TUESDAY'S ELECTIONS.

The elections Tuesday were prolific of great results. Tammany was crushed; a beginning was made in the breaking up of the solid South; a general demoralization was brought to the democratic party, and the country was relieved of the tariff incubus that has hung over it like a pall for the last two years.

This is the most crushing defeat the democrats have ever suffered, and it will take them another thirty years to recover from its effects. The populists, also, came in for their share of public condemnation, and are practically wiped out as a party.

The majorities are unprecedented. The figure of 100,000 will be exceeded in at least three states—New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio. The republicans claim 40,000 in Indiana, a democratic state almost ever since the war; 40,000 in Iowa, 70,000 in Illinois and 30,000 in Wisconsin, both of which were carried by Cleveland in 1892; 45,000 in Massachusetts and others in proportion. Even Chicago, which has been considered a democratic stronghold, is likely to show up 30,000 republican majority. The defeat in New York city of Tammany was even more thorough than at first given out. Wilson's defeat is verified. Owens in Kentucky has hopes. Budd is elected governor of California. The sensation of the day, however, is the fact that the fusionists have carried North Carolina, and will elect two United States senators, and it is probable that Tennessee will elect a republican senator.

This is but the forerunner of '96, when the republicans are sure to get full control of the government. The people have found out that "tariff" and other "reforms" are something to be shunned and propose to have nothing further to do with them. The effect of Tuesday's elections will be to give confidence to the business interests of the country, and confidence is the first step in the restoration from the financial and industrial depression into which the country has fallen.

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS. It is a matter to be proud of that Clackamas county possesses the best system of public schools of any county in the state outside of Multnomah. In no other county in Oregon other than Multnomah has the public schools received the attention from the county court as in this county. Under the present and preceding administrations the office of school superintendent has been treated as of much importance as any of the county offices. A well fitted office room in the court house was provided and supplied with necessary record books, etc., including complete maps showing district boundaries so that there should be no confusion in the school affairs of the county. The superintendent has been paid a good salary and required to devote his entire time to the duties of his office. As a result the standard of the schools of Clackamas county cannot be excelled on the coast.

Good schools is one of the best indications a county can offer in seeking a desirable immigration. The class of people that will do the most for the upbuilding of a section are the ones that are attracted by the efficiency of the schools. In fostering our public schools the county court is both attracting a class of desirable citizens who will become taxpayers and creating educated voters who will always be on the side of law and order in the affairs of the country.

A few days after the battle of Gettysburg American sailors fired several shots which, if not heard round the world, were of immense importance to Japan. The United States ship Wyoming, carrying six guns, found that the element hostile to foreigners had fortified the strait leading from Yokohama and posted three war ships to dispute the Wyoming's departure. About that time Americans were in good form for three or four battles a day, and Captain David McDougal steamed right through the strait, blowing up one of the shore batteries, sinking two of the Japanese ships and disabling the third. It is said that from this fight dates the Japanese determination to turn from ancient to modern civilization and to send their sons to be educated at our naval academy.

Tax bounty for the destruction of wild animals is about to be a thing of the past in a number of counties in this state. Multnomah county has recently abolished the giving bounties and Marion county is about to follow suit. Several other counties are considering the advisability of repealing the bounty. The opponents to the bounty giving claim that it is a useless expense to tax payers and that the sportsmen need no extra incentive to rid the country of wild animals. In fact the sportsmen have waged so relentless a warfare that there is scarcely a bird or animal large enough to shoot at in the woods, and the love of adventure and sport is sufficient incentive to our hunters to keep the wild animals in check.

Eyes in far off Newfoundland the road question has become of such importance as to have a bearing on the politics of that province. In the recent election held good roads was made an issue and the party in power in order to maintain themselves in office against a strong opposition based on other grounds, for some months prior to the election pushed the building of roads throughout the province with such vigor that popular feeling was turned in their favor with a result that their candidates were all elected. The fact is such that the people will do almost anything to get good roads.

PORTLAND, failing to have the regular annual exposition, has decided to have a holiday fair to run during the month of December. The exposition building is being rapidly prepared for the exhibits, and Director Horst expects to have the greatest exposition ever held in Portland. All the best exhibits that were in the mid-winter fair in San Francisco and at the inter-state fair at Tacoma have been secured, besides many new attractions. The exposition is meeting with encouragement from the business men of Portland and every effort is being made to make the fair worthy of the city.

THE movement to purify the bar has begun to bear fruit. Herald Pilkington, one of the most disreputable lawyers of Portland and well known in this city for his worthlessness, has been sent to the penitentiary for two years for embezzlement. With a few more like him sent to the penitentiary and several more disbarred from the profession, the practice of law will become more honorable in Portland and the robbery of clients will be stopped.

SCHOOLS and roads are the two great factors in the development of a country. In both Clackamas county leads and is doing more than any other county in the state. Intending settlers are sure to make a note of it to the advantage of our county.

THERE are now over 250,000 words in the English language acknowledged by the best authorities, or about 70,000 more than in the German, French, Spanish and Italian languages combined.

THE eighteenth biennial session of the Oregon legislature will convene in Salem January 14, 1894.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

The homestead exemption law passed by the last legislature is not the success anticipated. Of its workings the Courier of this city has the following to say: The law allowing a householder $1500 exempt from attachment, produces results not looked for by the kind-hearted legislator whose brain conceived it. The poor and rich are made of the same dirt, there being rascals in either class. Many poor people are taking advantage of the law by running in debt at the grocer's and the butcher's, and then laughing in their face when they present their bill. Ask the retail dealers in this city who have done a credit business, and they will show you large aggregate amounts which they would gladly sell for 50 cents on the dollar. Poor people must live, of course. But if our credit storekeepers had not ceased their liberal crediting of goods for which they must pay cash, they would all be either in bankruptcy or on the verge of it. Rich villains steal banks and railroads, bribe congressmen and buy legislatures, but the poor villains swindle the groceryman. It may be very hard for a rich cent-per-cent to get into heaven, but it is none the less true that poverty doesn't necessarily make a fellow-fond of the Golden Rule.

The Vancouver Columbian makes a good point in discussing the inequalities of the law in regard to innocent purchasers. On this subject it says: A man steals a horse, sells it to an innocent party, who buys it in good faith. The owner comes, takes away his horse and the man who has bought it is a loser to the extent of the purchase price. A knave procures a farmer's signature to a paper purporting to be an agency contract for the sale of some machine. By tearing off a part of it the remainder with the signature becomes a promissory note. Rascal number one sells it to rascal number two and the latter sets to recover. The courts decide that the farmer must pay the "innocent" holder of the fraud tainted paper. Is there anything out of joint in these cases?

The Roseburg Plaindealer has the following to say in speaking of the change in the tone of the democratic reformer: Two years ago 80-cent wheat and 20-cent wool broke the heart of the democratic party in its tender solicitude and commiseration for the farmers of the country. Now, under democratic times, any mention of 28-cent wheat and 6-cent wool is regarded by that party as a most unpatriotic and reprehensible calamity howling.

Gov. Penney's quoting scripture in his thanksgiving proclamation is proving a boomerang to himself. The Albany Democrat is giving the governor a few quotations to ponder over, thus: The governor seems to be hampered with the same short-sightedness that falls to the lot of all those who read the Bible but superficially and by short verses, here one and there one. Had the governor taken the pains to read the remainder of the chapter from which he quotes he might have been led to consider the import of the following: "The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning; But the heart of fools is in the house of mirth." Again the governor's eyes might have beheld the following wise saying: "Say not thou what is the cause that the former days were better than these? For thou dost not imagine wisely concerning this." Or the governor might have "considered" his own political course in the light of the wisdom expressed in the same chapter of the good Book, as follows: "Be not righteous overmuch; neither make thyself overwise. Why shouldst thou destroy thyself? Verily our governor is unfortunate in his public utterances.

The Dalles Chronicle having read up the latest in medical science has undertaken to prescribe for the mental improvement of the members of our next legislature, and gives the following prescription: The latest theory of pathology is that by feeding a fellow on the substance in which he is short or weak, the particular organ can be developed. For instance, a man troubled with a muscularly weak heart should be fed on the heart of an ox, which is said to be the strongest of any animal; the idea being that the stomach will appropriate what goes into it so it will do the most good. If this be true, it is indeed fortunate that the noblest of all animals, the horse, is now dirt cheap, and can be utilized in furnishing brains and good horse sense to the citizens of Oregon. We suggest that Secretary McBride countermand his order for pen-knives and invest the money in cayuses from the bunchgrass ranges of Eastern Oregon.

The Oregonian in speaking of the effects of the recent election has the following truthful observation to make: There will be immense jubilation throughout the country not for a party victory, but because there will be the renewal of the spirit of hope in revival and restoration of the policy necessary for the prosperity of the country. Though this cannot be gained at once, the results of yesterday point the way. There is no part of the country that will not feel the vivifying effects. The policy of the democratic party is not the policy for the welfare of the country. It was a grievous mistake the country made in 1892, and grievously hath it answered it. But it has been trying to correct that mistake at every opportunity since, and yesterday it made a tremendous essay in that direction. As it repudiates the policy of the democratic party and gains hope for the future, the country will emerge from its night of gloom; and from this day, therefore, millions will take heart and renew their courage. It is yet a long time until the democratic party can be entirely expelled; but now it is put in a position where it can do no more mischief, and one more effort will deliver the country from its blighting policy.

The Portland Sun, the new daily of independent politics, speaking of Tuesday's election, which it terms a republican avalanche, has the following to say: The democratic party had their inning two years ago; this year it suffers a crushing defeat. Voters were not satisfied with republican legislation; they are not satisfied with democratic legislation. The voters may not, as a rule, know what is the trouble, even when they think they do; but they have reached the right conclusion in the abstract—that neither party has done what was necessary to secure and protect the people's welfare. Until some party does the one thing that more than all others, will bring about this result, the tide will surge backward and forward, always against the party in power. Just now inevitably, it is the democratic party that encounters the people's wrath. It is in power; it is held responsible. Hill is beaten by an immense plurality in New York. Even New York city, that great stronghold of democracy, goes republican—or rather anti-Tammany. Wilson has probably suffered McKinley's former fate. The republicans have carried every Northern state, and the democratic vote has fallen off in the South. In short, it is a "Waterloo" of great proportions. About the only ground in the North possibly saved from the overwhelming republican triumph is Nebraska, where the democrats and populists combined.

Of the total inefficiency of the railroad commission to perform the duties devolving upon it the Barlow Three Sister has the following to say: The annual appropriation for the pay of the railroad commissioners and the clerk of the legislature is $10,000, the railroads appropriate annual passes, special trains and dining car service. It is a high price considering the quality. The results would indicate that one end of the appropriation is earned, for example, the passenger and freight rates in this state are higher than any other part of the world, considering the service rendered; the condition of the road bed and bridges never receive personal inspection or the timbers in the bridge across the Molalla would not have been allowed to become thoroughly rotten before being renewed.

Sheriff's Notice of Sale on Execution.

In the County Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Clackamas, hearing date the 20th day of October, 1894, in a suit wherein Rufe Tucker, plaintiff, vs. A. L. Blanchard and H. N. Edminston, defendants. State of Oregon, County of Clackamas, ss. Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of an execution and order of sale issued out of the county court of the State of Oregon for the County of Clackamas, bearing date the 20th day of October, 1894, in a suit wherein Rufe Tucker was plaintiff, and A. L. Blanchard and H. N. Edminston were defendants, commanding me, in the name of the State of Oregon, that out of the real estate hereinafter described, to realize a sum sufficient to satisfy the demands of said decree, to wit: $1072, and the further sum of $25.00 as attorney's fees, and the further sum of $105.00 costs, together with interest on the same since said decree was entered at ten per cent per annum, and also the costs of and attending this sale.

Be Your Own Master.

Few people appreciate how much their impressions, their whims and impulses, and in fact all their mental energy depends on the harmonious action of all the vital organs. A poorly digested dinner may make one quarrel with a friend. A contested liver may bring imaginary gloom and trouble into the sunniest day. A rheumatic pain may keep you from business or work and entirely change some of the market values. A few doses of Moore's Kevaled Kennedy will give tone to every function and make you enjoy your friends and your work.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. For sale by C. G. Huntley, druggist.
