

In Memoriam.
 Johnnie F. Bogue, youngest son of Fletcher and Iva C. Bogue, was born at Battle Creek, Iowa, August 7, 1878. He was the second male child born at that place—it then being only a small village. In infancy he with his parents moved to Washington and afterwards to Oregon. For the past five years he has resided at Mulino, Clackamas county, where he quietly passed away on the morning of March 19, 1895, after a severe illness of three days, aged 16 years, 7 months and 12 days. The death is shrouded in mystery, but is supposed to have been caused by concussion of the brain, brought on from a blow received on the head a week before while teaming. He also received a severe bruise on the knee in some unknown manner. His illness was not considered serious until he suddenly became delirious and could explain nothing. His kind and loving disposition and thoughtful interest in others, made him a general favorite with his friends and schoolmates, who showed their appreciation of his worth by the large assembly that attended the funeral, and the numerous and beautiful floral tributes that were presented. The affliction falls with especial severity on his father, a veteran of the late Rebellion, who nobly responded to his country's call in her hour of need, and had fondly hoped to lean on the arm of his loving son for support and comfort in his declining years and failing health. Johnnie was a worthy member of the F. A. & I. U. The funeral services were conducted at the family residence by Dr. J. Casco, a Baptist minister, and the remains interred in the Graham cemetery.

"Ye holy ministers of love,
 Blest dwellers in the upper spheres,
 In vain we fix our gaze above,
 For we are blinded by our tears.
 O, tell us to what land unknown
 The soul of him we love has flown.
 He left us when his manly heart
 With earnest hope was beating high,
 Too soon it seemed for us to part:
 Too soon, alas! for him to die.
 We have the tenement of day,
 But, ay, the soul has passed away.
 Blest spirit! we will weep no more,
 But lay our selfishness to rest;
 The Providence which we adore,
 Has ordered all things for the best.
 Life's battle fought, the victory won,
 To nobler toils pass on! pass on!"
 —Mary S. Howard.

Harper's Weekly.
 W. D. Howells contributes to Harper's Weekly for April 13th an adequate review of Max Nordau's book on "Degeneration." In the same issue is reproduced a very beautiful newly discovered painting by Botticelli, and an interesting note by W. A. Coffin is devoted to this discovery—which may fairly be termed an artistic "event." Remington's "Coaching in Chihuahua" is another excellent paper in the same number. The reproduction of one of Abbey's Holy Grail paintings (the interesting one which represents the Round Table) is a conspicuous feature in the Weekly dated April 20th, its publication, announced in the "Notes" for an earlier day, having been unavoidably deferred. An important article by Dr. Henry van Dyke accompanies this illustration, and is devoted to the series of paintings which Mr. Abbey has made for the Boston Public Library.

Resolutions.
 Resolved, by the Clackamas County Alliance at their quarterly meeting held at Milwaukie on the first Saturday in April, 1895, That we sincerely thank the senators and representatives from this county, and others also, for their courageous stand on the bill for a convention to submit the initiative and referendum to the people.

We demand that the delinquent tax list and other county printing be awarded to the county newspapers of general circulation making the lowest sealed bid for the same and we believe it can be done for one-half or less of last year's charges.

Owing to the great expense incurred by the county in farming out the county poor, we favor the purchase of a county poor farm.
 E. H. COOPER, H. THIESSEN,
 Sec. Pres.

A Decided Improvement.
 Patrons of the Portland and Dalles accommodation train will be pleased to learn of the change made in the passenger equipment. The O. R. & N Co. has replaced the former one combination car carried, with an elegant lately re-modeled first-class coach and smoker. This arrangement virtually gives a day passenger train between Portland and Dalles, leaving Portland at 8:00 A. M., arriving at Dalles 1:00 P. M., and returning, leaving Dalles at 2: P. M., arriving at Portland 7:00 P. M. Daily except Sunday. The through passenger train still retains its old schedule, leaving Portland at 7: P. M. for the east and leaving Dalles at 4: A. M. for Portland.

J. A. Richardson, of Jefferson City, Mo., Chief Enrolling force 38th general assembly of Missouri, writes: "I wish to testify to the merits of One Minute Cough Cure. When other so-called cures failed I obtained almost instant relief and a speedy cure by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. C. G. Huntley, druggist."

The Oregon City Steam Laundry does the cleanest and best work to be had in Oregon City. Their prices are the lowest.

MAKING COLTS "BACK."
 An Old Trainer Gives Instruction on This Subject.

The colt should be taught from the first that you are his master and his friend, and that your intercourse with him is business and not play. In all you do with him avoid excitement—that is, do not frighten him nor get him angry. Have a definite idea in your own mind of what you are going to do each time you handle him, and when he has got it do nothing more with him for that time. For instance, you wish to teach him to back, which you can do in 10 minutes if you work in the right way. Quit as soon as he has learned to do it and do not disgust him by backing him all over the farm the first lesson nor confuse him by trying to teach him anything else at the same time.

As the majority of the western horses I see do not back well, I conclude horsemen in that section have not given much attention to it. To teach him, draw the lines through the lug strap and stand behind him and a little to one side, so that when you pull the rein it will draw across his quarter; then give him a firm, strong pull, partly backward and partly to one side, saying "Back!" as you do it, and instantly let up. The pull should be about half way between a twitch or jerk and a steady pull.

If you did it right, his head went a little one way and his hind end was turned a little, so he was pulled perhaps one-eighth of the way around. Now go to his head, stroke and caress him, and if convenient give him a treat from your hand something he will like to eat. Now step back and pull him the other way, starting from a loose rein and pulling just hard enough to pull him around a little, no matter how little, letting up at once so as not to have the rein tight more than half a second at a time, saying "Back!" at the instant you give the pull. He will respond to the pull just as soon as he learns that the rein loosens when he yields to it. Now step directly behind him and pull the same as before, only use both reins instead of one. Never tighten the rein on him when he is backing, but let him understand that it will loosen when he backs, and he will back for you every time.

Will all colts learn at once if treated in this way? I can only say that I have trained them for more than 40 years, and I never have seen one that would not. Occasionally there is one of slow intellect and high temper with which you should proceed in the same way as others, only go a little slower, so as to give them time to understand it.—S. B. Smith in Breeder's Gazette.

As to Mules.
 It has been found that breeding young mares to a jack will generally taint the offspring when bred to a horse with some of the characteristics of the donkey. They may have the ears of the sire jack or the black stripes on the shoulders or legs. There was a time—not now so common—when the finest thoroughbred mares of Kentucky were coupled with jacks, especially after having been tried to a horse and failed to get with foal. In recent years we do not hear much of this. Thoroughbred Spanish jacks, however, are still held at fancy prices, and, while many of them are offered for sale and some farmers seem to have real herds of them, prices do not seem to come down. A good, sound mule is a valuable work animal. He does not eat so much as a horse, is easier satisfied with a lower quality of hay and will thrive on thistles if only he have enough of them. All the same he prefers corn in the ear. The question is sometimes asked, Did mule mules ever breed? In "You and the Horse" there are two instances given where mule mules have thrown live foals—one, I believe, in Mississippi—but the foals never attained any age. It stops with the mule. Nature will have no confusion.

A mule is judged for value by the length and strength of his legs more than for any other part of his body. Of course good color, smooth head and joins are taken into consideration when one wants a fancy animal. But the trolley and cable cars have retired a good many of them—at least in our large cities—and people will not go into mourning because of it.—C. W. Murtfeldt in St. Louis Republic.

Live Stock Points.
 Be on the lookout for sore and cracked teats among ewes that are suckling lambs. Sore udders among ewes will gangrene if not attended to. Glycerin and olive oil mixed make a soothing, softening ointment for inflamed udders. In severe cases of scratches an experienced sheep breeder recommends drying off the ewes.

An Illinois breeder of Poland-Chinas says he has had pigs weigh 250 pounds at 6 months old. He has them farrowed April 1 and as soon as possible turns them on pasture. In a pen into which only the pigs, but not the sow, can go, he pours cow's milk for the litter to drink on. First he feeds sweet milk only, then later sour milk and soaked shelled corn twice a day till they are ready for market. This makes healthy pork.

Horace Greeley once said that of all horned cattle the most dangerous were young college graduates who thought they knew everything.

A wooden silo built in the best manner of the best material will last 10 to 15 years.

Among the best wools shown at the World's fair were those from Argentina and Uruguay.

When a family of sheep are bred for larger carcasses and heavier fleeces, their wool loses in fineness.

There are some who think the Saxony sheep is still to have a future in this country.

Twenty-eight Kentucky saddle horses recently sold in New York City brought an average price of $240. Some of them sold for $1,000 apiece. The demand for well trained and patied saddle horses continues good. The heavy swells are fond of horseback riding.

HOW TO ORDER BABY'S DINNERS.
 A Help For Anxious Mothers in Catering For Their Little Pets.

Beef broth with vermicelli; bran or whole meal bread and the best butter obtainable; lightly boiled lamb chop, uniced and seasoned with salt; spinach boiled tender and mashed through a puree sieve, served plain with cream or in broth; baked potato with salt; orange tapioca for dessert. Fruit juices may be used freely as a drink.

Chicken broth with rice; broiled tenderloin steak with salt (no butter); spaghetti plain; brown bread with butter; asparagus tips with cream sauce or stewed celery; cup custard for dessert.

Mutton broth, with white meat of chicken cut into very small pieces; potatoes stewed in milk; cauliflower or spinach; bread and butter; orange float for dessert.

Beef tea; stewed squal; boiled rice; bread and butter; Bermuda onions stewed very soft in milk; junket with egg for dessert.

Onion soup made with milk; roast beef rare and minced boiled spaghetti with dish gravy; spinach or stewed celery; bread and butter; rice pudding for dessert.

Strained vegetable soup; stewed lamb, rejecting all fat; mashed potatoes; spinach or stewed tomatoes, the latter strained and thickened with barley flour or stale bread crumbs; bread and butter; junket made with the essence of peepsin for dessert.

Beef broth; boiled or broiled fish, with or without egg sauce; boiled macaroni with milk; boiled asparagus tips; stewed celery or Bermuda onions; gela-tin with whipped cream for dessert.

How to Prevent a Black Eye.
 There is nothing to compare with a tincture or strong infusion of capsicum annuum, mixed with an equal bulk of mullage or gum arabic and with the addition of a few drops of glycerin. This should be painted all over the bruised surface with a camel's hair pencil and allowed to dry on, a second or third coating being applied as soon as the first is dry. If done as soon as the injury is inflicted, the treatment will invariably prevent the blackening of the abused tissue. The same remedy has no equal in rheumatic, sore or stiff neck.

How to Prevent Fading of Cotton Stockings.
 In a general way it may be said that salt and celerity are the best helps to save colors.

Few fancy colors in cotton will bear more than one or two washings without growing dingy. Ammonia in the wash water will help to brighten some reds. There is, however, so much variation in the dyestuffs and the dyeing that no certain rule is possible. Sugar of lead water and black pepper tea are held by some good laundresses sovereign for any colored cottons.

Shake your stockings free of dirt and dust, wash them in plenty of fresh, clean suds, rinse well and dry quickly while wrong side out. Iron dry slightly damp, folding the stockings carefully along the back seam and pressing the iron forward.

Wet very dirty socks, as those of a workman or small boy, with kerosene oil. Let them lie half an hour; then scald with boiling water, to which ammonia or washing soda has been added, till it feels slick to the touch. Stir the socks rapidly round and round in it with a wooden paddle, fish them out in a minute or two and wash as you do the rest. You will be simply amazed to see how much dirt they have lost. Remember not to let them stand too long.

How to Destroy Bad Odors on the Breath.
 A cup of black coffee will destroy the fumes of the malodorous onion. The "fad" of having peppermints and wintergreen cream candies on the table is good, as one of these will destroy the odor left by wine. It would be quite safe to use as a mouth wash and gargle after each meal a glass of water in which has been put a few drops each of eucalypt and myrrh. A bit of orris root might be carried in the pocket for use when necessary, for it, as well as stick cinnamon or ginger, will disguise unpleasant odors.

How to Clear the Voice.
 Methods of many singers differ as to the care of the voice, but for others' benefit it is well to know some of them. Galmeyer, the famous sourette, treats her throat before each performance to a good rubbing with rum and glycerin. Labatt, the great Swedish tenor, ate two salt pickles before going on to sing. Wachtel used the yolk of an egg with sugar. Many drink beer, champagne, soda water or punch. Walter, the tenor, drinks cold coffee without cream, and Geisinger relies on a glass of grog. Xella Trebelli, the famous contralto who died not long ago, always drank lemonade before she went on the stage. Kinderman chewed dried prunes during the intervals, and Southern swore by a pinch of snuff before each aria. Some singers will not smoke at all on the day they expect to sing, while others claim that a cigarette before the curtain rises puts them in best voice.

How to Cook Trout For Breakfast.
 Clean, wash and dry the fish, roll lightly in flour and fry in butter or clarified dripping. Let the fat be hot. Fry quickly to a delicate brown and take up the trout the instant they are done. Lay for a moment upon a hot folded napkin to absorb whatever grease may cling to their speckled sides. Then range them side by side on a heated dish, garnish and send to the table. Use no seasoning except salt, and that only when the fish are fried in lard or unsalted dripping.

How to Iron Knitted Silk.
 Do not sprinkle it. Roll up the garments in a thick towel wrung out of clear water and let them lie for an hour. Then lay them very smooth and press hard on both sides with a heavy iron just below scorching heat. Iron always lengthwise a knit garment and be sure there are no wrinkles on the under side.

From LaGrippe.

How Dr. Miles' Nerve Restored One of Kentucky's Business Men to Health.

No DISEASE has ever presented so many peculiarities as LaGrippe. No disease leaves its victims so debilitated, useless, sleepless, nervous, as LaGrippe.

Mr. D. W. Hilton, state agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Kentucky, says: "In 1889 and '90 I had two severe attacks of LaGrippe, the last one attacking my nervous system with such severity that my life was despaired of. I had not slept for more than two months except by the use of narcotics that stupefied me, but gave me no rest. I was only conscious of intense mental weakness, agonizing bodily pain and the fact that I was hourly growing weaker.

When in this condition, I commenced using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve. In two days I began to improve and in one month's time I was cured, much to the surprise of all who knew of my condition. I have been in excellent health since and have recommended your remedies to many of my friends."
