Richard Bradley, father of Assessor Bradley, and formerly county commissioner for this county, was in this city the first of the week on his way home from Eastern Oregon which he says agreed with him first rate, his health being excellent while there. He returns with a very poor opinion of that part of the state, however.

Fred and Bert Greenman accompanied by Mrs. C. N. Greenman and Mrs. Shepherd returned from their outing at Nearts Monday. It is understood that Bert is much impressed with the scenery at the coast, and says that nothing can equal the dry limbs and salmon brush there abounding. On Saturday it is their intention to go to Wilhoit to try the mineral waters of the spring.

We were shown a beautiful new plum for which Wm. Quinn is entitled to the honor of discovery or origination. It is apparently a seedling akin to the peach plum, but much larger and a better shipper. It is in shape oblong, a rich golden color tinged with scarlet over-spread with a lustrous bloom. When well matured it is as large as the largest varieties of prunes or plums. Mr. Quinn is sending samples to Washington and other places to determine if it has a name. Why not call it Quinn's Seedling?

Just before noon on Thursday while Geo. Hamilton and Geo. Maple were at work on a staging at Mill A for the Willamette Pulp & Paper company the staging broke throwing them to the ground, breaking Hamilton's leg just above the ankle and bruising Maple and cutting him about the face. Hamilton was taken to the office of Drs. Carl and Somers where the fracture was reduced, and was afterwards sent to the Oregon City hospital at Gladstone.

On Monday dirt was broken for the addition to the Baptist church which will transform it into a neat and ornamental modern structure capable of seating about eight hundred people when completed. The plans were prepared by E. F. White who will be supervising architect. The addition will be 24x42 and the building will be fitted up with basement rooms for lectures and other meetings. There will be two entrances and a tower. The present building was erected in 1872.

Sidney Smyth who was out with Will, Henry and Thos. Pomeroy of Oswego, Thos. Marquam of Portland and H. L. Schiller of this place returned on Sunday from an outing at Roaring river where the rest are having a splendid time with lots of grouse, venison and fish which their Chinese cook serves up in the most approved style. Mr. Smyth expects to return shortly to join the party.

Last Sunday the fire which clearers for E. C. Hackett had started up the Clackamas escaped from their control and spread with considerable speed, doing much damage to surrounding timber and destroying fences. J. C. Hackett while out fighting the fire had his face blistered and inhaled considerable soot from the effects of which he still suffers. On Monday the road to Baker's bridge was impassable.

Camp Alderlea is abandoned so far as the owners are concerned, F. R. Charman and family having come in from there on Friday of last week and G. A. Harding and family on Wednesday of this week after having had a very pleasant outing. Camp Alderlea, however it is safe to say is not deserted as it is one of those spots seldom without campers during the summer season.
