altogether it was a day full of good and thoughtful addresses interspersed with music and social visits during the intermissions.

It was deemed appropriate that the Assembly should notify the parent society at Chautauqua, New York of its existence and the following telegram was sent.

Oregon City, Ore., July 24, 1894. "Your youngest child, the Willamette Valley Chautauqua Assembly, born today, sends greeting."—Phil. 3:13-14. As anticipated, the grand chorus of the hundred voices organized and drilled by A. S. Dresser, proved a most attractive feature and added in no small degree to the pleasure, not only of the first days sessions but of those of the following days. The effect as the chorus swelled forth filling the woods with music grand was most impressive and thrilling. Mr. Dresser is entitled to much credit for the painstaking care which he devoted to that part of the program.

In spite of the showers Wednesday morning, which continued at intervals during the day, the crowd began to gather at the Chautauqua grounds and by the opening hour there was a good attendance. The drum and the fife appealed to the hearts of the old soldiers who were about the grounds in great numbers enjoying both the social visit which the meeting afforded them opportunity for and the stirring patriotic speeches which were a feature of the day.

The morning invocation was offered by Dr. Wallace of Portland after which martial music was played. Dr. Smith, himself an old soldier stepped to the platform and in a felicitous manner introduced Dr. Arthur J. Brown of Portland who delivered his magnificent address upon "Abraham Lincoln and the Civil War." In spite of the interrupting shower which compelled the raising of umbrellas the audience insisted on his proceeding, so interested had they become.

Following the morning address the choir sang the "Star Spangled Banner" after the following telegram was read amid great applause:

PACIFIC GROVE, CAL., July 24, 1894. Willamette Valley Chautauqua: The Pioneer Assembly sends cordial greetings to the youngest in sisterhood of coast assemblies. THOS. FLAEN, Mgr.

The afternoon exercises began with the singing of America after which five minute speeches were made by Hon. M. C. George, Dr. H. K. Hines and Geo. C. Brownell. The subject for the afternoon address was Wendel Phillips which was handled by Dr. Geo. R. Wallace in a masterful manner. As the noted orator whose name and life formed the subject for the address had thrilled his thousands so the tribute to his life and work as told by Dr. Wallace stirred the large audience and for more than two hours they listened to his glowing words with rapt attention.

This was followed by "Marching Through Georgia" in which everybody joined while the air was white with fluttering handkerchiefs. A special feature of the day's program was the Eureka Colored Concert Company which appeared at this hour and electrified the audience with their thrilling melodies. Time and again were they encored amid the wildest applause. On account of the great favor which they were received the management has arranged for them to appear on Thursday evening when an immense throng may be expected to hear them.

The last five minute speech of the day was made by Department Commander Orinaty of the Grand Army and was a glowing tribute to the old commanders as well as to the women of the relief corps of whom about 100 occupied the platform.

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Roland D. Grant, his subject being Patriotism. Much was expected of Dr. Grant, and long before the conclusion of his interesting and stirring address all felt that they had not been disappointed. After its conclusion short speeches were made by Rev. W. H. Dorward and Dr. W. E. Carll, and a patriotic recitation was delivered by Mrs. A. H. Wells.

The concert by the Oregon City band in the evening was much enjoyed and proved an attractive feature. The program for Thursday is substantially as printed in the News with the addition of the jubilee singers in the evening which will prove a drawing card.

The success of the present meetings in spite of the short time allowed for preparations has encouraged the promoters to hope and expect to be able to carry out the original thought which was to make these meetings the start of a permanent Assembly to have its home at Gladstone Park. Plans for this have been talked of but no detailed arrangement has been made. It has been suggested that a stock company be formed with directors representing all the Willamette and lower Columbia valley, who will have charge of all property and arrangements. Land will be donated at Gladstone Park if a suitable organization is perfected and it is hoped that a pavilion may be provided for another year. The following named persons were appointed a committee to consider permanent organization: C. H. Dye, R. A. Miller, Mrs. Hathaway, Geo. H. Himes, Prof. Van Seoy, J. W. Cowan, G. Wm. Giboney, H. E. Cross and Chas. Meserve.

Thursday morning opened bright and pleasant and being Educational Day many not seen on the former days were attracted to the grounds and the attendance was good, especially in the afternoon and evening. The subject for the morning address was the Nicaraguan canal which was handled by Professor Hawley in an able and exhaustive manner. It was observed that what he said was listened to with close attention not only by the teachers and older people present but by the children as well. Other addresses of the day were Dr. Locke's "Give the Girls a Chance" and Mrs. Duniway's "Remove the Cause of Strikes."

Tuesday, the opening day for the Willamette Valley Chautauqua Assembly's first meeting was auspicious, the weather being as pleasant as could have been desired. The beautiful grove two miles below this city which constitutes Gladstone Park had been fully fitted up for the occasion and presented an attractive appearance as the guests entered from the end of the car line. H. C. Stevens was on hand at an early hour in charge of the ticket department which has been well managed throughout. Before the hour of opening it became evident that in the short time that the meetings had been advertised, a goodly degree of interest had been aroused and the attendance on the first day was all that was expected by conservative members of the committee.

Upon the gently rising knoll near the lake, a large grand stand had been erected which was beautifully decorated and draped with flags. Between it and the entrance are the eating and lunch tents and a number of smaller tents of parties who are camping out during the session. Altogether it is an attractive and lively scene which is presented to the visitor at intermissions.
