GARFIELD NEWS.

New School House Built—A Church to be Erected—Wedding Bells.

GARFIELD, June 17.—Our new school house in the Tracy district is in process of construction. The frame is up and the rustic all on. The work and materials were all raised by subscription, as we were tired of being taxed, and it would take so long to wait for the mill to grind it through, and it costs so much less to build the same sized house by subscription. We are quite proud of the building. It was badly needed, as the old building was much too small to accommodate all our scholars.

A subscription is being taken up to build a church near J. P. Ivan's of all denominations can have a chance to preach to us up here. The old church building is away to one side.

Mr. DeLrich's team ran away with a load of lumber. He was thrown from the wagon and it ran over his body lengthwise. He was picked up unconscious. At this writing he is slowly recovering.

There was a wedding in Garfield the 16th, the contracting parties being Mr. R. H. Deshazer of Sandy and Miss Tillie M. Palmateer, of Garfield, both highly respected young people. Those present at the wedding were Wm. D. Leonard, Miss Myrtle Douglas, Miss Minnie Palmateer, Miss Kate Palmateer, Masters Ralph Gibson and Wid. and Bert Palmateer, Susie Reed, Dora Gibson, Louis Palmateer, Kena Palmateer. After the ceremony all adjourned to the dining room.

MILWAUKEE, July 2.—A reception was tendered Rev. G. Maurer and wife Monday evening in the Evangelical church. Mr. Maurer left four weeks ago for Canada, where he took unto himself a wife. Upon their return to the church Monday evening they were very agreeably surprised to find a crowd of jolly folks awaiting their coming. A bountiful supply of delicious ice cream and cake was on hand, which was served after speech making, and music by the Milwaukee Menore choir. The Rev. gentleman and wife were made to feel welcome in their new home and field of labor, which will be evangelical church work in Milwaukee and vicinity.

The young graduates, eight in number—five girls and three boys—looked very nice as they sat under the folds of the large American flag, surrounded by the artistic decorations. The exercises received the most respectful attention from the audience and were pronounced very good. Rev. J. W. Cowan, of Oregon City, delivered the address to the class, and Milwaukee people felt that it would have been difficult to have found a man capable of doing it better. Music was furnished by the male choir and other local singers, and was much appreciated. J. G. Bonnet presented the diplomas to the class, giving at the same time words of advice and encouragement. The class is the first for the Milwaukee school. Their certificates will admit them to the Portland high school without further examination. The names of the graduates are Martha Boss, George H. Prideaux, Mammie Mullin, William Scott, Rose Dehamer, Fred W. Birkemeier, Julia Wetzler and Mabel Miller.

HUNGARIAN BROME GRASS.

It Resists Intense Cold and Withstands Protracted Drought.

Hungarian brome grass, sometimes called awless brome, is a vigorous, hardy perennial, with strong, creeping root stalks, smooth, upright, leafy stems one to three feet high and a loose, open panicle or head. It is a native of Europe. The name Hungarian brome originated doubtless from the fact that the cultivation of the grass was first brought to notice in Hungary. The department of agriculture calls attention to this grass in a circular issued from the division of botany.

While this grass will grow on lands too poor for the more valued agricultural grasses and under conditions of climate which would entirely preclude the culture of these last, the better the conditions the better the growth. The reported yield is one to three tons to the acre. At the central experimental farm, Ottawa, the pure plot culture gave at one cutting a yield of 3 3/4 tons of cured hay, and the station reports, nearly without exception, praise it in the highest terms.

HUNGARIAN BROME GRASS.

It is evident from these reports that the grass is little influenced by changes of climate. In Canada, in Mississippi, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming and California it appears to do equally well. It is resistant to intense cold, to sudden and extreme changes of temperature and withstands protracted drought better than any other cultivated variety. In ordinary and poor soils the stems are only 12 to 18 inches high. Under most favorable conditions they attain the height of 3 to 4 feet. The underground stems (root stocks) grow most rapidly in light, sandy loam, but they penetrate with apparent ease the stiffest clays and in all cases form a dense, tough sod.

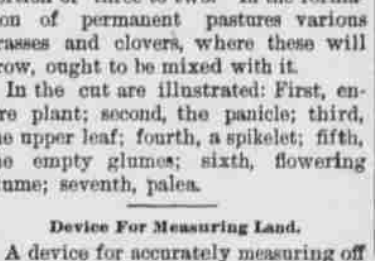

Hungarian brome ought to be cut when first coming into bloom. After this period the stems rapidly become hard and woody and valueless for hay. At present, however, this grass is esteemed more for grazing. In the southern states it remains green throughout the year and in some sections may prove to be valuable for winter pastures. In portions of the arid regions of the west and in parts of California where the finer grasses have failed this brome has grown well.

The seed of Hungarian brome may be obtained from the leading seedsmen in the larger cities. The amount required per acre is variously given at from 30 to 50 pounds. It may be sown in the autumn with winter wheat or in early spring; for the southern states, February or March. The preparation of the land is the same as for other grasses or grain. In the north it blooms in June and of course somewhat earlier in the southern states. It is usually sowed unmixt because of its liability to choke out other plants. In Hungary it is sometimes mixed with lucern in proportion of three to two. In the formation of permanent pastures various grasses and clovers, where these will grow, ought to be mixed with it.

In the cut are illustrated: First, entire plant; second, the panicle; third, the upper leaf; fourth, a spikelet; fifth, the empty glumes; sixth, flowering glume; seventh, palea.

A device for accurately measuring off any piece of level land is given herewith. An old wheel from some cast off buggy or other vehicle is required and may be of any convenient size. Make and fix the handles as shown, so that the wheel may revolve easily on its axis. To use the device, mark one spoke with a strip of cloth or a dab of white paint and roll the wheel carefully along the desired boundary, with a stake or other object as a guide for the eye. Count the number of revolutions the wheel makes as the distance is traversed by the wheel, and by multiplying the number of these revolutions by the circumference of the wheel the length in feet may be found. To get the circumference the wheel may be measured with a tape line or string, says a Louisiana correspondent of the New England
