To Meet the Times.

The subscription price for the ENTERPRISE has been reduced to $1.50 per year; seventy-five cents for six months. This low price is made in order to get the list on a cash basis and induce all subscribers to pay up, and especially to prevent dead beats from taking the paper and not paying for it by reason of their being law proof. This discount is made only to those paying in advance. Those paying before the close of their year will be entitled to the discount for the time paid in advance.

This makes the ENTERPRISE the cheapest paper in Clackamas county—eight pages all home print and full of live local news.

BOARD OF TRADE.

After a Long Rest the Board of Trade Resumes Business—Lively Meeting.

Monday evening the first meeting for some months took place of the Oregon City Board of Trade. There was a fair attendance of members and the meeting was characterized by a spirit of energy and hope that indicated that the board of trade was to take a new life and be as heretofore a prominent factor in the development of Oregon City.

The board was called to order by Vice-president Ryan, after which Secretary Donaldson read the minutes of the previous meeting.

The annual report of the treasurer, T. L. Charman, was made. While there had been no collection for dues during the year 1894 the report showed that there had been expended out of the balance left over from the previous year $195.24, leaving a balance in the treasury of $25.38. As itemized the expenses were as follows:

Sanders Engraving Co., cuts $62 11
 J. M. Lawrence, copy for pamphlet 50 00
 Electric Hotel, dinner for Chicago editors 19 75
 J. F. Brown, Oregon City views 17 75
 R. Prier " " " 50
 Enterprise printing 4 00
 F. E. Donaldson, expenses on cuts 2 75
 Peter Nehren, janitor services 13 00

There was shown to be sixty-two members on the roll besides a number of delinquents who are expected to renew their membership. The report was referred to the financial committee.

E. E. Charman, chairman of the committee on membership, submitted the names of R. Staub and J. F. Clark for membership. On a ballot being taken they were duly elected.

The proposed revision of the city charter by the city council coming up, it was decided that a committee of five, consisting of G. A. Harding, E. E. Charman, T. F. Ryan, Major Thos. Charman and E. G. Caulfield be appointed to represent the business men of the town in the charter revision.

Ordered, That the treasurer remit all dues from members for the year 1894.

A communication was read from the San Diego, California, board of trade relative to the Nearagan canal and referred to the committee on commerce.

A communication from the manufacturers' convention in Cincinnati was referred to the same committee.

The chairman of the advertising committee not being present only a partial report was made as to the progress the committee was making in getting out the proposed pamphlet.

The matter of home advertising being brought up, it was ordered that the advertising committee secure estimates as to the cost of putting up an arch on Seventh street adjoining the depot, on which a brief description of Oregon City was to be painted. Also, the cost of six large frames with glass face in which a set of views of the principal points of interest about Oregon City, together with a brief explanation of each, was to be placed, these frames to be hung in the offices of the leading hotels of Portland, the object being to attract the attention of tourists and the traveling public, who may have a few hours to spend in sight-seeing in Oregon City. While these tourists themselves might not invest they might be the means of inducing others to locate with us. The plan is easily tried for the expense would be but nominal, and the transportation companies should assist in bearing a part as they would reap a profit from the scheme.

The next meeting of the board will take place on the second Monday of February when it is expected that a full attendance of the members will be had.

City Council.

A special meeting of the city council was held Monday evening.

The charter revision was taken up and after a brief discussion it was decided to add another member to the committee having the work in hand, and that they be given further time to report. H. C. Stevens was appointed as the additional member of the charter committee.

A resolution was passed authorizing the city attorney to secure a settlement of the suit now pending in the courts between the Portland Clay Co. and Hamshaw & Behm and Oregon City, and that he secure such concessions and stipulations as will release the city from this suit, and that a settlement be made with Hamshaw & Behm and other parties to the suit upon a basis of not more than $245.27 in addition to the sum already provided for, and that a warrant on the general fund be issued to Chas. Albright and J. J. Cooke to be used for such purpose whenever the city attorney shall deem it expedient in furtherance of a full settlement of said suit and all claims of Hamshaw & Behm against Oregon City on account of Main street improvement when the city shall have been protected by a sufficient bond under the direction of the city attorney.

The finance committee having reported favorable upon the bill, a warrant was ordered drawn in favor of E. F. Driggs, city attorney, for $150, in payment for fees and expenses in the suit of the city against the East Side railway.

The council instructed the attorney to begin suit in the circuit court at Portland for the forfeiture of the franchise of the East Side Railway Company in this city. This action is the outgrowth of the trouble in collecting the amount due from the company as its share of the expense of paving Main street, in which its tracks are laid. The franchise granted the company, expressly provided that the company should stand such expense whenever the street should be improved. And, according to the statement made by the city attorney, the members of the company would now pay that bill, if they were in charge of the road. But the road is in the hands of a receiver, by application of the Northwest General Electric Company, which holds a mortgage on the property and the receiver and mortgagee expressed a preference to have the company's franchise in this city forfeited rather than to pay the claim, amounting to about $6000, and the United States court, which now controls the road, has consented to forfeiture proceedings as the only alternative.

Unique Experiences.

Last Tuesday evening an interesting and enthusiastic company of Methodists met in the M. E. church to tell their experiences in earning a dollar for the church. They were many and varied, causing occasional bursts of laughter. One declared she had dyed for her dollar and by painting, nursing, washing, putting up lunch, blacking shoes, brushing clothes, fetching milk, selling eggs, clerking, oiling oil cap and coat, saving car fare, dressing and selling chicken, selling pumpkin, knitting socks, knitting mittens, selling bread, doing without things which were thought to be necessary, etc., one dollar had been earned by hard knocks, while not a few had slipped along by selling empty lard buckets or making doughnuts, walking a mile on an errand for ten cents, twenty cents worth of good resolutions; one dear old lady 82 years old had made quilt blocks and sold them at five cents each, the buyer giving the block to the Ladies Aid society; ten cents given on Thanksgiving day, selling silver polish, cleaning and selling empty bottles, empty oil tin, taking a note to the pastor, ten cents for finding out who Santa Claus was, two cents for ventilating a room, working button holes, mending old clothes, selling peelings, and some gave a dollar. Mrs. Pierce delighted the audience with one of her amusing recitations.

These are a few of the many ways by which the dollar was earned. The stormy weather prevented a large number from being present.

Mrs. G. SYKES.

FROM CALIFORNIA.

MYRTLE, Cal., Dec. 31.—(To the Editor.)—As a number of friends wanted to hear from me after I reached this country I thought I would write for the ENTERPRISE and thus write to all. I do not know whether the rain wanted to give us a farewell soaking before we left or not, but it rained all the day we loaded the car, and was raining when we started Monday night. It continued to rain all that night and the next day and night, being the first rain in California for months. We saw but little of Oregon till near Grants Pass. From there to Ashland the valleys were narrow but well cultivated and set out to orchards. As we came south from Ashland there was some grand scenery as we climbed the mountains with two or three tracks below us. Northern California as far as Mt. Shasta, which we did not see on account of the clouds, is barren and but thinly settled. It was dark at the soda springs and we saw nothing of the Sacramento valley as it was six o'clock when we arrived at Sacramento. Our train did not start till ten o'clock so we visited the state capitol, which is a fine building surrounded by the most beautiful grounds I ever saw.

We now start up the San Joaquin valley which is far larger and smoother than I supposed it was. Between Sacramento and Stockton thousands of windmills can be seen, which are used in irrigating orchards and vineyards. These are soon passed and we are in the wheat belt with fields extending back for miles and as level as a floor. After seeing several six and eight-horse teams on gangplows turning over the ground, it looks like small farming dodging around the stumps and rocks in Oregon. It was dark when we got to Fresno so we did not see any more of the country. At four o'clock we stopped at Palmdale and found our car there with everything all safe and sound. Thursday morning we loaded up, tied the cow to the wagon and started towards a round hill which could be seen in the distance. We drove till four o'clock came to the future town which we found to consist of a store building, a school building and several tents. But that round hill was still three or four miles beyond. Say! Mr. Editor, if you want to "see out" and be able to "look ahead" come here where you can see houses miles away. We find ourselves on the south side of Antelope valley near the foothills, with snow on the mountains but a short distance above us. The air is very pure and seems to be good for people with weak lungs or malaria in their system. I saw a man that could scarcely get here last October, with consumption, who was getting well. It had rained less than one-half an inch last year when we got here and they told us that the roads were very dusty and cut up into ruts, still I never saw as good roads in Oregon. After my team had been on the train for five days they made six daily trips of fifteen miles from here to the railroad and back with heavy loads, a drive of thirty miles a day. Since then we have had hard rains and the roads never get muddy and are as hard and smooth as Main street in Oregon City. I put from 1000 to 1200 feet of lumber on a three and a half-inch wagon and bring it home without binding it or having a break on the wagon. I had rather drive thirty miles here than go from Eli Maddock's place to Oregon City and back. The land is sandy but not a fine sand with small bunches of sagebrush and greasewood. It is easily cleared and plowed. Fruit trees grow well and are smooth and thrifty in appearance. The apples are free from worms and blemishes, but are not as juicy as are the Oregon apples. Prunes, grapes, and all kinds of fruit can be dried in the sun. The supply of water for irrigation looks small to me but the main ditches will be cemented and they are digging a tunnel to cut the overflow in the river, so that those who should know, say that there will be plenty of water. The question of water is the only drawback there is to this country. Many settlers are here and they are as nice a class of people as you can find. We have Sunday school and preaching every Sunday with a large attendance. With only two days notice a splendid dinner was furnished in the school house on Christmas to which over 100 people with a California appetite did justice. If Eli Maddock or George Lazelle had been here they would have found several who could eat as long and as fast as they do at a grand dinner at New Era.

AFTER DINNER

when you have eaten heartily, you should take one of these tiny, sugar-coated granules.

If you feel drowsy, dull, languid, inexpressibly tired or debilitated; if you're no appetite and frequent headaches or dizziness, a furred or coated tongue—it proves that you're bilious. In that case you should use the "Pellets." They are anti-bilious granules, which act in a prompt and natural way, without griping.
