ROAD TO BE RE-LOCATED.—A movement is now under way to have a re-survey of the Oregon City and New Era river road, with a view of locating it along the foot of the bluff and vacate that part along the river bank and railroad. The change in location has been brought about by the county court ordering closed that part of the road between the railroad track and the river bank as dangerous to public travel and impossible of repair. The court has had an examination of this road made and they find that it is impossible to maintain a roadway between the railroad track and river bank as the river is constantly washing away the bank, and to prevent it and save the road would cost not less than $25,000 in building breakwaters, dykes and making fills. County Road Engineer Kinnaird is of the opinion that a route can be had along the foot of the bluff that will have in no place not to exceed a 5 per cent. grade, and that the cost of constructing the new road would not be so heavy as has been supposed by many. This is one of the most important roads of the county, and as under the present law the people interested in the road can alone have the change made by petitioning the county court, they should push the matter and have the survey made so that work may be done on it this year.

AN EAST WIND.—The east wind of last Sunday and Monday was something new for Wehfoot where the prevailing winds are either from the north or south. It blew a gale and was cold and crisp enough to make one think of a Dakota zephyr. The force of the wind was such that it shook buildings and was so dry that it soon raised clouds of dust on Main street in a manner surprising and disagreeable to pedestrians. Its force was particularly noticeable on Mt. Hood over whose hoary head it must have swept with the force of a tornado, for that part of the south and east sides of its summit visible from this city was as bare and black as in mid-summer, the snow having all been blown off and piled up on the west side of the mountain. The old settlers can call to mind but few such winds for they are almost unknown on this coast, the great mountain range east of us being an effective barrier against any ordinary wind from that direction. This wind was evidently a side issue of the great storm that swept over the middle and eastern states last week and even extended in its fury across the Atlantic ocean into Europe, it covering the greatest part of the globe and being the most severe of any storm for years past. With us it had spent its fury and was devoid of all danger and was only disagreeable to be out in.

THE FREE READING ROOM.—If there are any persons in Oregon City who think that the free reading is not patronized and is not worthy of their support, they have but to step into the room any day or evening to be convinced of their error. Especially on rainy days when many of the laboring men about town are laid off or when one of the factories shut down is the room crowded and every chair is occupied, and often times during the evenings the librarian is put to his wits ends to provide seats for those who come. The reading room is doing a most excellent work in Oregon City and is greatly appreciated by the laboring men and strangers who visit it. Its support, by the closest economy on the part of the librarian, is barely sufficient to keep it running, and our citizens should be more liberal in their contributions to this most worthy institution, for if there is a missionary or charity work in Oregon City that pays one hundred cents on each dollar invested it is the free reading room.

WHO YOU CAN TALK WITH.—The Oregon Telephone & Telegraph company have the work completed of wiring for and installing the telephones for their subscribers in Oregon City. When first put in some of the subscribers had difficulty in making themselves clearly heard through their telephones, but that was soon overcome when they became used to the instruments. They now work fine and no difficulty is experienced in carrying on conversation over the local wires and on the long distance line with Portland. The telephones are proving a great convenience to those having them, for they save them many trips about town and thus save time and expediate business. The central is in charge of Miss Lura Miller, who is proving quite an adept in handling the wires. The following firms and persons are now connected by the system: Bank of Oregon City, Geo. Broughton's saw mill, Geo. C. Brownell's law office, Dr. W. E. Carril's office, Charman & Co's drug store, W. C. Cheney's residence, Commercial Bank, C. D. & D. C. Latourette's law office, Crown Paper Co., Geo. A. Harding's drug store, Hill & Cole's saloon, Marr & Robertson's grocery store, P. F. Morey's residence, OREGON CITY ENTERPRISE, Dr. D. L. Paine's residence, Oregon City Iron Works, Oregon City Transportation Co., Postoffice, Western Union Telegraph office, Court House, Smith & Lovett's, ice works office, E. E. Williams' grocery store, Willamette Pulp & Paper Co's office, Willamette Pulp & Paper Co's residence, W. A. Huntley's book store, Postal Telegraph Co's office, C. G. Huntley's drug store and R. Staub's grocery store.

HANDY REFERENCE BOOK.—A large volume now numbering over 380 pages, but sold at the same price as when, in the Forties, it printed only 60 page. The New York Tribune Almanac for 1895 comes to us this week, revised, rearranged, freshened up to date, and enriched by the addition of new features. The book contains an almost unlimited array of statistics on every conceivable subject which concerns the whole people of the United States, with much which interests only the political parties or other large bodies of men or women. The results of the phenomenal elections of 1894 are fully reported. There is no partisanship in the contents of The Tribune Almanac, and every one can accept with confidence its statistics of coinage, circulation, foreign trade, elections, population, pensions, revenues, banking, divorce, marriage, sports, legal holidays, and the hundreds of other things treated of. The facts about prominent societies in the United States are given more space than usual, and the Constitutional Amendments in New York State are given. The Almanac for 1895 is a most valuable book of reference. It is indexed thoroughly and well. Price, 25 cents a copy.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEER'S TRAINING.—The educational fad of the moment is electrical engineering, just as some years ago every man thought he must make his boy a civil engineer. Mr. James B. Cahoon, than whom there can be no better authority, tells us in the January number of Electric Power how this training must be supplemented in order to make a real electrical engineer. We sincerely hope that it may scare about half of the 1,500 students now taking their regular college engineering courses into thinking about it before graduating into mere dynamo tenders. One suggestion of Lieut. Cahoon's we would lay especial stress on and that is the training in moving heavy machinery into place; it is one of the finest arts extant. The article is to be continued in the February number, and aside from its importance to the engineering student, it abounds in the humorous incidents played upon the novice.

A LONGFELLOW SYMPOSIUM.—One of the best methods of studying an author is through the symposiums now so popular in America. The Longfellow Symposium to be given at the Congregational church on March 1st is the first attempt at this style of entertainment in Oregon City. Every lover of literature will appreciate the effort to set forth in living form the ideal Hiawatha and his beloved Minnehaha, Laughing Water, at the Door of the Ancient Arrow-Maker in the Land of the Dakotas; the glimpse of Evangeline and Gabriel, and Benedict Bellefontaine and good Father Felician amid the sorrowful events of the Acadian exile. All will be glad again to catch a passing glimpse of Miles Standish, John Allen and Priscilla. Some of the most celebrated poems of Longfellow will be sung and spoken and orations on his life and character be given by some of our talented young people.

The name One Minute Cough Cure suggests a medicine that relieves at once, and quickly cures. Its use proves it. C. C. Huntley, druggist.

HOUSEHOLD NECESSARY.—F. R. Pearson, of Vancouver, has devised a fire lighter that dispenses with the necessity of kindling wood and enables a person to build a fire in a stove and get up a good heat in half the time and with none of the litter as by the old way. It is clean and convenient and can be carried in the pocket or in the grip when on a camping trip when dry kindling is not always at hand. Mr. Pearson has already made a limited canvass of Oregon City for his fire lighter and will in a short time deliver those ordered and take orders for more.

NEW HOTEL.—J. P. Sumner has rented the building on the southeast corner of Main and Eighth streets near the court house and opened a hotel which he calls the Farmers Home. Mrs. Sumner will have the supervision of the tables and the rooms and she will see that they are attractive and clean. Mr. and Mrs. Sumner expect to make the patrons feel at home when in their house and they invite their many friends throughout the county to stop at the Farmers Home and try its hospitality.

The Kermesse cigar is a decided success. Ten cents value for five cents cash. E. E. Williams, the grocer.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—Examinations have been held during this week in the various rooms of the city schools to enable the pupils to gain the mid-term promotions. It is expected that all who are to enter the school for the last half of the school year and are entitled to go into the first grade will be in attendance next Monday so as to start with the class and thus not retard the work. There are now enrolled in the school 375 girls and 314 boys and it is expected that this will be increased some next week by new scholars entering the school.

Yucca Root toilet soap will not chafe the hands or face. E. E. Williams, the grocer.

ELECTRICITY ON THE TOW PATH.—New York's state engineer has great expectations concerning the coming utility of the trolley in moving canal boats. He says the trolley lines could be built on either side of a canal, the motor running on its own track, attached to tow-lines as now used, controlled by the helmsman, and consuming no space on the boats. The track along the towpath could be elevated, giving room for horses to tow by the present method when desired. In this case the motors might be called electric horses. This is but one of the practicable and inexpensive systems that have been proposed.

NEEDY NOTES.—Died, in Antelope, Oregon February 5, 1895, Gertrude Ranedel, aged 17 years, 1 month and 3 days. Deceased was born in Otoe county, Nebraska in 1878 from which place she came with her parents to Oregon in 1880 since then her home has been near Needy. The 8th of January 1894 she was taken with what seemed to be a gripe but developed into consumption. In hopes of improving her health she went to Antelope to stay with her sister, Mrs. Patterson, at which place she remained till her death. She died trusting in the Lord and said she was going to heaven to be with her mother and father who has preceded her to the hereafter. They laid her by their side to await the glorious resurrection morn: She was a kind and loving sister and a friend to all. She leaves four brothers and two sisters to mourn her loss.

Fortunes are lost annually, directly and indirectly, by people who cannot do their own figuring, write their own letters, or keep their own books; and who do not know when business and legal papers which they must handle every day are made out correctly. All these things, and much more, we teach thoroughly.

Hundreds of our graduates are in good positions, and there will be openings for hundreds more when times improve. Now is the time to prepare for them. Besides, a business education is worth all it costs, for one's own use. Send for our catalogue, to learn what and how we teach. Mailed free to any address.
