CAUGHT ON.

That dog has been detailed to stop. There's nothing in Oregon City so stopping as our exhibition of new carpets. Everyone feels compelled to stop and look over the display. Such a triumph of newness, elegance, variety, and unprecedented values is enough to create a sensation. We can carpet the town with figures and at figures that simply cannot be duplicated elsewhere. When we call our carpet roll there are no absenteees on the list. Every pattern and material prescribed by fashion and correct taste is here to answer, and claim its place upon the floor of the house. Our exhibit includes Ingrain 2 and 3 ply cotton and wool, Brussels tapestry and body Brussels Japan and Chinese matting etc. Prices lower than ever. Bellomy & Busch, OREGON CITY, OR.

THE CUBAN REVOLT

The Fires of Civil War Lighted in Cuba.

UPRISING SEEMS TO BE GENERAL.

Ybarra in the West and Guantanamo in the East Headquarters for the Revolutionists.

HAVANA, Feb. 26.—The governor-general has put into effect the public-order law throughout the island. This law provides for the immediate punishment of anybody taken in a seditious act.

Some twenty-four men have defied the authorities and called for rebel recruits at Ybarra, near Matanzas, and trouble is reported also from Guantanamo. It is also reported that several revolutionary parties rose in arms in different parts of the island.

The governor-general yesterday issued a proclamation suspending the constitutional guarantees. There is great excitement throughout the island, and many well-known separatists have been arrested. It is reported here that there has been an engagement between the government troops and the insurgents.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26, Cipher dispatches received here by members of the Cuban revolutionary party to whom the date set for the uprising has been known since February 9, told that the revolution had begun.

Jose Marti, twice banished from Cuba because of his hate to Spanish domination, and General Maximo Gomez, who commanded the eastern wing of the Cuban rebels in the revolution of 1895, left New York two weeks ago for Vera Cruz, and news received from Cuba last night tells that they have landed, and their arrival was to be the signal for an uprising.

It was here in New York that the revolution was planned and it was from here that the order was sent which lighted the fire of civil war in Cuba. Cuban leaders here are in league with the revolutionists of the islands and with sympathizers in the United States, Mexico and South American republics, and have been long preparing for the event.

The insurgent forces in Matanzas, near Ybarra, where one wing of the patriot party raised its standard, are under the command of Major-General Julio Sanguily. The point mentioned is about 66 miles east of Havana, on the west end of the island.

The scene of the other uprising mentioned in the Havana dispatches, Guantanamo, is on the east end of the island, and the fact that these widely separated places are given prominence is accepted by Cubans in New York to mean that the Spanish authorities are attempting to belittle its extent.

The revolutionary forces in the eastern section of the island which includes Guantanamo, are commanded by Brigadier-General Guillermo Moncada. It is estimated that he can raise 4000 men. The Spanish forces number about 18,000 regulars, of which about 6000 are stationed at Santiago de Cuba, and are within reach of the rebels at Guantanamo. The bulk of the remaining Spanish troops are stationed at Havana, and so are near the scene of General Sanguily's starting point, Ybarra.

Men who are high in the councils of the Cuban party, and who were instructed with the date set for the uprising say that the arms which have been smuggled into Cuba during the last few weeks and which were landed near Matanzas and other points, and those which are already in the possession of the patriot forces of General Gomez, would be able to arm 3000 men at once and many more within a short time.

A HOUSEHOLD TRAGEDY.

The Wife Deliberately Murdered by the Husband Who Then Shoots Himself.

CHEHALIS, Wash., Feb. 25.—J. A. Phillips, a logger about 35 years old, shot and killed his wife, Estella, at Centralia about 4 o'clock this afternoon. After writing a note explaining the cause of the tragedy, he blew out his own brains. Both died within an hour. The affair grew out of Phillips' jealousy of his wife. Phillips had been at a logging camp during the week and returned unexpectedly. Shortly after his arrival his wife came from town accompanied by a young man named Jap Bowen. She went into the house leaving Bowen at the gate, apparently to reconnoitre. She had scarcely got in before a neighbor heard shots. Phillips stood in the doorway with a revolver pointing at Bowen, who was running away and three more shots were heard. The neighbors rushed to the house and broke in the door, which was locked. Mrs. Phillips lay gasping in a pool of blood on the floor. She had been shot in the arm and again through the left temple.

Phillips was on a bed holding a revolver in his hand. He had sent a bullet crashing through his brain. On a table lay a note signed by the husband and which read as follows:

"As I can't leave without my wife, I have taken this way to keep her with me. We have no friends to mourn for us, and let this be a lesson to all not to fool with other men's wives. Good bye to what friends I have. Get us into the earth as soon as possible."

Phillips' wife had borne a good reputation, but it is said that she had been drinking in a back room of one of the saloons with Bowen before going home. They had two children, but these Phillips gave away ten days ago and on that occasion the woman tried to commit suicide with morphine. The pair were stricken with poverty and the miserable little house in which the tragedy occurred presented a pitiable spectacle when the neighbors broke in. Bowen, who fled when the shooting occurred and went to the logging camp near town, was brought in by the sheriff late tonight.

A TOUCHING SCENE.

The Days of Old Brought Back Vividly at the Funeral of Fred Douglass.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Among the guests of honor at the funeral services of the late Fred Douglass were Justice Harlan, of the supreme court, Senators Sherman and Hoar and a number of members of the house. The choir rendered "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and "In Thy Cleft, O Rock of Ages." The funeral sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. Jenifer of the Episcopal church. Speaking as a long time pastor of Douglass, Mr. Jenifer said:

"Mr. Douglass was a Christian. He broke with the American Christian dogmas and when he saw that it sanctioned and sustained the enslavement and bondage of a brother he held Christ to be above creed and above church. In this terrific soul-conflict, he blundered into bewilderment, but his deliverance came and he has spoken to me of the joy of his soul in God."

A touching incident of the service was the tribute paid Mr. Douglass by John Hutchinson of Boston, who, himself an extremely aged man, with a snow white beard and long white locks, reaching down to his shoulders, is said to be the last of the well known Hutchinson family with whom Douglass was associated in anti-slavery days. The old man had come all the way from Boston to be present and sing an old abolition song with which by Douglass' side he had inspired many an audience in New England and abroad against the evil of slavery. He made a few reminiscent remarks and then sang the song, in conclusion of which there were few dry eyes in the audience. Douglass will be buried in Rochester, New York.

Alaska's Governor Talks.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—James Sheakley, governor of Alaska, has just arrived from Washington, whither he went for the purpose of looking after certain proposed legislation in the interest of the northern territory. In an interview he said: "My visit to Washington was for the purpose of filling my annual report, and, incidentally, to offer some suggestions with reference to legislation intended to affect our territory. We are so far from the nation itself, and our conditions and requirements are so different from those of other territories, that it is quite necessary for some one familiar with the country to confer with the heads of departments at Washington as well as with the members of both branches of congress. Legislation which may appear to people down here as beneficial might work no end of harm up there, and vice versa. Among other things I have urged the adoption of a high liquor license in the territory in preference to the present prohibitory law. The latter is practically inoperative, because of the extent to which smuggling has been developed. The territory is so vast and the opportunities for the nefarious business so encouraging that it is almost impossible to check the traffic. The most harmful feature, however, is the tendency the success of the smugglers has toward teaching the natives to disrespect the government's regulations. I think that by licensing the traffic we could keep it better in hand."

NOT AFRAID OF 'EM

Our Cup-Defender is Not Ashamed of Her Dimensions.

HERRESHOFF'S NEW MODEL.

Will Be a Keel Boat and Will Try to Beat the Brits at Their Owa Game.

BARSTOL, R. I., Feb. 25.—The latest information from the Herreshoff works is so positive in character as to leave no general doubt as to the type and general dimensions and construction of the new cup-defender. She is out and out a keel boat, an improved Colonia, and will be of Tobin bronze construction. Tobin bronze plates on steel frames. She will be 80 feet on the water line and about 24 feet beam and over two feet more draft.

The lead keel is about 20 feet long on top, 5 feet 6 inches deep at its center and tapers away gradually to a point both forward and aft. It is some two feet across at the top and is slightly bulged at the bottom. The Colonia was about 130 feet over all.

The new boat will be considerably less by reason of the shortening of the forward overhang and making of the stem, whose contour above water is very much like that of Valkyrie 11, the challenger for the cup of 1893.

After the overhang it is about as long as the other Herreshoff boats and the rudder is hung on a stern post, but somewhat wider than usual, since it only runs to the top of lead keel and not to the bottom, as usual.

She is a keel boat, as was expected, but she slowly approaches a fin-keel so as not to cut away as much forward and aft as was confidently expected. Still, she is more of a fin-keel than the Colonia and is an undoubted improvement on that boat, with greater draft, shorter keel and evident provision for quickness in starts.

With the same beam as the Colonia, the new boat has four feet more of water length, which should allow of filling out of lines and better model all around.

Summed up, the model as compared with the Colonia shows easier lines, easier forms to drive, but more power; greater ability to hold up to windward and greater quickness in stays; straight keel below and her garboards are more in the nature of a fin than on any of Herreshoff's boats not having a plate fin.

She should be faster than the Colonia, but how much faster, or whether fast enough to beat an improved Britannia, no one can say.

In the matter of construction she will be about the same thing as the Vigilant, except that Tobin bronze plating will run clear to her plank sheer, instead of having a top stroke or line of plating of steel.

Women in Council.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The National Council of Women convened here at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Sewall occupied the chair.

Equal pay for equal work was one of the themes for the morning session. Josefa Humpal Zeman, of Chicago, made a 10-minute talk on the relation between foreign and national elements in our country. Henrietta A. Keyser briefly reviewed the same subject. Harriet A. Shinn, of Illinois, spoke of financial dependency, or family poverty. She dwelt upon the subject of women as a factor in modern business, and declared that women would remain there.

"Industry" and "Politics" were the subjects discussed at the evening session. The members of the National Association of Women Stenographers debating the former topic and the Women's Republican Association of the United States the latter. Helen Varwick Hoswell, of New York, spoke of the efforts of women against the Tammany tiger. She declared that the question of "The Lady or the Tiger" had been overwhelmingly settled by the New York public in favor of the lady. Bimetallism was the last topic considered, Miss Emily Sheldon discussing it from a free silver, and Mrs. A. Burke from a gold standard standpoint.

The exposure to all sorts and conditions of weather that a lumberman is called upon to endure in the camps, often produces severe colds which, if not promptly checked, result in congestion or pneumonia. Mr. J. O. Davenport, ex manager of the Fort Bragg Redwood Co., an immense institution at Fort Bragg, Cal., says they sell large quantities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the company's store and that he has himself used this remedy for a severe cold and obtained immediate relief. This medicine prevents any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia and insures a prompt recovery. For sale by G. A. Harding, druggist.

The name One Minute Cough Cure suggests a medicine that relieves at once, and quickly cures. Its use proves it. C. C. Huntley, Druggist.
