

A SOLDIER'S LEGS.

They Are Apt to Run, but the Owners Don't Tell the Experience.

"People will never tire listening to war stories," said a veteran the other day, "but you never hear of any of them telling of their running experiences. It is not because they never run, for all of us have been through that school. No man ever went into battle but that he was glad when it was over. The legs of the bravest get very weak in the presence of shot and shell, and bravery, after all, is only a matter of honor—the man without honor is a coward. The honorable man has nothing to fear, and in battle he would suffer 10,000 deaths rather than have a comrade say he failed to do his whole duty. But as to running—yes, I have run. Tell you about it? Certainly.

"One afternoon while I was in charge of the rear guard on a march in Virginia a number of men dropped out of the ranks for the purpose of hunting 'applejack.' The commanding officer of the guard ordered me to take a detachment, return to the little town through which we had passed a half hour before and arrest the stragglers. I obeyed the command and by fast riding soon had the 'applejack' hunters in charge. On the return, as it was late in the day, we moved at a leisurely pace. A half mile from the town a lane crossed the road on which we were traveling. This lane was over a small rise of ground, so that one could not see very far along its stretch.

"Between where I was riding and the mouth of the lane I noticed a suspicious object moving along toward us. It dodged from one corner to another of the fence, apparently trying to conceal itself. While wondering what the fellow—for by this time I discovered that the object was a colored man—was up to I was near enough to speak. 'Don't stop,' said the man. 'Go as fast as you can. The Federates'll git you. Dey's right ober de hill. Go as fast as you can.' I gave the order, and away we went as fast as horses could carry us. We had just crossed the mouth of the lane when the 'Federates' appeared on the summit of the little hill.

"With the famous 'rebel yell' they came sailing down the lane, shooting at every jump. We put spurs to our horses and presented as small a target as possible by lying low on their necks. It was a hot race, with the chances in favor of the Confederacy. For two miles the 'graybacks' chased us, keeping up a constant and rapid fire; but, thanks to our horses, we escaped without the loss of a man. That was the only time that I ran, but the story will suffice for this time."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Cowboy and the Folding Bed.

A cowboy up from the Texas panhandle was a guest at the house, and as the clerk who attended to him is still in Denver he will allow him to tell the story in his own way: "He had on store clothes and a red necktie, and what he didn't know wasn't worth knowing. When he started up to his room at night, I told him there was a folding bed in it, and if he wished, the bellboy would show him how it worked. But not much. He didn't want to be shown anything. He knew a thing or two about the city, he did, even if he did live down on the range.

"So I let him go, and next morning he paid his bill without a word and went away. About noon I happened to be on that floor, and a chambermaid called me to take a look in his room. And what a sight met my eyes! The bottom drawer of the bureau was pulled out as far as it would come, and in it were all the rugs in the room, with a towel spread over one end for a pillow. Evidently he had tried to sleep there, for pinned upon the glass was a sarcastic legend reading: 'God dern yore folding beds. Why don't you make 'em longer and put more kivers onto 'em! Mebbe you expect a man to stand up and sleep in your darned old cumber!' The 'damned old cumber' was one of our best folding beds."—Denver Field and Farm.

Origin of the Menhaden Industry.

Mr. Robert F. Walsh, in the Popular Science Monthly, thus recalls the origin of the present menhaden industry: "It was in 1860 when an old lady, Mrs. John Bartlett of Bluehill, Me., holding some fish for her chickens, observed a thin seam of oil upon the surface of the water. Some of this she bottled, and when on a visit to Boston soon after carried samples to a leading oil merchant, who encouraged her to bring more. The following year the Bartlett family industriously applied their gill nets and sent to market 13 barrels of oil, for which they were paid at the rate of $14 per barrel. In the following year this family made 100 barrels. Then, the value of menhaden oil having become recognized, many oil presses—of a more or less imperfect construction—were established along the coast, and the industry developed so rapidly that within 20 years the yield of menhaden oil exceeded that of the whale from the American fisheries."

Mocha Coffee.

"Everybody knows that much of the so-called Mocha coffee sold in the United States is no such thing, but only a few persons know how some of the counterfeit Mocha is made. The berries growing on the highest limbs of the coffee tree in Brazil are often shivered in the semblance of the true Mocha, and these are carefully set aside, shipped to some port famous for Mocha coffee and sent thence to the western world as the true thing.

When Oregon City Gets the 'Phone.

"HELLO CENTRAL!" "Give me corner Center and Seventh streets."

"Hello! Is that Marr & Robertson's grocery?"

"Yes, madam, what can we—"

"Have you any granulated sugar manufactured in America?"

"Yes, madam, we have plenty. We never handle the imported (China)."

"I have tried all the grocers in our neighborhood and can't get a pound. Send me twenty five pounds."

"Anything else, madam?"

"Yes, I am tired trading here, the grocer never have anything fit for use, and when they have anything nice, they want two prices for it. Oh, dear, we have a house full of company and it is impossible for me to call and I am going to take my chances, giving my first order by telephone. Afterwards have your solicitor call every second morning."

"Yes, madam, we can serve you just as well through the 'phone as if you were standing at our counters in the store."

"Send me in the morning the following order:

2 lb choice Moyune Tea.

2 lb. best Mocha and Java Coffee.

1 Chocolate Masher.

1 pt. Botle Salad Oil, (Antonini)

1 pt. L. & P. Sauce.

1 Bottle Durkee's Dressing.

1 Bottle Heintz's Keystone Dressing.

1 Bottle Heintz's Olives, 16 oz. size.

1 Keller's Marmalade.

2 lb. Citron.

1 lb. Orange and Lemon Peel.

2 lb. Best Sultana Raisins.

3 lb. Currants.

2 lb. Best London Raisins.

3 Cans Each Champignons and Petits Pois.

1 Box Pullman Wafers.

"That is all I think of at present. My husband told me a month ago to open an account with your house, if satisfactory charge the order and we will settle monthly; if not, send the order collect."

"Hello! I forgot the confectionery department. Add to my order:

2 lb. Chocolate Creams, Assorted.

1 lb. Caramels.

2 lb. French Mixed Candies."

"Anything else, please?"

"No, that is all at present. I will order the nuts, figs, spices, etc., in the morning of your solicitor."

"Please give me your full name and address. Yes, much obliged. The order will have our prompt and careful attention. MARR & ROBERTSON,

Any one who has children will rejoice with L. B. Muford, of Plainfield, N. J.

His little boy, five years of age, was sick with croup. For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by friends and neighbors. He says: "I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and thought I would try it as a last hope and am happy to say that after two doses he slept until morning. I gave it to him next day and a cure was effected. I keep this remedy in the house now and as soon as any of my children show signs of croup I give it to them and that is the last of it." 50 cent bottles for sale by Geo. A. Harding, druggist.

The Toledo Weekly Blade.

Of the now nearly twenty thousand publications in the United States, there are but two or three weekly newspapers published for general circulation in every state and territory, and of these the Toledo Weekly Blade is the best and most popular of them all. It is the oldest, best known and has the largest circulation. For more than twenty-five years it has been a regular visitor to every portion of the Union, and it is well-known at every one of the sixty thousand odd postoffices of the country. It is made especially for family reading. It gives the entire news of the world each week, in such condensed form as will save reading scores of pages of daily papers to get less information. Republican in politics, temperance in principle, always on the side of justice and right, and is just the paper for the rising generation, and a great educator for the whole family. Serial stories, wit and humor, short stories, household department, camp fire, question bureau, farm department, Sunday school and young folks, are a few of the many other prominent features of this great paper. A specimen copy will be mailed free to any address on application, and the publishers invite any person to send in a long list of addresses to whom they will mail sample copies. They would be glad to mail a couple of hundred specimens to readers of this county. The Weekly Blade is a very large paper, and the price is only one dollar a year. Address, The Blade, Toledo, Ohio.

Overland Monthly.

"From a purely artistic point of view the Christmas Overland Monthly is the most attractive number that has been issued under Mr. Wildman's management. The outside cover will be in gold, green and brown, on pure white. The famous old Overland Grizzly seems almost out of place in his modern setting. Mr. Wildman contributes a pathetic little Christmas story in his charming department—"As Talked in the Sanctum." It is in fact, other than the cover, the only distinctly Christmas feature, although a number of other contributions might be so classed.

Mr. Joaquin Miller's great masterpiece, "The Song of the Balboa Sea," grows in interest from month to month. It will be completed in the January number, and Mr. Paul's remarkable narrative of the doings of the "Vigilance Committee of '96" is brought to a close with this number.

Professor Annot's beautifully illustrated article of "Fencing on the Pacific Coast" cannot but be of more than passing interest to all lovers of the manly art of self defense throughout the United States.

Under the caption, "The Decline of the Mission Indians," Messrs Sealand and E. P. Clark throw some light on the much mooted discussion.

As a chronicler of Pacific Coast history the Overland will begin a series of biographical sketches in this number on "Famous Californians of Other Days." The subjects treated in the first article are Senator Henry S. Foote, Gwin and Broderick, Doctor Durant and Colonel Jack Hayes.

Mr. Wildman has another Malayan sketch, "The Rivals," and Mr. Reed a story of Indian life in the Southwest. Mrs. E. S. Marshall is responsible for a timely article, well illustrated, on "Prickly Plants of California," and Charles S. Greene for a unique little poem, "Taking Toll."

Jones to Hotchkiss.

I'll be switched if that St. Louis Shoe Store does not take the cake. I have bought a good many shoes, but there is no store that can reach them. They are very polite and attentive and their trade seems to grow wonderfully. Opened four and one-half months ago and had to enlarge to double its former size.

At this moment Mr. Jones produced list of their men's heavy shoes, all sizes, 95c to $1.75; men's boots $1.65 to $3.45; ladies' shoes, lace and button $1 to $1.75; ladies' latest kid $1.50 to $2.50; children's and misses' 75c to $1.50; men's dress shoes $1.25 to $4; boys' boots $1 to $1.50; babies' shoes, all sizes 25c each.

Then Mr. Hotchkiss cried out to his wife, "Mary Ann, get ready and let's go to town, but do not forget to mark down that order."
