The way to build up Oregon City is to give Oregon City people your patronage.

THE SOLITARY JURYMEN

The glaring travesty on law and justice that has in late years been perpetrated by tampering with juries has so aroused public opinion that in some states the laws have changed so that a verdict by a two-third or three-fourth vote of the jury can be rendered. The movement is steadily gaining ground and the time is not distant when in every state less than a unanimous vote will enable a jury to return a verdict. The matter is to be brought before the coming session of our legislature, and Oregon may soon be numbered with the progressive states who are keeping up with the spirit of the times in bringing about needed reforms.

This outcome of the elections to be held next Tuesday in nearly all of the states is watched with more than usual interest, for it will be the beginning of a change in the policy of our government. There is little doubt but that the republicans will carry most of the states and thus have a majority in the next house of representatives. It is conceded that the republicans will make enormous gains in the manufacturing states of the North and West, and are expected to carry some of the congressional districts in West Virginia, Louisiana, and possibly some of the other southern states. The solid south will be broken, though it will be but slightly. In the present house, the democrats have 220, the republicans 125 and the populists 11 members. The republicans must gain about 60 seats to have a bare working majority, and probably 50 of these must come from the North. To have as great a majority as the democrats have now, they must gain about 75 more. To attain this majority will require a vote similar to that given the republicans during the year in Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Oregon, Vermont and Maine. Judging by the spirit manifested during the campaign now on, these land slides of votes will be exceeded rather than equalled in many of the states. There never was a presidential campaign carried on with greater enthusiasm and spirit than the campaign now going on in the various states. The people having ample time to read and to attend political meetings are beginning to look into the questions at issue and to reason for themselves, and as a result reformers and spoliemen, with their tariff reforms and vagaries, will be relegated to the oblivion they enjoyed for the thirty years preceding the late "change."

The movement for good roads is being taken up by many of the counties in this state and Washington. In the latter state Clarke county has begun a systematic plan of road work and the county commissioners at their last session in fixing the tax levy and estimates for the county expenses for next year decided on the sum of $29,500 for road and bridge work. With this amount of money expended each year it will not be many years until Clarke county can boast of a system of roads equal to the best on the Coast. The money will be found to be well invested, for the development of the county will increase its wealth, that a decrease instead of an increase of taxes will take place.

Is the first year of the reciprocity treaties made with France, Germany and Spain the sale of American farm products increased $33,000,000. Of this $4,000,000 came from flour shipped to Cuba and Spain. These treaties have been abrogated, the markets have been closed, and the flour trade with Cuba has been entirely suspended. Is it any wonder that wheat is low?

The stock book for the Chautauque Association has been opened, and the short canvass that has been made among the business men and those interested in this city, has been most flattering to the success of the undertaking. As the Assembly will be held here, and Oregon City receiving the most benefit from its sessions, it is expected that the greater part of the stock will be taken by the people of this city; though, from an educational point, it will be a benefit to the whole Willamette valley, and it is expected to have stockholders in every town of the valley. As soon as the canvass is completed in Oregon City the stock book will be sent to those interested in the association in the other cities of the valley, and the work pushed so that the permanent organization may be effected as soon as possible, and preparations for the assembly of next summer can be made at once. President Miller, and the secretary, Mrs. C. H. Dye, are pushing the work of the association and have met with the best of success so far.

Echnore is selling us more goods than was the case a year ago, but "the improvement on the McKinley act" is not working just right in the matter of exports, which were $30,000,000 in September, against $72,000,000 in September, 1893. If the American manufacturer loses both the home and the foreign markets he will be apt to have a permanent opinion on the subject of a Democratic tariff.

It is stated that 200 women are now acting as station masters in Australia. The railway commission of Victoria have thus effected a saving of over $10,000 per annum. The commissioners say that women perform the duties at the small stations satisfactorily.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

There has been some little talk of late regarding the candidacy of Governor Elect Lord for United States senator. On this subject the Junction City Times has the following to say: Gov. Elect Lord was interviewed in San Francisco in which he took a bold stand in favor of free silver. It seems now that he is a candidate for the United States senate to judge from the tenor of many of our exchanges. Should he be elected to represent Oregon at the national capital, our friend and co-worker Hon. H. R. Kincaid, secretary of state elect, would succeed to the gubernatorial chair. He would make an able governor, but we are of the opinion that he doesn't "bunker" after the place. It is our firm belief, however, that the republicans of Oregon want Lord to fill the office to which he was elected.

The Bandon Recorder is against any change in school books other than to have the state do its own publishing of books: The school book question is receiving extended notice throughout the state, and judging from comment a change of school books is not a desirable thing with the people, neither here or abroad. It is an outrage that the citizens of Oregon must be called upon to make a change of books every six years, when the change must necessarily be wrought through much expense to the patrons of schools. About the only change that would be entertained in the minds of the people at present would be for the state to take hold of the school book question, publish books and furnish them to the people at cost of production.

The Telephone-Register gives a factor more potent than the railroad commission in reducing freight rates for McMinnville: The Southern Pacific of its own accord has decreased the freight rate from this city to Portland to 7 1/2 cents per hundred pounds. The little steamer Toledo has been of more benefit to this community than the railroad commission. One decreased the freight rate the other increased it. Let the commission be abolished, and a maximum freight and passenger rate be passed by the legislature.

The following from the San Francisco Call on the bounty question is so explicit and plain that even a democrat should understand why it is a good investment to the people to give bounties to encourage a diversity of industries in this country: When the average free trade stump speaker reaches the question of a bounty on sugar he bids for applause by declaring that a bounty takes one man's money to build up another man's private business. There is high democratic authority for the assertion that the wheat grower is taxed to provide money to hand over to the sugar grower. While of course it is true that bounties are paid out of public revenue derived from taxation it does not follow that discriminating bounties are a cause of complaint. Nature has so arranged things in the United States that we produce wheat for export and import sugar. This is the result of conditions of soil and climate which enable Americans to produce wheat as cheaply as in other countries, while the same condition of soil and climate disable us in competing with foreign sugar growers. Now these conditions of soil and climate are such that by a small national expenditure for a few years it is believed that sugar growing may be established as a reasonably profitable industry. The friends of the bounty system claim that if this sugar industry can be established in this country it will attract so many wheat growers that very shortly home consumption of wheat would equal home production. We shall then be independent of foreign markets for our wheat, and may protect our wheat producers as we now protect our sugar producers and our industries that under present conditions cannot stand against foreign competition. But the free trader holds out no other prospect to the American farmer than to grow wheat to send to Liverpool in competition with wheat growers in cheap labor countries.

One paper has at last come out in favor of retaining the railroad commission and in doing so has aroused grave suspicion that either the editor himself or some one of his friends is a candidate for that lucrative and labor saving job. This paper is the Hillsboro Independent and has the following to say: There is a great clamor in some quarters for the repeal of the law creating a state railroad commission, but it is not greater than it was a few years ago by the same element demanding its enactment. The law that provides for a commission, no doubt, should be amended. The parties who now demand the repeal of the law would not get what they want. They forget that it is not the provision of a commission to make freight rates, but it may regulate the charges. The present commission has done faithful work in that direction, and but for the shortness of its term of office, something handsome could have been done with the O. R. & N. Co. this year. It is understood from good authority that this company would have made large concessions this year to the farmers of Eastern Oregon only it feared the commission would be abolished and a maximum freight law enacted, taking the special low rating on grain as a basis. If the law provided for a gradual change in the complexion of the commission instead of a violent change every two years, and guaranteed its stability, the reduction to eastern shippers would have been cheerfully made. The great reduction that went into effect on the Southern Pacific Co.'s lines this week is a very pleasant surprise, and Manager Koehler's letter shows conclusively that the commission has not been idle. The states having the best freight rates are Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska and they each have a railroad commission. The next legislature ought to continue the commission, but make it elective and lengthen the term of office of the members to six years, and provide for the retiring of a commissioner every two years. The law amended in this particular will be found to work well. At least such is the experience in other states.

The Welcome, of Portland, is down on the railroad commission and gives aspirants for that soft job the following hard hit: The demand for the abolishment of the state railroad commission is almost universal throughout the state. Not that the men who comprise it are objectionable; they are very pleasant gentlemen; but the rest of the people think that it is a little too much to pay out some $20,000 a year just to furnish four gentlemen a job of doing nothing except riding around the state in palace cars and being wined and dined by the railroad officials. Whether the legislature will accede to this loud and plain demand is doubtful. The numerous candidates for railroad commissioner are more or less useful as the capital as pawns in whatever games the bosses have to play. Each has some friends and some "influence," and thereby many a neat little job can be worked through. Only three can succeed at last, but their election is always postponed till the last of the session, and more than thirty are fighting for the place, and ready to do anything required of them to secure it. In fact the lobbying and log-rolling and dirty little schemes and combinations and conspiracies against the people of the state, that the election of the commissioner affords is worse than throwing away the $20,000 a year.

Damascus Doings.

DAMASCUS, Oct. 30.—Hon. G. E. Hayes was the guest of J. R. Morton last Friday night.

Miss Mary McKenzie, of Tremont, visited the Misses McMurray a week ago Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hevel of Gresham, were visiting friends in our burg one day last week.

W. Foster returned from Dufer last week. He will remain in this vicinity this winter.

Miss Eugenia Morton returned from McMinnville last week where she has been visiting friends and relatives this summer.

Mrs. J. R. Morton is now undergoing treatment at the Oregon City hospital. It is hoped she will speedily recover.

There was a pleasant social gathering at the house of Mr. Hall one evening last week.

Mr. Newell lost a valuable horse one day last week. J. S. Deardorff also had the misfortune of having one crippled.

A spelling school has been held in the school house on Wednesday evening of the last two weeks with a large attendance. At the last meeting a literary and debating society was organized with thirty-one members. More are expected to enter on Wednesday evening at the first meeting. The young people are quite enthusiastic workers in this line, and it is expected some rousing meetings will be held.

Sheriff's Notice of Sale on Execution.

Be Your Own Master.

Few people appreciate how much their impressions, their whims and impulses, and in fact all their mental energy depends on the harmonious action of all the vital organs. A poorly digested dinner may make one quarrel with a friend. A contested liver may bring imaginary gloom and trouble into the sunniest day. A rheumatic pain may keep you from business or work and entirely change some marked out policy. A few doses of Moore's Revealed Remedy will give tone to every function and make you enjoy your friends and your work.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. For sale by C. G. Huntley, druggist.
